PREFACE.

Custom ordains that a Book must have a Preface: where, however, an Introduction immediately follows, that Preface may, most conveniently, be very brief.

To give any adequate idea of the nature of the miscellaneous matter of which the present volume is composed, it would be necessary to transcribe the Table of Contents.

The several Articles are very varied in their nature, but they all have one feature in common; they illustrate, directly or indirectly, the history of S. Paul's Cathedral. The larger portion of the book is now printed from manuscript sources, the originals of which are to be found in the Cathedral Archive Room, the Public Record Office, the British Museum, or the Archiepiscopal Library at Lambeth. Other parts of the Volume are reproductions of very rare, if not unique, printed tracts or broadsides. A few articles, and these for the most part very brief, have been gathered from more recent sources, because they illustrate other documents now for the first time printed.

The Editor regards with particular interest the Section of the Volume, Articles III. to IX., devoted to Liturgical fragments: the Office of S. Erkenwald, and the Office of SS. Peter and Paul, in particular, are rare examples of special local Offices. In the judgment of a learned Liturgiologist to whom they have been submitted, they are well worthy of preservation, and are of extremely rare occurrence in England.

The History of the Great Fire of 1561, to which the noble spire of the Cathedral fell a victim, has never been so fully told as in Articles XVI. to XVIII. Great importance attaches also to Article XXX. with its accurate Ground Plan of the Cloisters taken in 1657; whilst musicians will read the group of papers relating to the Cathedral Organ, Articles XXXIII. to XXXV. with considerable interest. A Ballad, and a couple of jeux d'esprits (Articles XVIII. XXVI. and XXXI.), may serve to amuse those who desire lighter reading.

At some future time Dugdale's History of S. Paul's Cathedral must be edited anew, by a learned and competent Editor, who can devote time and loving labour to the work. If the present volume should render some little help to the future historian of the Cathedral, and should, in the mean time, throw a light on a few obscure but very interesting points in its history, the compiler will be amply rewarded for his pleasant toil.

INTRODUCTION.

Article I.

The volume opens with a series of Indulgences granted by the Pope or by individual Bishops. The archives of the Cathedral are very rich in these Indulgences, for no less than seventy-six, ranging from 1201 to 1387, are preserved in the Archive Room.^a In the Southern Province, Canterbury granted six Indulgences, London seven, Bath and Chichester one each; Exeter, Lincoln, Rochester, and Winchester, two each; Coventry and Lichfield, and Worcester, three; Ely, Salisbury, and Hereford, five; whilst Norwich, still more liberally, granted seven. Nor was Wales behindhand, S. David's, Bangor, and Llandaff granting two, two, and three respectively. In the Northern Province the interest somewhat diminished, for York, Carlisle, and Durham granted but one Indulgence apiece. Ireland, however, did not forget the wants of London, for the Bishops of Cashel, Connor, Down, Elphin, Killaloe, and Leighlin lend their aid. A single Indulgence from the Bishop of Brechin represents the contribution from Scotland. Nor are foreign prelates slow to indicate their sympathy; Cardinal Otho, Cardinal Siran de Sully (Archbishop of Bourges), and the Archbishop of Cologne add their names to the long list.

Sometimes the object sought is the repair of the Cathedral generally, and the contribution is to be made ad fabricam Ecclesiæ; sometimes to particular works in the Cathedral, ad partem australem, vetus et novum opus, ad fabricam veteris operis et Campanilis, ad

^a In Appendix A. will be found a tabulated list of these Indulgences, which I have compiled from the originals.

Capellam S. Mariæ et S. Johannis Baptistæ noviter fundatam, in which cases the Indulgences acquire some additional interest as supplying the precise date at which a portion of the Cathedral was built or repaired. In one instance the proceeds are to be devoted ad fabricam Ecclesiæ vel sustentationem luminaris.

Six of the later Indulgences were granted for the repair of Paul's Cross, which had been grievously shaken by winds and storms, and by the great earthquake of 1382.^a It was, in fact, nearly ruinous: and Archbishop Courtney issues what we should now-a-days call an appeal for its restoration. This great earthquake has left its mark upon our national annals. There are two very curious references to it in Political Poems and Songs relating to English History, edited by Thomas Wright, in the series of Chronicles published under the superintendence of the Master of the Rolls. The first is found in a song "On the Earthquake of 1382," printed from a manuscript in the British Museum: ^b

"For sothe this was a Lord to drede,
 So sodeynly mad mon agast;
 Of gold and selver thei tok non hede,
 But out of ther houses ful sone thei past.
 Chaumbres, chymeneys, al to-barst,
 Chirches and castelles foule gon fare;
 Pinacles, steples, to grounde hit cast;
 And al was for warnyng to be ware.

 The rysing of the comynes in londe,
 The pestilens, and the eorthe-qwake,
 Theose threo thinges, I understonde,
 Beoth tokenes the grete vengauce and wrake
 That schulde falle for synnes sake,
 As this clerkes conne declare.
 Now may we chese to leve or take,
 For warnyng have we to be ware."^c

^a See Appendix L.

^b Addit. MSS. 22, 283, fol. 132, v^o.

^c Political Poems and Songs, I. 251, 252.

The second occurs in the same volume in a song "On the Council of London." The earthquake happened at the very moment when the Council was proceeding to business.

"In hoc terræmotu ab hora diei,
Quia tunc convenerant Scribæ, Pharissæi,
Cum summis sacerdotibus contra Christum Dei,
Vultus iræ patuit divinæ faciei.

With an O and an I, sanctos diffamarunt,
Per hæreses et schismata quæ falsa patrarunt." ^a

The mention of Paul's Cross suggests that this may be a very suitable place in which to record an interesting discovery. Mr. F. C. Penrose, the Cathedral Surveyor, who had for some little time been carrying on a series of excavations in the immediate vicinity of the Cathedral with a view to the discovery of the exact site of the Cloisters, Chapter House, and other portions of Old S. Paul's, communicated to the Royal Institute of British Architects some important Notes on S. Paul's Cathedral, with an excellent plan of the existing Church superimposed on that of the old. The plan is dated 27 January, 1879, and gives the recent discoveries (of the sites of the Cloister and Chapter House) up to that date. Encouraged by his great successes Mr. Penrose continued his investigations, and on April 2, 1879, I had the great pleasure of receiving from him a note, in which he says, "We have found the foundations of S. Paul's Cross." On the following day Mr. Penrose addressed a letter to the Society of Antiquaries (printed in their Proceedings, viii. 93), in which he says:

"We have discovered the site of S. Paul's Cross. What has been found is evidently the podium, an octagon of about 37 feet across. I inclose a tracing, which shows that a portion of the podium actually coincided with the wall of the present Cathedral. The old walls would have been about twelve feet distant. The site was thus a good deal nearer the Cathedral walls than is shown in your Society's picture, or in any of the old representations. It conforms, however, very well to the suitableness of things, for there were galleries formed between the old buttresses, and the occupants of these galleries would have had good places. The sides of the cross were not parallel to the axis of the old Cathedral, but occupy very nearly the directions of the cardinal points."

Occasionally, the pilgrims to S. Paul's are enjoined to pray for the souls of particular persons: as, for example, for Ralph de Baldock, successively Dean and Bishop, who is named in twelve indulgences; Richard de Wendover, Prebendary of Rugmere, who died in 1252; Roger Niger, Bishop of London, who is named in eleven; Alexander de Swerford, Treasurer from 1231 to 1246; Henry de Cornhill, Dean from 1244 to 1254; Hervey de Borham, Dean from 1274 to 1276; Henry de Wingham, Archdeacon of Middlesex; and for the lady Ysabelle de Brus, daughter of William, King of Scotland, and wife to Robert, Lord Bruce of Annandale.

Sometimes a particular Altar^a is to be visited; sometimes special prayers are to be said, as, the Lord's Prayer, or the Angelic Salutation; sometimes a particular day is named on which the Cathedral is to be visited (usually the Feast of the Dedication); but frequently the only condition is the usual one that the devotee must have made the customary confession. The term during which the Indulgence is to continue in force is indicated in five instances: in one of these it is to be valid per septennium, in the remainder in perpetuum. The number of days indulgence to be obtained varies very greatly, from eight days (granted by the Bishop of Killaloe in 1255) to the grant of one hundred days of Cardinal Siran de Sully, and the still more munificent grant of one year and forty days of Pope Innocent IV.: forty-five out of the seventy-six indulgences agree in granting forty days.

We cannot but share in the regret expressed by Dean Milman,^b

^a A list of Altars in the Cathedral will be found in Appendix B.

^b Milman, Annals, 160, 161, 519-521.

that we are unable to ascertain the proceeds of these various indulgences; on this point the Cathedral Archives are, I believe, silent. These documents seem to have served the purpose which Briefs and King's Letters served in later times.

A disquisition as to the exact effect and value of these Indulgences would be unsuited to the present volume: it will suffice to quote the words of Dean Milman in his Latin Christianity.^a "The Indulgence, originally the remission of so much penance, of so many days, weeks, months, years; or of that which was the commutation for penance, so much almsgiving or munificence to churches or churchmen, in sound at least extended (and mankind, the high and low vulgar of mankind, are governed by sound) its significance: it was literally understood, as the remission of so many years, sometimes centuries, of Purgatory."

The examples printed in the present volume have been very carefully selected, with a view to exhibit the principal types of the Indulgences still preserved in our Record Room.

The second section of the volume needs little annotation here. Its sole value lies in the fact that it casts light on the relations subsisting between the Bishop and the Chapter.

Article II.

The succeeding section of the volume (Articles III. to IX.) is purely liturgical. It comprises two Offices of Thomas of Lancaster, three Offices of S. Erkenwald, an Office for the Commemoration of SS. Peter and Paul, and a somewhat remarkable collection of Collects.

Articles
III.—IX.

The connection of these Offices with the Cathedral will at once be obvious. A tablet erected in the Cathedral to commemorate Thomas of Lancaster was the scene of the miracles alleged to have been wrought by virtue of his intercession. The shrine of the sainted Bishop of London, S. Erkenwald, rich in gold and gems, with its wonder-working sapphire, was one of the great treasures of the

^a Latin Christianity, Book XIV. Ch. 2, Vol. ix. 92-3, ed. 1872.

Cathedral, to which pilgrims thronged from distant dioceses. S. Paul, the great Apostle of the Gentiles, was the patron saint of the Cathedral. The Collects were collected by one of the Chantry Priests.

Articles
III. IV.

The popular devotion to Thomas of Lancaster, grandson of Henry III., "who united in his possession the five earldoms of Lancaster, Lincoln, Leicester, Salisbury, and Derby,"^a found expression in religious Offices of very doubtful authority. "It was pretended that miracles had been wrought at his tomb, and on the hill where he was beheaded," says Lingard,^b quoting Leland. Leland's words are these: "Here folowid a Chapitre of the miracles that men sayde that God wrought for Thomas a Lancastre. And for Resorte of People to the Monte, where Thomas was beheddid, Baldok the Chauncelar caussid xiiii. Gascoynes welle armid to watch the Hille a certen tyme."^c "Soon after the coronation of the young King, a letter was written at the request of the commons in parliament to the Pope to ask for the canonisation of Lancaster, and of his friend, Robert, Archbishop of Canterbury. The request was not noticed."^d The French Chronicle of London^e gives additional details, under the date 1322-3, 16 Edward II.

"At this time, God wrought many miracles in the Church of S. Paul, at the tablet there which the said Thomas of Lancaster made; in remembrance that the King had granted and confirmed the ordinances which were made by Saint Robert de Winchelse, Archbishop of Canterbury, and by all the great and wise men of England, to the great profit of all the realm. In which place the crooked were made straight, the blind received their sight, and the deaf their hearing, and other beneficial works of grace were there openly shown."

The reverence paid to Thomas of Lancaster reached to such a height, and was so unpalatable to the King, that on 28 June, 1323,

Edward the Second addressed a peremptory letter^a to the Bishop of London (Stephen Gravesend), in which he states that prayers, oblations, “seu alia ad cultum Divinum tendentia,” had been paid by the people “ad quendam Tabulam” in the Cathedral Church, upon which Tabula was portrayed the effigy of Thomas, “quondam comitis Lancastriæ, inimici et rebelli Nostri.” This had been permitted without the authority of the Holy See;^b the bishop himself had connived at it: and the King does not hesitate to impute most unworthy motives, “causa quæstus seu turpis lucri fieri dissimulastis.” The people are to be restrained from these devotions, that the indignation of God and the King may be avoided.

The French Chronicle of London will tell the sequel.

“And after this, at the Translation of S. Thomas [i. e. of Canterbury, 7 July], by the King’s writ, issued from the Chancery, the tablet in the Church of S. Paul, as also the wax taper that was there offered in devotion to the martyr, was with great rigour taken away and removed; but still, for all that, the devotion of the people was not wholly put an end to, oblations being still made at the pillar from which the tablet had been hung.”^c

I am able to present two of the Offices of Saint Thomas of Lancaster, as he was popularly called, although, as we have seen, he was never actually canonized. The first of these is taken from a manuscript in private possession. The second has been already printed in the Camden Society’s publications, but I make no apology for reprinting it in this volume, as it is obviously desirable that the two Offices should stand side by side, and as the existence of such an Office in the particular volume in which it is found would hardly be suspected from its title.^d Both are interesting as proving with the greatest clearness the hold which this culte had obtained upon the minds of the people:^a and both may fitly find place in the present volume, because the alleged miracles are said to have been performed in S. Paul's Cathedral "at the Tablet there which the said Thomas of Lancaster made." The shorter Office, at least, may probably have been said by many a pilgrim before this very tablet.

^a It will be found in Appendix D.

^b The King’s devotion to the Holy See is very admirable: one wonders whether it would have been displayed quite as eagerly if Thomas had not been “inimicus et rebellis Noster.”

Other relics of this devotion to Thomas of Lancaster have been met with. A richly embroidered chasuble of the time of Henry VII. was discovered in 1824 "in a walled-up crypt underneath the chancel of the parish church of Warrington." Dr. Rock has carefully described the vestment, and has pronounced one of the figures upon the orphreys, that of a man fully armed holding a battle-axe in his left hand, to be the effigy^b of the famous Earl: and he adds that the hill where he was beheaded, near Pontefract, used to be frequented as a place of pilgrimage. "Little leaden, or rather pewter, brooches have been discovered in London and elsewhere, representing knights in armour holding battle-axes. May not some of these appertain to Thomas of Lancaster, and have been worn as signs by those who visited his place of execution, and the tomb wherein rested his mortal remains in the Priory Church at Pomfret?"^c

Articles V. VI. Article V. exhibits a short Office consisting only of Oratio, Secreta, and Post Communio appointed for use on S. Erkenwald's Days by Bishop Braybrooke, who issued, in 1386, a Monition for the better observance of the Feasts of the Deposition and Translation of the sainted Bishop. The Days had fallen into desuetude, and the Bishop warmly exhorts the faithful to observe them duly.

^a The "Felt of S. Thomas of Lancaster, a remedy for the headache," is enumerated in a list of relics (Herbert, 431), in a note to the Travels of Nicander Nucius (Camden Soc.), 106.

^b A paper by Mr. H. Syer Cuming upon this effigy will be found in the Journal of the British Archaeological Association, xxxv. 385; an engraving of the figure is appended to the paper.

I am indebted to the Rev. J. Fuller Russell for permission to transcribe from an exquisite Book of Hours in his possession the Prayers to S. Erkenwald and the Antiphon which form Article VI.

The next portion of the volume, comprising Articles VII. VIII. and IX.^a will be found to contain matter of still greater interest to the liturgical student. It is, I hope, a fragment, and so far as I am aware the only extant fragment, of the ancient "Use of S. Paul's." It consists of three parts, an Office of S. Erkenwald, an Office for the Commemoration of S. Peter and S. Paul, and a short series of detached Collects. I had the good fortune to discover these Offices in one of Cole's Manuscripts in the British Museum^b under the somewhat vague title of a "Manual for the Clergy of London Diocese." The original manuscript from which Cole made his transcript is, I fear, not now to be discovered: but Cole shall tell, in his own words, all that is at present known about it.

Tho' I have been in Possession of the Manual above 6 months, yet Illness for all that time has made it impossible to look at it, or do any Thing with it, till March 28, 1782, and indeed now my Hand is by no means fit for the Employment. Yet I don't love to detain books longer than proper.^a

I find that Thomas Batmanson, Priest, was collated by B^p Bonner, of London, to the Vicarage of Kensington in Middlesex 13 Jan. 1556, and died in 1558 (Newcourt's Repertorium, vol. i. p. 680, v. p. 258). All that is written by Mr Battmanson I shall include in inverted Commas that the original may be known from his additions:^b tho' I hardly think it worth while to transcribe it at all, it being only a Common Manual that the Clergy used to carry about with them, when printed Books were not very common.

I found the task would be endless to put the Hymns and verses in regular order,^c and so left them as in the MS. which was designed no doubt for the Diocese of London or S. ^c I am obliged to admit that the task of arranging the Offices in order has been one of considerable difficulty. There are still one or two portions as to which it is very hard to decide whether they should be arranged rhythmically or not.

^d Professor Stubbs, Registrum Sacrum Anglicanum, gives 675 A.D. as the date of S. Erkenwald's consecration. and [693] Ap. 30, as the date of his death.

^e These references are to the second edition of Dugdale.

Cantabrigienses, amongst the list of masters of that College, gives his name and date thus: "1775, Ricardus Farmer, S.T.P. Protobibliothec. 1778;" to which may be added, "ob. 8 Sept. 1797, ætat. 63." (Le Neve's Fasti, edit. Hardy.) The Rev. Dr. Phear, the present Master of Emmanuel, writes, in answer to a letter of inquiry, to say that the manuscript is not to be found in the College Library; and adds, "Our librarian tells me that it is not included in the list of books which we possess, in Dr. Farmer's Collection." Mr. Bradshaw, the University Librarian, informs me that he has not met with it: nor can I find it in the British Museum. It is much to be regretted that the original cannot be consulted.

Our knowledge of the compiler of the collection of Collects is very limited. We know that he was Vicar of Kensington, and we know, approximately, the date of his death.^a Fuller^b prints a certificate, "returned by the Dean and Chapter of Pauls to his highness' commissioners," 19 April, 2 Edw. VI. in which they affirm "that they had forty-seven chantries within their church," and here the name of Mr. Thomas Batemanson occurs as priest of Sheryngton's Chantry. Sir Henry Ellis in his edition of Dugdale^c prints a "Return of Chantries in S. Paul's," dated 1 January, 1 Edw. VI., in which the priests of this Chantry are said to be "Sir Thomas Bateman and Sir John Wylmy," who received "for ther Salaries xvij li." As Batemanson was the transcriber of the Collects, it is clear that he must have made his compilation before November 1558.

Cole assumes that the manuscript is a common Manual, or one of the ordinary books "that the Clergy used to carry about with them." This is a hasty and erroneous conclusion, although our gratitude to the Antiquary for his transcript of the manuscript will prevent our criticising very keenly his opinions as to its value.

Although the transcription of the Collects upon the blank pages of the original manuscript did not perhaps take place till the middle of the sixteenth century, the main body of the original manuscript is of far earlier date.

Perhaps the most interesting question which arises with regard to this Office of S. Erkenwald is that of the exact period to which it belongs. It will be remembered that Cole says that the original MS. was "of about Edward IVths Time," that is, between 1460 and 1483. Now in 1386 Bishop Braybrooke issued a Monition to the Archdeacon of London^a in which he laments the disuse into which the solemn observance of the days of S. Erkenwald and of S. Paul had fallen throughout the Diocese, and even (apparently) in the Cathedral itself. In future the day of the Conversion of S. Paul (25 January), the day of the Commemoration of S. Paul (June 30), the day of the Deposition (the original burial) of S. Erkenwald (April 30), and the day of the Translation of S. Erkenwald (Nov. 14) are to be observed, each of them, "sicut sacrum diem dominicum." He appoints an order of service for the feasts of S. Erkenwald, "cum servitio de Communi unius Confessoris et Pontificis, tam ad matutinas quam ad missas, cum orationibus in ipsis missis dicendis." These prayers consist of an Oratio, Secreta, and Post-Communio: and he concludes by granting an indulgence of forty days to those who shall duly observe these feasts. No time was lost in carrying out his pious intention. The monition is dated 20 April, and on the 27th day of the same month the Official of the Archdeacon of London, in obedience to the Episcopal Monition, called together the Clergy of his Archdeaconry to the Church of S. Martin in Vinetria,^a and communicated to them in set terms^b the commands of the Diocesan. I think we may infer that, if the very complete Office now printed had been then in use, Bishop Braybrooke would have either enjoined or prohibited it: he would hardly have issued the short form already referred to if the longer Office had been then composed. Hence I conclude that the Office was certainly drawn up after the year 1386. In the Statutes of the Cathedral, compiled by Ralph de Baldock,^c and carried down to his own time by Thomas Lisieux,^d there is a very careful enumeration of the principal Festivals arranged according to their dignity and importance.^e Amongst the Festivals of the First Class, “festivitates primæ dignitatis quæ apud nos duplices dicuntur,” are the two feasts of S. Erkenwald and the two feasts of S. Paul.^f I cannot assign an exact date to this portion of the Statutes: but it prepares one to expect that feasts “primæ dignitatis” would have a complete Office. Henry Wharton says^g that on October 15, 1414, Bishop Clifford, with the consent of the Chapter, decreed that, from the first day of December following, the Divine Offices should be celebrated at S. Paul’s according to the use of Sarum; the old Use, called the Use of S. Paul’s, being laid aside. But Dugdale,^h who seems to be Wharton’s authority in this matter, guards his statement a little more carefully, saying that Bishop Clifford ordained that from the date given above "the solemn celebration of Divine service, which before that time had been according to a peculiar form anciently used and called Usus Sancti Pauli, should thenceforth be conformable to that of the Church of Salisbury for all canonical hours both night and day." The distinction between the two accounts is by no means unimportant: for, as Mr. Maskell acutely observes,^a "we have the best evidence that in the Cathedral of S. Paul the Use of Sarum was not admitted without also the retaining of some of its own old peculiar ceremonies." He shows, moreover, that the decision of the "venerabiles Cardinales^b Ecclesiæ Sancti Pauli" was invited, and was taken as decisive, in respect of a question which had arisen with regard to the saying of the Hymn Verbum supernum.^c The Defensorium Directorii ad usum Sarum which Mr. Maskell is quoting, was printed in 1488:^d and there the following statement is found: "Probatur ista assertio vera per venerabiles viros ac patres canonicos ecclesiæ Sancti Pauli Londonensis, qui totum officium divinum in cantando et legendo observant, secundum usum Sarum ecclesiæ. Sed de cæremoniis vel observationibus ejusdem nihil curantes: sed custodiant antiquas observantias in ecclesia Sancti Pauli a primordio illic usitatas."^e This passage supplies very important evidence, as it shows that, although the Sarum Use was introduced into the Cathedral, the ancient ceremonies and observances of the Cathedral were retained.^f I should ^f "That the old Use of S. Paul's was held in high estimation, we have a proof in an order relating to Barking Monastery, in Essex, about 1390," in which it is directed that, according to the ancient Customs of that House, "conventus prædictus tres modos diversos habeat sui servitii dicendi; primo horas suas dicat secundum regulam Sancti Benedicti; Psalterium suum secundum cursum Curie Romanæ; Missam vero secundum Usum Ecclesiæ Sancti Pauli Londoniarum." think, however, that the two Offices now printed, of S. Paul and S. Erkenwald, must certainly be earlier than Bishop Clifford's time. Probably we shall not be far wrong if we consider that they sprang from the ardour and devotion kindled by Bishop Braybrooke's Monition, and that we may venture to assign them to the close of the fourteenth century. I believe that we have in these two Offices the only known relics of the Ancient Use of S. Paul's Cathedral.

I have seen the Missale secundum usum Ecclesie D. Pauli, London,^a as it is called, preserved in the British Museum; once a fair and lovely volume, but now robbed of its illuminations, which have been cut from its pages by some ruthless hand. It was certainly the property of some great church in London, and very probably the tradition which assigns it to the Cathedral is correct; but it is later than 1414, and its rubrics are throughout according to the Use of Sarum.^b It has a noticeable peculiarity, however, which Mr. Maskell had met with only in one other example (that of the Hereford missal), the introduction of the prayer Agimus tibi Deo Patri gratias into the Canon.

It is to be observed that the prayer Omnipotens sempiterne Deus, together with the Post-Communio and the Secreta, found in Bishop Braybrooke's Monition,^c are incorporated into the Office of S. Erkenwald.^d It is also obvious to remark, that this Office is modelled, so far as its ground-work is concerned, upon that enjoined in the Sarum Breviary for use In Natali unius Confessoris et Pontificis;^e whilst the Office for SS. Peter and Paul is based upon the Commune Apostolorum,^f and the office In Natali unius Apostoli.^g This resemblance extends to the Hymns, and in many instances to the Versicles, but not to the substance of the Offices.

The Acta Sanctorum indicates the existence of another early missal of English use:

“Nomen S. Erconwaldi exhibet Missale Anglicanum Cœnobii Gemmeticensis^a annis abhinc sexcentis scriptum, et ex variis Missalibus ac Breviariis compilatum ejusdem Cœnobii Kalendarium ita habet: Apud Lundoniam Depositio S. Erkenwaldi Episcopi et Confessoris. In Missali Sarisburiensi anni MDIV. festum Translationis ad xiv Novembris agendum apponitur.

Habemus MS. quoddam Benedictinorum Kalendarium, in quo S. Erkonwaldus Episcopus Londinensis ponitur xxix Januarii, cujus singularitatis causam nescimus divinare.”^b

Amongst the books enumerated at the Visitation of the Cathedral by Dean Ralph de Baldock^c in April, 1295, mention is made of a Collect of S. Erkenwald not included in the Offices here printed:

“Item Capitularium, et quædam missæ speciales, incipit Deus qui contritorum, finit autem de S. Erkenwaldo, Guberna familiam tuam.”

nor should we omit to mention:

“Omeliū magnum de peroptima litera, quod fuit Radulphi de Diceto Decani . . . finit in Rubrica in Octab. S. Erkenewaldi, lectio S. Evangelii &c.”^d

Most probably this volume, “de peroptima litera,” was, like our fine Statuta Majora, the product of the Scriptorium of the Cathedral. Where are these noble volumes now? Not all destroyed. A grand copy of Ralph de Diceto’s History, once at S. Paul’s,^e is now in the Archiepiscopal Library at Lambeth. In the Library of King’s College, Aberdeen, is a manuscript collection of the miracles of the B. V. Mary, written in the thirteenth century: in a hand of the fifteenth century is an inscription recording that the book was “datus nove librarie ecclesie S. Pauli apostoli Londoniis.” No doubt many other waifs and strays are scattered up and down in private collections, and even in public libraries, in England and on the Continent. Ford, in his Handbook of Spain (third edition, vol. i. 370), tells visitors to Valencia to “inquire particularly in the sacristia to see the terno,^a and complete set of three frontales, or coverings for the Altar,^b which were purchased in London by two Valencian merchants, named Andrea and Pedro de Medina, at the sale by Henry VIII. of the Romish decorations of S. Paul’s. They are embroidered in gold and silver, are about twelve feet long by four, and represent subjects from the life of the Saviour. In one—Christ in Limbo—are introduced turrets, evidently taken from those in the Tower of London. They are placed on the High Altar from Saturday to Wednesday in the Holy Week.” He also mentions a missal, “said to have belonged to Westminster Abbey before the Reformation,” as amongst the treasures at Valencia. Whither Altar-cloths have been conveyed,^c some of the ritual books of the Cathedral may also have strayed.

The collects contained in Article IX. are, I think, well worthy of Article IX. preservation.^d With a few exceptions they are not the same as those found in the Sarum Missal, and have, therefore, an independent interest of their own. It is not improbable that they, too, are fragments of the ancient Use of S. Paul’s.

In Article X. will be found a transcript of a small manuscript Articles X. XI. entirely in the hand of the learned Henry Wharton, the well-known ^b Several communications relating to these Altar-cloths will be found in Notes and Queries (series iv. vol. ix. 317, 416, 475; vol. x. 60). The Altar Frontals are said to be three in number, and of exquisite texture. They are embroidered with the subjects of the Ascension of our Lord and the Assumption of the B. V. Mary.

Lambeth Librarian; whose Anglia Sacra, and whose Historia de Episcopis et Decanis Londonensibus, do but make the antiquary regret the more his early death.^a In Dr. Todd's Catalogue of the Lambeth Manuscripts this volume is described in the following words:—"Excerpta ex Annalibus Matthæi Westmonasteriensis per Canonicum quendam Ecclesiæ S. Pauli London auctis, et ad annum 1341 continuatis." But here, unfortunately, our information ends. Whence did Henry Wharton gather these Excerpta? Who was the Canon of S. Paul's, the Canonicum quendam, to whom we are indebted for some of the notices contained in the Chronicle? These are questions to which no satisfactory answer can as yet be given. Certain, however, it is that the whole of the matter contained in Henry Wharton's manuscript may be found in that "most precious manuscript," as Professor Stubbs call it, Lambeth MS. No. 1106: a volume purchased January 17, 1763, by Archbishop Secker of the Rev. Richard Widmore, M.A., Librarian to the Dean and Chapter of Westminster. Mr. Widmore has made some notes upon the volume, in which he says, "This book certainly belonged to S. Paul's, or some member of that Church, as there are in it several particulars relating to that place to be found in no other copy. The great difference in this from all other MSS. [of the Flores Historiarum of Matthew of Westminster] is the Addition in it from 1307, where all the other copies end, to 1341." Another note in an older hand records that, "This Booke, though stiled Flores Historiarum, is not the same (in many places) with Matthew of Westminster's Flores Historiarum, and seems rather to have been done by some of the Canons of S. Paul's in London." The manuscript itself is of the fourteenth century.

^a He died March 5, 1694-5, in his thirty-first year. A short but highly appreciative and touching notice of Henry Wharton, and of his early death, will be found in Mr. J. R. Green's Stray Studies, 159-163.

Is this the MS. from which Wharton compiled his short Chronicle of S. Pauls? The answer would no doubt have been in the affirmative had not Wharton prefixed the words Bibliotheca Tenisoniana, Vol. I. Fol. to his Excerpts. The history of Lambeth MS. No. 1106 is well known. It was in the possession of Sir Nicholas Brigham, who died in 1559; it then passed into the hands of William Dorell, Prebendary of Canterbury; thence to those of Sir James Ware; thence to the library of Henry, Earl of Clarendon; afterwards to that of the Duke of Chandos, at the auction of whose library it was bought by the Rev. R. Widmore, by whom it was sold, as has been already stated, to Archbishop Secker. It was never, therefore, in Archbishop Tenison's library.

Possibly the compilation now printed may be an exact copy of some manuscript once in Archbishop Tenison's collection; but, however this may be, I have found every entry of the Wharton manuscript in MS. 1106. In the latter, however, these passages do not stand in uninterrupted sequence as they do in the Wharton MS., but are inserted in the body of the Flores Historiarum, save and except the later entries, which are added at the end of the volume. Wharton presents his Excerpts in a briefer form than that in which the Chronicler presents them in MS. No. 1106; and the course which has been taken in preparing this Article for the press has been, to transcribe Wharton's manuscript exactly as it stands (extending, however, many of the contracted words), and to add from MS. 1106 any additional matter which seemed of sufficient importance to be here reproduced.^a All such added matter has been included within square brackets.

The Chronicle itself contains many matters of interest to the historian of S. Paul's, and it is hoped to the general reader also. Amongst these may be mentioned, the duties performed by the Bishop of London, as Dean of the Southern Province, pp. 41, 42; the condemnation of pluralities, implied in the phrase "multarum Rector Ecclesiarum, vel potius incubator," p. 42; the reconciliation of the church and churchyard after bloodshed, effected by the Bishop of S. 52; the wretched end of Robert de Baldock, "in magna angaria^a et vinculis, in nimio squalore," p. 53; a serious dispute in the Cathedral ending in blows upon the face of an unhappy Vicar, not without effusion of blood, p. 54; the consecration of a new bell by Peter Bishop of Corbey, who seems to have been a sort of Episcopal Curate, fulfilling the duties of many Bishops in ordaining, dedicating churches, and other great functions, p. 55; together with numerous notes of the death and burial of distinguished persons.

The quarrel between the Archbishops, and the laying of the City under an interdict, recalls to mind "the celebrated contest between Richard, Archbishop of Canterbury, and Roger, Archbishop of York, in the struggle for precedence" (to borrow the words of the Dean of Westminster in his Memorials of Westminster Abbey), which seems to have been the culminating point in the great disputes for precedence between the two Primates. "The Pope's Legate was present,^b on whose right hand sat Richard of Canterbury, as in his proper place; when in springs Roger of York, and, finding Canterbury so seated, fairly sits him down on Canterbury's lap—a baby too big to be danced thereon; yea Canterbury's servants dandled this large child with a witness, who plucked him from thence and buffeted him to purpose."^b The Archbishop of Canterbury claimed the right side as belonging to his See; the Archbishop of York claimed it in right of his prior consecration. The meeting was held in S. Catherine's Chapel, the Chapel of the Infirmary, attached to Westminster Abbey: the date is 1174. The uproar became general—the unhappy Archbishop of York was thrown to the ground, and beaten with sticks and fists, baculis et pugnīs. The Archbishop of Canterbury, forgetting his wrongs, intreated the people not to hurt his brother of York: and at last the tumult ended, though the council was broken up. A Papal edict ultimately settled the question, giving to Canterbury the title of Primate of all England, and to York the title of Primate of England. In our small local quarrel in 1317 ^a we have only the faint distant echoes of the turbulent brawl at Westminster nearly one hundred and fifty years before.

Article XI.

The Chroniculi S. Pauli,^b which will be found in Article XI. are very short and add little to our knowledge of the Cathedral, but the title of the Manuscript forbade the entire exclusion of this section.

Articles
XII. XIII.

The two following Articles (XII. and XIII.) exhibit the Kalendar and a list of Obits observed in the Cathedral, and are taken from a fine manuscript of the Statutes of S. Paul's, called from its bold handwriting the Statuta Majora,^c together with a detailed account of the payments made on each occasion. The Kalendar is not identical with that of the Sarum, York, or Hereford missals. The reader is recommended not to be repelled by the very dry appearance of Article XIII. It really contains a good deal of information, though, it may be allowed, not conveyed in the most agreeable form, as to the Cathedral Staff, the payments which they received, and the properties on which those payments were charged. I have made a rough calculation as to the total amount of money represented in this list,^d and I find that the annual payments recorded in it reach

^a Infra, pp. 47, 48.

^b The whole Chronicle is so short that I regret I did not print it in its entirety in Article XI. In deference to the suggestions of friends I have atoned for this omission by printing the early part of these Chroniculi in Appendix M. If Appendix M be prefixed to Article XI. the reader will possess the whole of the little volume.

^c The Cathedral possesses a later volume, called the Statuta Minora, far inferior in the size both of the writing and of the volume itself, but containing much more matter.

^d It is not quite easy to add up the total amount: there are some discrepancies in the various sums not readily to be explained.

to about 162*l.* 13*s.* 2*d.*, no inconsiderable sum in the time of Richard the Second. The largest amount paid on the occasion of a single Obit is that of 14*l.*, on the Obit of Thomas Ayswy. To have annotated this long list fully would have burdened the pages somewhat heavily with notes. Short biographical notices of the persons commemorated will be found, arranged in alphabetical order, in Appendix G.

Article XIV. is an Ordinance for the Election of a New Prioress at S. Helen's, Bishopsgate, and is of considerable interest in illustration of the nature of the association existing between the Mother Church of the Diocese and Churches within her jurisdiction. The whole of the proceedings to be taken on the death of a Prioress at S. Helen's are set out in detail. The Sisters are to give notice to the Dean and Chapter of the death of their Superior; two Canons are to be sent to the Nunnery to receive the keys of the Church, which are to be delivered to them by the Sub-Prioress. The Convent then demand from the Dean and Chapter their licence to elect a Prioress, which having been obtained, they proceed to the election. The letters of election duly sealed are sent to the Dean and Chapter. The Prioress elect is led to the high altar, Te Deum is sung, and certain prayers are recited; after which she is conducted to the Chapter, where she takes the oath of fidelity to the Dean and Chapter. Licence is then given to the elect lady and to the sisters to visit for three days their friends, whether within or without the city, a privilege which must have been exceedingly precious, when it is remembered that except on such occasions the sisters never passed the gates of S. Helen's. The three days ended, two Canons were sent from S. Paul's to the Nunnery, who fully admitted the Prioress: saying certain prayers, conducting her to the Chapter, and assigning to her the highest seat, whilst one of the Canons delivered to her the Rule of S. Benedict for Article XIV.

the spiritual government of her house. This article merits careful reading.

Article XV. Article XV. is very short, and unimportant; it recounts some proceedings in relation to a lost Seal. The Seal had been the usual signet of one Henry Jolypas, "Capellani nuper Camerarii Ecclesiæ Cathedralis S. Pauli." It had been stolen by one William Bisshop three days after the death of Jolypas. The evil doer kept it in his possession from the 18th of August, 1431, till the 14th of April, 1434, and then, for some reason not stated, surrendered it to the Executors of the will of the said Henry Jolypas. The Executors appear in full Court before the Mayor and Aldermen and produce the seal, a rude drawing of which is appended to the original entry found amongst the Records of the Corporation of London.

Articles
XVI.-XVIII.

Fire has been always a deadly foe to the Cathedral. "In the year 1087 this Church of S. Paul was burnt with fire, and therewith the greatest part of the City: which Fire began at the entrance of the West Gate, and consumed to the East Gate."^a

And again, "the 1st of February, in the year 1444, about two of the clock in the afternoon, the Steeple of S. Paul's was fired by lightning in the midst of the Shaft or Spire, both on the West side and on the South; but by the labour of many well disposed people, the same, to appearance, quenched with vinegar, so that all men withdrew themselves to their houses, praising God. But between eight and nine of the clock in the same night the fire burst out again more fervently than before, and did much hurt to the lead and timber, till, by the great labour of the mayor and people that came thither, it was thoroughly quenched. This Steeple was repaired in the year 1462, and the weathercock again erected."^b

Articles XVI., XVII., and XVIII. relate to the destructive Fire of 1561: and here I am able to present to the reader the original record inscribed in the Registers of Bishop Grindal by Peter Johnson the Bishop's Registrar. I am not aware that this has ever been printed. It is followed by an account in English, which is virtually a translation of Article XVI.: and to this is added a Ballad, which, although it may have received some trifling modifications, is probably contemporaneous with the event which it commemorates.

This disastrous conflagration, which utterly destroyed the lofty spire^a of the Cathedral (according to Wren's reduced estimate the height exceeded that of the spire of Salisbury Cathedral by nearly fifty feet^b), has made its mark upon the current literature of the time. The height of the spire had passed into a proverb. "Neither purpose ye, for all your bragging, any more to preach to your mass-hunters, than ye intend with your birdbolt to shoot down the weathercock of Paul's Steeple."^c The fire occurred on the 4th of June, 1561; on the 11th of June the Tract reprinted in Article XVII. was entered at Stationers' Hall,^d it is dated June 10.

The English tract was soon translated into French, and was printed in Paris in the same year: the "Privilege" to Guillaume Nyuerd the printer is dated 12 July, 1561. A Latin version dated June 12, 1561, was also issued in London by John Day. The English, the Latin, and the French tracts are all of great rarity. The English tract has, I am aware, been already reprinted,^d but I have thought it very desirable to include it in the present volume for the sake of any who may prefer the quaint vernacular language to the formal Latin of the Episcopal Registrar.

Fuller and Heylyn will have it that the fire was caused by the carelessness of a plumber. Thus Fuller says:^e

"This year [1561] the spire of Paul's Steeple, covered with lead, strangely fell on fire, attributed by several persons to sundry causes: some that it was casually blasted with lightning; others that it was mischievously done by art magic; and others (and they the truest), done by the negligence of a plumber carelessly leaving his coals therein."

and Heylyn^a is still more minute:

"Within these thirty years now last past . . . an old plumber at his death confessed that woful accident to have happened through his negligence only, in leaving carelessly a pan of coals and other fuel in the steeple when he went to dinner; which catching hold of the dry timber in the spire, before his return was grown so dangerous that it was not possible to be quenched, and therefore to no purpose (as he conceived) to make any words of it."

but I am disposed to agree with Mr. Churton,^b in thinking that "The Vera Historia (Reg. Grindal, f. 23), minutely detailed in the episcopal register, by an eye witness, should have precluded some late attempts to ascribe the catastrophe to the carelessness of plumbers in repairing the leads; for the writer of that account assures us that neither plumbers nor other workmen had been employed about the church for six months before, and that the fire was occasioned by lightning."^c

The Cathedral service was transferred for the time being to the adjacent church of S. Gregory, as we learn from Machyn:

1561. "The xxiiij of June, was mydsomer evyn, the serves at sant Gregore chyrche be-syd Powlles [by] the Powlles quer tyll Powlles be rede mad."^d

But by the beginning of November in the same year a portion of the Cathedral was sufficiently restored to allow the resumption of service: for about that time^e "was be-gone the serves at Powlles to synge, and ther was a grett comunion ther be-gane, the byshope and odur."

Steps were taken immediately for the repair of the Cathedral. The Queen herself wrote to Archbishop Parker on the 24th of June urging upon him "the re-edifying of the Church of S. Paul's," and authorising the collection of money from the Clergy. A week later, 1 July, 1561, the Archbishop writes to Bishop Grindal, directing that the Clergy of the Diocese of London should "contribute the twentieth part of their spiritual promotions, and the Clergy of every other diocese" of the province of Canterbury "being not in their first fruits to pay the thirtieth part." On Sept. 1 the Archbishop writes again,^a adding that the least rate that can be accepted of curates and stipendiaries is 2s. 6d. of every one of them. But even with all this pressure the works languished for want of means; and on 26 June, 1563, the Lords of the Council write to the Archbishop urging that arrears of contributions be collected, and directing that "dignities and prebends" of his Cathedral Church were not to be exempted from payment, except those which "for exility" were already exempt.

Bishop Grindal, who had written to the Archdeacons of his Diocese, Sept. 6, 1561, comes forward at this emergency, and in a letter to Sir W. Cecil, dated 3 July, 1563, suggests that as S. Bartholomew the Great is in decay, and has "an heavy coat of lead," this lead "would do very good service for the mother church of Pauls;" and that the adjoining Fratrie might serve the parishioners of S. Bartholomew as their parish church.^b But even this notable suggestion, of robbing Bartholomew to pay Paul, failed to gain acceptance for sundry very good reasons.

Nearly 6,000*l.*^c was soon expended upon the repairs, as Sir John Hayward tells us, and still large sums of money were required to carry on the works. In the Cathedral Record Room is preserved a manuscript volume ^a entitled:

The Calendars of State Papers abound with entries testifying to the earnestness with which contributions were demanded, and the difficulties that constantly intervened. Again in 1608 ^b the matter was taken up very warmly; the amount required for repairs was estimated at 22,537*l.* 2*s.* 3*d.* In 1620, Chamberlain writes to Carleton, ^c that the King is expected at Paul's Cross to hear the Bishop of London preach, and to see about the repair of the Cathedral, which is in a very ruinous state. On March 26 the King came in state. A Commission was appointed, and the work undertaken in earnest: but it is needless to repeat the story of their labours, already told with ample detail by Dugdale.

Unusual methods were resorted to in order to swell the fund for the restoration of the Cathedral, as the Acts of the Court of High Commission testify. On June 26, 1635, a yeoman who had grievously misconducted himself in the Cathedral is sentenced to pay a fine of 40*s.* "towards Pauls." ^d On March 5, 1635-6, Sir Ralph Ashton escapes doing penance in his own parish church by

A very fine series of Account Books of the Charges incurred for various works in the Cathedral is preserved in the Record Room. The accounts from 1633 to 1664 fill sixteen volumes; from 1675 to 1749 they occupy thirty-nine volumes. They are for the most part very carefully written on vellum; and in some cases we have also the earlier paper books in which the entries were first made.

paying a fine of 300*l.* towards the repair of the West end of S. Pauls.^a And in 1636 a clandestine marriage is purged on payment of 150*l.* for repairs of S. Paul's.

The repair and restoration of S. Paul's Cathedral was a work to which Archbishop Laud warmly devoted himself. Amongst the "Things which I have projected to do, if God bless me in them," he puts fifth in order "To set upon the repair of S. Paul's Church in London," and thirteenth in the long list, "To settle eighty pounds a year for ever upon the fabric of S. Paul's, to the repair, till that be finished, and to keep it in good state after."^b It was charged against him at his trial that he did project the repair of the Cathedral, and the demolition of houses built against it: he answered, "the work hath cost me above one thousand and two hundred pounds out of my own purse." One of these houses, "not many years before the demolishing of it, was built at the West end of S. Paul's for a lottery; and, after the lottery ended, finished up into a dwelling house, to the great annoyance of that Church: the bishop, and dean, and chapter, being asleep while it was done."^c And again the Archbishop returns to the attack, "I cannot forbear to add thus much more, That the bishop, and dean, and chapter, whoever they were, did ill to give way to these buildings, and to increase their rents by a sacrilegious revenue: no law that I know giving way to build upon consecrated ground as that churchyard is."^d He obtained from the King a grant for ten years of the fines in the High Commission Court. "His Majesty, having taken the repair of the west end of S. Paul's to himself, granted me to that end all the fines in the High Commission Court, both here and at York, and left the power of mitigation in me.”^a This also was charged against him at his trial.

In his will, 13 January 1643-4 (his trial began in November 1643), he writes, “Then for S. Paul’s Church, it grieves me to see it at such a stand; and though I have, besides my pains, given largely towards it and the repairs thereof; yet I leave it a blessing of 800*l.* which will be truly paid in for that work, if ever it go on, while the party trusted with it lives.”^b

He even visited the Cathedral on 17 May, 1636, greatly to the offence of the Dean and Chapter: and in his Visitation Articles for S. Paul’s Cathedral he introduces these very special and pointed queries:

“Art. XVIII. Item, how goes the repair of that good tabernacle on, both for speed and sufficiency of work, and what defects therein have any of you observed?

“Art. XIX. Item, what cellars or warehouses are there made and turned to profane uses in any kind, under, in, on the sides, or cloisters, or elsewhere about that church?”^c

Did the Dean and Chapter remember, as they read these words, the wines of mine host of the Green Dragon Tavern, which, only two years before, had been lying in a vault^d beneath the Chapter House? Some amicus curiæ must have whispered in His Grace’s ear.

The answers of the Dean and Chapter and of the Minor Canons to these Visitation Articles will be found in the Appendix to the Fourth Report of the Historical Manuscripts Commission, pp. 154—156. The reply to question XIX. is interesting:

“Item, to the nineteenth wee answere, that under p^t of the quire there are certaine vaults (ordinarily called crowdes) which were granted by lease by some of our predecessors to laymen, by whom they are ymployed for warehouses or places to lay up bookes, or such like. And under the body of the church which belongs not to us there are also cellars used (as we heare) by laymen, but by whose grant or p'mission wee know not."

And, I suppose, were not very anxious to ascertain. I do not wonder that Laud wrote, with his own hand, against the first sentence, "An iniunction to auoyd these leases if they can, & lett noe more;" and against the second, "Thiss must be inquired into, &c." To the same Article the Minor Canons reply:

"Item, to y^e nineteenth wee answere, y^t there is a warehouse vnder y^e library wthin y^e petty canons garden, w^{ch} is employed to lay bookes in, & so are y^e cellers vnder y^e said church next y^e said garden in like man'er so vsed."

No one says a word about the wine. The Minor Canons were not guiltless in this matter of letting the vaults of the church for secular uses.

Amongst the State Papers is a Lease from the Dean and Chapter of S. Paul's to Justinian Kydde of the vaults under the Choir of S. Paul's, and of the sheds lately called "Jesus Crowdes," and of other premises, lately in the occupation of John Cawoode, Stationer, deceased: this is in 1577.^a

One can hardly read without some emotion these records of Laud's earnestness and love for the grand old Cathedral, even in those stirring and troublous times.^b That was a characteristic letter which he wrote to Lord Viscount Wentworth,^c in which he thanks him for his contribution to S. Paul's, and adds, "and this assure yourself, whenever you go about Christ Church, if God spare my life, some of my money shall be in the mortar." No doubt Laud loved S. Paul's.

The letter of Bishop Aylmer to the Lord Mayor, Article XIX., Article XIX. is sufficiently characteristic both of the man and of the times. The writer was somewhat changed from that "Mr. Aylmer" of whom Lady Jane Gray said to Roger Ascham, he "teacheth me so gently, so pleasantly, with such fair allurements to learning, that I think all the time nothing whiles I am with him."^a Strype, however, later in his life, says of him that "he would in a blunt way freely deliver his mind; especially when it was needful the truth should be spoken for vindication of innocence or reproof of sin, let it be before the greatest person."^b And certainly he "freely delivers his mind" in this letter: side by side with which may well be read quaint old Fuller's story of him:

"John Aylmer, . . . one of a low stature, but stout spirit, very valiant in his youth, and witty all his life. Once when his auditory began at sermon to grow dull in their attentions, he presently read unto them many verses out of the Hebrew text; whereat they all started, admiring what use he meant to make thereof. Then shewed he them their folly, that whereas they neglected English, whereby they might be edified, they listened to Hebrew, whereof they understood not a word."^c

Certainly he would submit to no little personal inconvenience to convince a royal auditor, if the story of Queen Elizabeth's toothache is to be believed.^d Not every bishop would calmly sit down and allow a tooth to be extracted, to show even a royal patient how little the dentist's forceps were to be feared.

The quarrel between the Bishop and the Lord Mayor, which forms the subject of this letter, was really part of a much larger question, to which I suspect that Strype supplies the key, when he tells us that,

"Our Bishop was instrumental, anno 1581, in setting on foot a very useful practice in London; namely, that a number of learned, sound preachers might be appointed to preach on set times before great assemblies; chiefly, I suppose, for the Paul's Cross Sermons; their pains to be spent mainly in confirming the people's judgments in the doctrine and discipline of the present established Church, so much struck at and undermined by many in these times; and for the encouragement thereof certain contributions to be made, and settled on them by the city. This motion was so approved of at Court, and by the Queen especially, that Mr. Beal, a clerk of the Council, was sent from above to the Bishop, bringing with him certain notes and articles for the more particular ordering of this business, which he and the ecclesiastical Commissioners were to lay before the Mayor and Aldermen. Sir John Branch was then Mayor; who, it seems, with the Aldermen, did not much like this motion, for the standing charge it must put the City to. For, after much expectation, the Mayor gave the Bishop answer, that his brethren thought it a matter of much difficulty, and almost of impossibility also. Notwithstanding, to draw them to this good purpose, the Bishop had appointed divers conferences with them; but after all concluded (and so he signified to the Lord Treasurer), that unless the Lords wrote directly unto them, to let them know it was the Queen's pleasure, and theirs, little would be done in it; and so a good design overthrown by the might of mammon, as he expressed it."^a

Unquestionably the Bishop was quite in earnest in the matter, and had it very much at heart; for he left in his will "£300 to be paid in six years into the Chamber of London, for the better maintaining of constant sermons at Paul's Cross: which sum his eldest son Samuel was to pay out of the rents of Mugden Hall; and £100 more, deposited with him by the Countess of Shrewsbury for the same purpose; willing and advising, that in those sermons there should be some remembrance made of such benefactors."^b

Mr. Richard Simpson, in his introduction to the play Nobody and Somebody, says that there was an idea prevalent that the funds collected for the rebuilding of the Steeple had been misapplied. And he observes that "in 1583 Aylmer, the Bishop of London, suggested to the Council that payments for commutations of penances should be suppressed, what had been paid refunded, and applied to the repairing of Paul's, 'which would well help to make good a good piece of it.' But he adds that "Aylmer's were not safe hands to hold money. When Bancroft became Bishop in 1597, it was proved that the ruins and dilapidations of the Church and Bishop's houses came to £6,513 14s. 0d. ; and he obtained judgment against Aylmer's son for £4,210 18s. Fletcher, the intermediate Bishop (father of the dramatist), was, I presume, answerable for the rest." ^a There is an allusion in the play itself to these collections: ^b Nobody. Ile bring the Tems through the middle of it, empty Moore-ditch at my own charge, and build up Paules-steple without a collection. I see not what becomes of these collections.

Clowne. Why, Nobody receaves them.

Nobody. I, knave?

Articles XX. and XXI. relate to profanations of the Cathedral. The oft-told tale of Paul's Walk need not here be related at any length. The often cited passages from Bishop Earle's Microcosmography and from Decker's Gull's Horn-Book are familiar to every reader. contributing towards its restoration, it will be clearly understood that there was great room for amendment.

Samuel Speed, in "the Legend of his Grace Humphrey, Duke of S. Paul's Cathedral Walk,"^a says, in 1674:—

"Some with their beads unto a pillar crowd;
Some mutter forth, some say their graces loud;
Some on devotion came to feed their muse;
Some came to sleep, or walk, or talk of news."

In The Burnynge of Paules Church is a very interesting passage:—

"The South Alley for Usurye and Poperye, the North for Simony, and the Horse Faire in the midst for all kind of bargains, metings, brawlinges, murthers, conspiracies, and the Font for ordinarie paymentes of money, are so well knowen to all menne as the begger knowes his dishe."^b

The author of A sixe-fold Politycian (4^o, 1609), attributed to Milton's father, describes the frequenters of Paul's Walk as

"Superstitious idolaters of S. Paul (and yet they never think of Paul nor any apostle) and many of them have that famous monument in that account as Diogenes had Jovis Porticus in Athens; who, to them which wondered that he had no house nor corner to eat his meat in, pointing at the gallerie or walking-place that was called Jovis Porticus, said, that the people of Athens had builded that to his use, as a royal mansion for him, wherein he might dine and sup and take his repast. And soe these make Paules like Euclides or Platoes school, as Diogenes accounted it, κατατριβήν, a mispending of much good labour and time, and worthily many times met with Diogenes' fare, and are faithful and frequent guests of Duke Humphray," p. 8.^c

Nor had the servants who sought for engagements, and who stood at the serving-man's pillar, the highest reputation. "He that marries a wife out of a suspected inne or ale-house, buyes a horse in Smithfield, and hires a servant in Paul's, as the diverbe is, shall likely have a jade to his horse, a knave for his man, an arrant honest woman to his wife," says Burton.^d

Ben. Jonson calls Captain Bobadil "a Paul's man"; and he lays the scene of the third act of Every man out of his Humour in Paul's Walk.

Disreputable priests lounged there. When men have been ordained "they may go up and down like beggars, and fall to many follies; or else (as many have done) set up bills at Paul's or at the Royal Exchange, and in such public places, to see if they can hear of some good masters to entertain them into service."^b

The three following passages, from letters passing between John Chamberlain (the son of an alderman of London) and Dudley Carleton (afterwards Lord Viscount Dorchester), will show that Paul's Walk was the common place of meeting and of gossip for London loungers.

"This room is as empty as if it were dead vacation, nobody in Powles, solitudo ante ostium in Little Britain, and all as close and quiet as if it were midnight."^c

"Powles is so furnisht that it affords whatsoever is stirring in Fraunce, and I can gather there at first hand to serve my turne sufficiently."^d

"Here is nobody to talk with, for Pauls is as empty as a barn at Midsummer."^e

There can be no doubt that many parts of the grand old Church had for a long time been grievously neglected. At Bishop Ban-croft's visitation in 1598, Rychard Smyth, one of the Vergers, presents that "in Long Chaple there is lyenge old firr pooles and other old lumber, which was layd there after the mendinge of the Church when it was burned, as I have hard."^a In 1634 it was discovered that a vault under the Chapter House had been let by the Dean and Chapter to one Mr. Sands, "keeper of the Green Dragon Tavern on the other side of the way." The Commissioners for Supervision of the Administration of Gifts for Pious Uses, not unnaturally, declared this use "unseemly and not agreeing with the pious respect belonging to places consecrated to Divine worship," and on 21 March, 1634, ordered that the wines should be removed: but Mr. Sands craving a competent time for that purpose, the Lords gave him till All Hallow-tide next.^b The Minor Canons, in their turn, had also let a vault belonging to them for secular purposes. A baker had constructed an oven in one of the buttresses. Houses had been built close under the Church, imperilling its very walls.

Some attempts, indeed, had been made to check the indecencies of Paul's Walk; and with partial success, for Chamberlain writes to Carleton on Nov. 19, 1602, complaining that he could hear no news, because it "hath ben a very dull and deade terme, or else," he adds, "I am quite out of the trade, which may well be, by reason of a new devised order to shut the upper doores in Powles in service time, wherby the old entercourse is cleane chaunged, and the trafficke of newes much decayed."^c

On January 18, 1632, an Order is issued that the Dean and Chapter of S. Paul's should consider the abuse of walking and talking and carrying burthens through the Church during Divine Service, and should take such course therein as may be fit.^a On March 14 of the same year, the Commissioners for Pious Uses, to adopt their short title, send a copy of the certificate of the Attorney General and Dr. Ryves respecting the profanation of S. Paul's, and request that they should see their authoritative recommendations put in execution.^b On October 20, Secretary Windebank writes to the King, that the walking in time of Divine Service was "much reformed."^c The Report of the Attorney-General, and a Bill probably intended to be posted in the Cathedral, are now for the first time printed. The Report enjoins "that the ancient wryteing in the Church inhibiting carying of burdens through the Church may be made more visible." Dugdale records one such inscription, "supra ferream cistulam juxta parvum hujus Ecclesiæ ostium boreale:"

" All those that shall enter within the Church dore
With Burthen or Basket must give to the Poore:
And if there be any aske what they must pay
To this Box, 'Tis a Penny ere they passe away."

Dugdale, 42.

A common path had evidently been made across the Cathedral from North to South, a profanation not unusual elsewhere even at a much later period. "At Durham there was a regular thoroughfare across the nave until 1750, and at Norwich until 1748, when Bishop Gooch stopped it. The naves of York and Durham were fashionable promenades. The Confessor's Chapel made, on occasion, a convenient playground for Westminster scholars, who were allowed, as late as 1829, to keep the scenes for their annual play in the triforium of the north transept."^d

Article XXII. The Charge of Bishop Corbet, asking for Contributions for the repair of S. Paul's, delivered at Norwich in April 1634, is an excellent example of the humour of the Poet Bishop. His graphic pictures of the state of many churches in his own diocese, and of the readiness of many persons to pull down an aisle rather than to repair it, and to sell the costly lead and substitute for it mere thatch: and his story about an application which was made to him to allow a stone wall to be built around a churchyard, which hitherto had only been protected by a hedge, and of his thinking that the application was "a flout," though really it turned out to be a bonâ fide application; will be read with interest. But more interesting still is his notice of the high pews of his time. They had become "Tabernacles with rings and curtains to them"—there wanted nothing but beds to hear the word of God on—they had casements, locks, and curtains.^a The Bishop "will not guess what's done within them; who sits or stands at the Communion." But Messrs. Abbey and Overton, in their recently published English Church in the Eighteenth Century, are less reticent: and tell us plainly that "cases might be quoted where the tedium of a long service, or the appetite engendered by it, were relieved by the entry, between prayers and sermon, of a livery servant with sherry and light refreshments."^b And they even add a story told by Horace Walpole of Gloucester Cathedral in 1753:^c "A certain Mrs. Cotton, who had largely contributed to whitewashing and otherwise orna-

^a It will hardly be believed that when I became Rector of S. Matthew's, Friday Street, in 1857, a brass rod with curtains ran along the eastern end of the principal block of pews: these curtains were drawn during morning prayer and litany, entirely intercepting any view of the altar, and were undrawn (not without noise) when the Clergyman passed from the reading-desk to the altar.

^b "Such an instance was once mentioned to the writer by Bishop Eden, the present Primus of the Episcopal Church in Scotland." Note in The English Church, &c. ii. 423.

menting the church, had taken it into her head that the soul of a favourite daughter had passed into a robin. The Dean and Chapter indulged her in the whim, and she was allowed to keep a kind of aviary in her private seat. ‘Just by the high altar is a small pew hung with green damask, with curtains of the same, and a small corner cupboard painted, carved, and gilt, for birds in one corner.’” No wonder that the worthy Bishop had something to say about pews.

The Petition of the Vergers (Article XXIII.) need not detain us long: the chief interest of this short paper lies in the reference to Paul’s Cross and to the sermons there. One Mr. Thomas Chapman, a liberal benefactor to the parish of S. Pancras, Soper Lane, had left a legacy of one shilling every Sunday morning to be paid to some fit person “to keepe sweete, cleane, and decent the preaching place of Paules Crosse, and to make it serviceable for the preacher there for every sermon there to be made.” During the repairs of the Church the sermons appointed to be delivered at the Cross had been “remooved from the yard into the Quire,” and the Vergers pray that the accustomed legacy may still be paid to them, on the ground that all legacies and gifts paid to preachers at the Cross had been transferred to those who preached in the Cathedral; and on the further ground that the Vergers were bound by their office “to accomodate the pulpitt for all sermons within” the Church, and should therefore receive, in equity, the accustomed payment.

The title of the following Article is not very tempting, Proceedings in relation to Scaffoldings and building materials in the Cathedral in 1644 and 1645: and probably the matter in question would hardly have been worth printing, had it not been for the disputes relating to these very scaffolds which are fully recorded in the Calendars of State Papers in 1653.^a A few entries will suffice to show, very briefly, some of the questions which arose.

^a Calendar, Domestic Series, 1653.

"July 26. M^r Emerie to take a view of the Scaffolds about Paul's Church, estimate their value, and report."

"August 30. The Lieutenant of the Tower and M^r Emery to sell the Scaffold of Paul's Church, and give the proceeds to M^r Frost for Council's contingencies."

"September 13. The Order of 30 August last, for selling the Scaffold about Paul's Church, London, and the execution of anything ordered in pursuance thereof, suspended till further order."

"September 16. The Lieutenant of the Tower and Serjeant Emmery to take an account of how much of the scaffolding of Paul's is already pulled down by John Wheat and Rice Frith in pursuance of their contract,* and to what value, and to consider what charge they have been at in pulling it down, and report."

"September 23. The Order lately made by Council for stopping the proceedings of M^r Wheate and M^r Frith in pulling down the Scaffold of Paul's to be taken off, and they allowed to proceed."

These extracts will suffice to show the active interest which Parliament took in the plunder of the Cathedral.

In Edmund Gayton's Pleasant Notes upon Don Quixot (London, 1654), an allusion is made to the immense mass of scaffolding which supported and surrounded the ruined tower: ^a

"Have you not seen a Hench boy lac'd all o're
So thick, you could not tell what cloth he wore?
Have you not heard the oaths of Country people,
They could not for the Scaffolds see Paul's Steeple?"

And the same writer says, speaking of Don Quixotte's house, that it is "the very same with an ancient justice of Peace his Hall, a very dangerous Armory to be toucht, like Paul's Scaffolds, Monumentally standing, because none dare take them down."

Article XXV. Article XXV. brings upon the scene Dr. Burges, who will be found immortalized in the Rump Songs.^b

"Burges that Reverend Presbydean of Paul's,
Must (with his Poundage) leave his Cure of Souls,
And into Scotland trot, that he may pick
Out of that Kirk, a nick-nam'd Bishoprick."

^a Notes and Queries, 5 S. vol. x. 301, 327.

^b 1662, reprint, p. 226, Cromwell's Panegyrick.

The arrangement by which Doctor Cornelius Burges,^a one of the Assembly of Divines, was appointed, with a stipend of 400*l.* a year, and the Deanery as his habitation, may be seen in Dugdale (pp. 109, 110): the notes to these pages record the sale of a Mitre and Crozier-staff found in Paul's Church; and of a "Chest, or Silver Vessel," the proceeds of which were to be applied "towards the providing of necessaries for the Train of Artillery." The scaffolds for the rebuilding of the Cathedral were assigned to Colonel Jephson's regiment for 1,746*l.* 15*s.* 8*d.* due thereunto from the Parliament and in arrear.

"The Witts of Paul's" is a mere jeu d'esprit which afforded amusement, no doubt, to some of the gossips in the Booksellers' shops which surrounded the Cathedral. I have never seen any other copy of this single sheet, save that from which this Article is printed. It is copiously annotated in a contemporary hand. Whatever wit there may have been in it has evaporated or lost its flavour, leaving a very dull residuum behind.

The four Documents next in order (Articles XXVII. to XXX.), relate to the period of the Interregnum. The first is a Proclamation to the soldiers in the church-yard, who appear to have molested peaceable passengers, and to have troubled the neighbours by "playing at nine pinnes and other sports" at unseasonable hours. In future they are not to interfere with quiet well disposed persons, and are to abstain from their sports, which no doubt were attended with no little noise, after nine at night and before six o'clock in the morning. ^a In 1645 was printed, "An Ordinance of the Lords and Commons, inabling the Lord Mayor and Court of Aldermen to seize and sequester into their hands all the houses, rents, and revenues belonging to the deane, deane and chapter, and all other officers belonging to the Cathedrall Church of Pauls London; and for paying D^r Burges 400 pounds per annum, for a publike lecture in the said church: as also for settling Master Philip Goodwin in the Vicarage at Watford." (4^o Lond. 1645.)

Proclamation bears date May 27, 1651. A little more than two years before, on Dec. 18, 1648, good John Evelyn makes this entry in his diary: "Since my last, the soldiers have marched into the City. . . . They have garrisoned Blackfriars (which likewise they have fortified with artillery); Paul's Church, which with London House they have made stables for their horses, making plentiful fires with the seats; also Barnard's Castle, &c." It appears from Dugdale that the stalls in the Choir and the Organ Loft were at this time totally destroyed.

Allusions are not wanting in the songs and ballads of the times to such desecrations. In that very vigorous, if unsavoury, work entitled Rump Songs, two such references at once occur to me. The first is from a composition entitled The Publique Faith :

"Paul's shall be opened then, and you conspire
No more against the Organs in the Quire,
Nor threat the Saints ith' Windows, nor repair
In Troops to kill the Book of Common Prayer;
Nor drunk with Zeal, endeavour to engrosse
To your own use, the stones of Cheapside Crosse."

Cheapside Cross was pulled down 2 May, 1643, and Paul's Cross was destroyed in the same year, by the willing hands of Sir Isaac Pennington the Lord Mayor:^c and the same volume is eloquent about his misdeeds in relation to the Cathedral:

"There is Isaack Pennington both wise and old,
I do not know, but 'tis for truth told,
That he is turned poor Sexton of Pauls.
Which no body can deny."^d

He is also the subject of another lampoon:

It was a pitiful act to pull down the Preaching Cross with all its historic memories, "guilty," as it was, "of no other superstition save accommodating the preacher and some about him with convenient places." It might well have been spared: "but all is fish which comes to the net of sacrilege." Thomas Fuller wrote in 1650,^b "No zealot reformer (whilst Egypt was Christian) demolished the Pyramids under the notion of Pagan Monuments." It might have been thought that the Puritans at any rate would have been the last to pull down a pulpit. And such a pulpit. It had been most impartial. Every phase of religious opinion had found expression there. It was a monstrous sacrilege.

How picturesque is that sentence of Carlyle:—

"Paul's Cross, of which I have seen old Prints, was a kind of Stone Tent, with leaden roof, at the N.E. corner of Paul's Cathedral, where Sermons were still, and had long been, preached in the open air; crowded devout congregations gathering there, with forms to sit on, if you came early. Queen Elizabeth used to "tune her pulpits," she said, when there was any great thing on hand; as Governing Persons now strive to tune the Morning Newspapers. Paul's Cross, a kind of Times Newspaper, but edited partly by Heaven itself, was then a most important entity! Alabaster, to the horror of mankind, was heard preaching 'flat popery' there, 'prostituting our columns,' in that scandalous manner!"

The phrase "that Dr. Alabaster had preached flat popery at Paul's Cross" comes from the maiden speech of Mr. Cromwell, Member for Huntingdon,^a 11 Feb. 1628-9.

Dugdale says^b that the Cathedral was "made a horse-quarter for soldiers during the whole time of the late Usurpation; the stately Portico, with beautiful Corinthian pillars, being converted to shops for seamstresses and other trades, with lofts and stairs ascending thereto: for the fitting whereof to that purpose those stately pillars were shamefully hewed and defaced for support of the timber work." And so, too, say the ballads:^c

"Then S^t Paul's the Mother-Church of this City and Nation,
Was turn'd to a Stable, O strange Profanation!
Yet this was one of their best fruits of Reformation.
Which no body can deny."

Carlyle^d gives us a very graphic picture of the execution of Trooper Lockyer, one of Whalley's regiment, sentenced to be shot for a riot at the Bull in Bishopsgate on Thursday, April 26, 1649:—

"He falls shot in Paul's Churchyard on Friday, amid the tears of men and women. Paul's Cathedral, we remark, is now a Horse-guard; horses stamp in the Canons' Stalls there: and Paul's Cross itself, as smacking of Popery, where in fact Alabaster once preached flat Popery, is swept altogether away, and its leaden roof melted into bullets, or mixed with tin for culinary purposes."

No doubt the Proclamation was necessary.

The two documents next in succession are Orders of the Council of State, the one allotting the Stone Chapel, that is, S. George's Chapel, at the East end of the North Aisle of the Choir, to the Congregation "whereof Captaine Chillendon is a member," that they might exercise religious duties, as the phrase runs, therein. The second Order, dated about four months later, records a tumult which happened “in Pauls vpon occasion of the meeting of a Congregation in the Stone Chappell in the said Church, and their exerciseing there.” Persons were in custody for this uproar; they are to be carried before the Lord Mayor, and dealt with accordingly. Possibly some zealous Churchmen disliked these “exercises” in S. George’s Chapel, and had expressed their disapprobation: unfortunately few details are given.

The next paper relates to a still more audacious scheme. A Meeting Place is to be found for the Congregation whereof Mr. John Simpson is Teacher; waste ground at the west end of S. Paul’s, now vested and settled in the Trustees for sale of Bishops’ Lands, or any other place at Paul’s fit for such a use, is to be surveyed, and a Meeting Place built thereon. A survey is accordingly made, and the Report of Colonel William Webb, Surveyor-General of Bishops’ Lands, recommends that the Cloisters and Chapter House be utilised for that purpose.

The Plan which Colonel Webb prepared will be found (reduced one-half) in the present volume. It is singularly interesting, as I have endeavoured to point out in a note appended to the paper to which it is subjoined; for it shows the extent of injury which the Cloisters and Chapter House had received, we will charitably hope, from the Fire of 1561, though it may have been from the hands of the rude soldiery also. The whole of the Northern side of the Cloister had been swept away, together with the Northern half of the Eastern and Western sides. The roof and floor of the upper Chapter House had fallen in: it will be remembered that in Dugdale’s view of it the pinnacles are gone, and there is no indication of a roof. The Chapter House was of two stories, a very rare arrangement; and was entered by a passage “over the Cloysters aforesayd.” There was properly no entrance to this cloister from without, though “by sufferance” an entrance had been made from one or two of the adjacent houses. Alas, we know only too well why the entrances had been made!^a

A singular question arose in the Examination of John Philpot, as to whether the Convocation house was in the Diocese of London. On the second of October, 1555, Dr. Story says to Philpot

“But, Sir, thou spakest the words in the Convocation House, which is of the Bishop of London’s diocese; and therefore thou shalt be carried to the Lollard’s Tower^b to be judged by him for the words thou spakest in his diocese against the blessed mass.”^c

On Oct. 24, 1555, at the fourth Examination of John Philpot in the Archdeacon’s house of London, before the bishops of London, Bath, Worcester, and Gloucester, the subject is resumed.

“Philpot [to Bonner]. I have not offended in your Diocese: for that which I spake of the sacrament was in Paul’s church in the convocation-house, which (as I understand) is a peculiar jurisdiction belonging to the Dean of Paul’s, and therefore is counted of your lordship’s diocese, but not in your diocese.

“Bonner. Is not Paul’s Church in my diocese? Well I wot that it costeth me a good deal of money by the year, the leading thereof.

“Philpot. That may be, and yet be exempted from your lordship’s jurisdiction.”^d

The next two Articles (XXXI. and XXXII.) are copies of Verses, not, it must be admitted, of a very high order of merit, the one on a moveable Pulpit in the Cathedral Choir, the other on a Fire which imperilled the safety of the Church in 1698-9. Both Poems are printed as broadsides, and I have only met with a single copy of each: the first in the Dyce and Forster Reading Room at the South Kensington Museum, and the second in the Archiepiscopal library at Lambeth.

be of considerable interest to all lovers of music: as they include Father Smith's original specification for the Cathedral Organ,—some very bitter criticisms upon that Organ drawn up perhaps by Renatus Harris himself, or by some of his friends and supporters,—and a Proposal by Renatus Harris to erect an Organ over the West Door of the Cathedral. The last of these three Articles should be compared with the following passage from the Spectator:^a

“I must acknowledge my silence towards a proposal frequently enclosed to me by M^r Renatus Harris organ builder. The ambition of this artificer is to erect an organ in S. Paul's Cathedral, over the West door, at the entrance into the body of the Church, which in art and magnificence shall transcend any work of that kind ever before invented. The proposal in perspicuous language sets forth the honour and advantage such a performance would be to the British name, as well as that it would apply the power of sounds in a manner more amazingly forcible than perhaps has yet been known, and I am sure to an end much more worthy. Had the vast sums which have been laid out upon operas without skill or conduct, and to no other purpose but to suspend or vitiate our understandings, been disposed this way, we should now perhaps have had an engine so formed as to strike the minds of half a people at once in a place of worship with a forgetfulness of present care and calamity, and an hope of endless rapture and joy and hallelujah hereafter.”

I am not aware that the Proposal has ever been reprinted; nor have I ever met with any copy of it except that which I was fortunate enough to purchase for the Cathedral Library, two or three years ago.

The subject discussed in Article XXXVI., “An Answer to the Objections against covering the Dome of S. Paul's with English Copper,” does not appear, at first sight, to be one which could demand preservation in verse, and yet there is a metrical composition whose title is:

“The Cupulo: A Poem, occasioned by the vote of the House of Commons, for covering that of S. Paul's with British Copper.” Folio, London, 1708.

a copy of which is in the Guildhall Library.

But enough of this wretched doggrel. In the series of Pamphlets commencing with Frauds and Abuses at S. Paul's, 1712 (which was a severe attack upon Sir Christopher Wren), we find a reference to this “Screw Plot.”

“Nay so zealous was the Doctor,^b that tho’ in one Affidavit there was an Intimation that led to the Discovery of Persons concerned in taking the Iron-Bolts out of the Timbers of the West-Roof (for which Discovery a Reward had been offered in the Gazette) yet because it was likely to affect one of the profligate Hirelings, somebody (not to say the worthy Doctor) prevailed so far as not to suffer any Notice to be taken thereof. matter in The Second Part of Fact against Scandal, pp. 41-2, another Pamphlet of the same series:—but it is not worth while to spend much time on such a subject.

It was a temptation to include within the present volume a paper to which many writers about S. Paul's Cathedral have referred. Mr. Longman, for example, says, "the most extraordinary desecration of which it [i.e. the Cathedral] ran in danger, was its conversion into a synagogue by the Jews. It is scarcely credible that Cromwell can for a moment have entertained the proposal, but the fact of its being made shows that the idea was not considered to be utterly preposterous. A few months after the Restoration, on November 30, 1660, a remonstrance was addressed to Charles II. concerning the English Jews, in which it was stated that "they endeavoured to buy S. Paul's for a synagogue in the late Usurper's time."

Dean Milman (Annals, 352, 353) alludes to the same rumour. "There is a strange story that Cromwell had determined to sell the useless building to the Jews. If not pure fiction, this may have originated in one of those grim pleasantries in which Oliver took delight. The Jews, though from wise commercial motives openly admitted into the realm and favoured by Cromwell, were thus far too precariously established, too prudent to engage in such a transaction. With all their reverence for the Old Testament, I doubt whether the Puritans would have endured a stately synagogue on the site of S. Paul's. None knew this better than the Jews; and the sale of the materials would have been hardly a profitable or safe speculation."^a

D'Blossiers Tovey in his Anglia Judaica, puts the matter into a very definite shape: "As soon as King Charles was murther'd, the Jews Petition'd the Council of War to endeavour a Repeal of that

^a Longman, Three Cathedrals, p. 57; referring in a note to Calendars. Domestic, 1660-61, p. 366.

Act of Parliament which had been made against them; promising, in Return, to make them a Present of five hundred thousand Pounds: Provided that they cou'd likewise procure the Cathedral of St. Paul to be assigned them for a Synagogue, and the Bodleian Library at Oxford, to begin their Traffick with. Which Piece of Service, it seems, was undertaken by those Honest Men, at the Sollicitation of Hugh Peters, and Harry Marten, whom the Jews employ'd as their Brokers: but without any success." ^a

Dean Milman dismisses the story, apparently upon à priori reasoning, and arrives, as it seems, at a very just conclusion. If there is no foundation for the story besides the paper preserved in the Public Record Office, the basis is a very unsound one on which to erect a tale so incredible. I have seen the original paper; it is anonymous, it is undated, it is unsigned even with a pseudonym. The writer surmises that the Jews desired to buy the Cathedral. These are his words:

"Yea, further they (as countenanced by the said late Usurper) endeavoured in his time (as frequently it was reported) to buy the famous Cathedrall Church of Pauls to have made y^m a Synagogue, as alsoe your most renowned Court of Whitehall for some Employ^{mt}."

If no better evidence can be adduced than "as frequently it was reported," the whole story may well rest in the oblivion to which Dean Milman consigns it.

The APPENDIX contains some matter of considerable interest. The most noticeable Articles are, a list of the Indulgences preserved in the Record room of the Cathedral, arranged in Chronological order, and exhibiting the names of the Bishops by whom they were granted, and the number of days of indulgence bestowed by each; lists of Chapels and Altars in the Ancient Cathedral; the dance tunes, called Paul's Steeple and Paul's Wharf, together with the figures of the dances which were adapted to them;^a a Life of S. Erkenwald, in English, from the Golden Legend, which will illustrate the Lessons read on the Feasts of that Saint, infra, pp. 20, 21; a note on the measurements of Old S. Paul's; a note on the Lollard's Tower; a few notices of the persons whose Obits were observed at S. Paul's; a note on the Earthquake of 1382; and the remainder of the so-called Chroniculi S. Pauli. It is hoped that this apparatus may be of use to any student of the History of S. Paul's.

It shall at once be admitted that the two lists of Altars and of Chapels in Old S. Paul's^b are but dreary reading: yet it seemed worth while to attempt to restore, so far as that is possible, the interior of the ancient Church. It is greatly to be deplored that no really satisfactory ground-plan of the immediate vicinity of the old Cathedral exists. For exact dimensions, or even for tolerably accurate localities, Aggas's Map is entirely useless. Probably the most satisfactory view of London before the Fire is that exhibited in the drawing made by Antonio Van den Wyngaerde, about 1550,^c whilst the spire of the Cathedral was yet standing, now in the Sutherland Collection in the Bodleian Library, Oxford: yet even this, elaborate and beautiful as it is, leaves much to be desired. A really accurate plan would be very precious.

The Cathedral stood within a spacious walled inclosure. The Wall, erected about 1109, extended from the N.E. corner of Ave-Maria-lane, ran Eastward along Paternoster-row to the N. end of Old Change in Cheapside; thence Southward to Carter-lane, and on the North of Carter-lane to Creed-lane, to the great Western

Gate on Ludgate Hill.^a In 1317 the wall was fortified. Within the inclosure stood the Bishop's Palace adjoining the Cathedral at the N.W. angle of the Nave; to the E. of the Palace lay the Cemetery called Pardon Church Haugh, with its Cloister and its famous painting of the Dance of Death, and its Chapel, re-built by Dean More in the reign of Henry V. Over this Cloister was the Cathedral library. Between this Cloister on the West, the College of Minor Canons on the North, and Canon Alley on the East, stood Walter Shyrlington's Chapel. Minor Canons' Hall was near Pardon Church Haugh. Adjoining Canon Alley, on the East, and still on the Northern side of the Cathedral, stood the Charnel Chapel. At the N.E. angle of the Choir, Paul's Cross; and Eastward of the Choir, S. Paul's School, and the Bell-tower with the Jesus Bells. On the South side stood the Chapter House, in its own Cloister, having no entrance from without: and on the same side, Southward from the Church, stood the house of the Chancellor. S. Gregory's Church nestled closely to the side of the Cathedral,^b on the South side at the Western end: South-west of this stood the Deanery, and to the Westward divers Houses for the use of the Canons.^c The famous Lollard's Tower was the South Western Tower of the Cathedral; the name was still in use in 1608.^d There were six

Very striking must the beautiful Chapter House have been, with its remarkable two-storied cloister. Other examples of cloisters having two stories will, of course, occur at once to the reader; at Lambeth Palace, the Library was formed in the long, low, picturesque rooms over the cloister, so ruthlessly destroyed when the Archbishopal residence was "restored;" at Queens' College, Cambridge, the President's lodge runs over one side of the early brick cloister; and there are examples at Wells Cathedral, and at Merton College, Oxford:^a but in all these cases the upper tier consists of rooms. In S. Paul's it seems to have consisted of a second range of open arches over the lower arcade; from this upper tier the Chapter House was entered.^b

"Peter Colledge"^c (Dugdale, 390) was the ancient name of Minor Canons' College; to Lancaster College and Holmes' College it is more difficult to give a local habitation. William Seres, the printer, was "dwelling in Peter Colledge" in 1550;^d on 8 August, 1682, James Clifford, senior Cardinal, went first to dwell in one of four new-built houses called S. Paul's College.

We must not omit two important houses, the Brew House, and the Bake House. Paul's Bake House Yard still retains the name; it lies on the south side of the Cathedral: and in Seymour's London Paul's Brew House finds a place. "The spacious garden of the Dean and Chapter, where formerly stood the buildings of the college, dormitory, refectory, kitchen, bakehouse, brewery," were all on the south side of the Cathedral.^e These details must supply the place of the much desired Plan.

The pleasant task remains of expressing my thanks to those gentlemen from whom I have received assistance: to Mr. Chappell, for his courtesy in allowing me to print the modernised forms of the tunes called Paul's Steeple and Paul's Wharf; to Mr. W. de Gray Birch, for valuable suggestions in relation to the couplet indicating the date of the Earthquake of 1382; to my old friend the Rev. W. H. Seggins, for his assistance in correcting some of the proof-sheets; to my colleague the Rev. W. H. Milman, for similar kindnesses; to Mr. Henry W. Henfrey, who was so good as to bring under my notice the paper which forms Article XXX.; and to Mr. R. E. G. Kirk for some very careful transcripts and collations.

NOTE.

With regard to the form in which the Latin documents are exhibited, I may say that I have extended all the contractions in cases where the form of the word when extended was certain. In all other cases I have retained the contractions, as in the word Londōn, for example, where no one can say which of the several possible forms the original writer would have used. I have, generally, used the letters u and v, i and j, as we use these letters in writing Latin at the present time: and have usually employed the diphthong æ where the ancient scribe used only the simple e. Any peculiar spelling, such as choruscare, resurrextione, magestati, contempnentes, &c., have been carefully retained.

In order to avoid frequent repetitions in the references to some works often cited in the notes, the following abbreviations have been employed.

Dugdale=Dugdale's History of S. Paul's Cathedral. The Third edition; by Sir Henry Ellis, folio, London, 1818. [If the earlier editions of 1658 and 1716 are referred to, they are cited as first or second edition.]

A SERIES OF INDULGENCES GRANTED FOR THE BUILDING OR REPAIR OF PORTIONS OF S. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL. 1201—1387.

No. 1.—Indulgence granted by Robert of Shrewsbury, Bishop of Bangor. 1201.

Omnibus Christi fidelibus ad quos præsens scriptum pervenerit, R. Dei gratia Bangorensis Episcopus, salutem in Domino. Quoniam, ut ait Apostolus, omnes stabimus ante tribunall Jesu Christi recepturi prout in corpore gessimus, sive bonum fuerit sive malum, oportet nos diem messionis extremæ [operibus]^a misericordiæ pervenire, ac æternorum intuitu seminare in terris quod reddente Domino cum multiplicato fructu recolligere debeamus in cœlis, firmam spem fiduciamque tenentes, quoniam qui parce seminat parce et metet, et qui seminat in benedictionibus de benedictionibus et metet vitam æternam. Cum igitur inter opera caritatis non inmerito debeat computari ecclesiarum fabricis pias elemosinarum largitiones misericorditer inpartiri, universitatem vestram rogamus attentius monentes et exortantes in Domino quatenus ad fabricam ecclesiæ Sancti Pauli Londoñ de bonis vobis a Deo collatis aliqua caritatis subsidia ero-gatis, ut per hæc et alia bona quæ Domino inspirante feceritis, et possitis gaudia promereri. Nos vero de Dei misericordia, et gloriosæ Virginis Mariæ, Beati Pauli, et omnium Sanctorum meritis confisi, omnibus parochianis nostris, ac aliis universis quorum diocesani hanc nostram ratam habuerint indulgentiam, qui ad fabricam dictæ ecclesiæ suas duxerint elemosinas conferendas, si de peccatis suis vere contriti fuerint et confessi, Quadraginta dies de injuncta sibi pœnitentia misericorditer relaxamus. Datum Londoñ apud Sanctum Paulum die Sanctæ Luciæ Virginis, Pontificatus nostri anno quarto.^a

No. 2.—Indulgence granted by William, Bishop of Leighlin, Ireland. 1246.

Omnibus Christi fidelibus Willielmus, Dei gratia Lechliñ Episcopus, salutem in Domino. Quia venerabilis ecclesia magni Sancti Pauli Londoñ per magnanimitatem fundatoris tantam continet capacitatem quod sine suffragiis fidelium ad sui perfectionem pervenire non potest: de Dei misericordia confidentes, omnibus quorum diocesani hanc nostram indulgentiam ratam habere voluerint, qui ad prædictæ ecclesiæ fabricam aliquod beneficium pie contulerint, vel ad dedicationis diem annum convenerint, vel eandem ecclesiam orationis causa humiliter visitaverint, vere pœnitentibus, de injuncta sibi pœnitentia triginta dies relaxamus. Datum Londoñ, anno gratiæ M^o.CC^o. quadragesimo sexto.^b

No. 3.—Indulgence granted by Fulco Basset, Bishop of London. 1249.

Omnibus Christi fidelibus ad quos præsens scriptum pervenerit, F., Dei gratia Londoñ Episcopus, salutem in Domino sempiternam. Noverit universitas vestra nos indulgentias quas venerabiles fratres et co-episcopi nostri illis contulerunt qui causa devotionis vel ora-

Datum apud Stelbeh^c,^c quarto Kal. Januarii, Anno Domini M^o.CC^o.xl. nono.^d

No. 4.—Indulgence granted by Pope Innocent IV. and promulgated by the Bishops of Worcester, Salisbury, and Exeter. 1252.

Universis Christi fidelibus præsentēs litteras inspecturis, W. Dei gratia Wygorñ, W. Sarum, et R. Exoñ, Episcopi,^e salutem in Domino. Noverit universitas vestra nos litteram domini Papæ non cancellatam, non abolitam, nec in aliqua sui parte viciatam, inspexisse, sub hac forma :

^a A list of altars and of chapels in the cathedral will be found in the Appendix, Notes B and C.

^b Alexander Swerford, treasurer of S. Paul's 15 January, 1231-2, who died in 1246, and was buried in S. Paul's Cathedral. He seems to have resigned his office before his death. (Le Neve, Fasti, edit. Hardy.) He built the altar of S. Chad in his lifetime, and founded a chantry of one priest to celebrate thereat after his decease. He was buried before this altar. (Dugdale, S. Paul's, p. 19.) The revenues of the chantry were estimated at five marks at Bishop Braybrooke's visitation in 14 Richard II. (Ib. p. 26.) At Dean Ralph de Baldock's visitation in 1295, Johannes de S. Radegunda was the chantry priest. (Ib. p. 333.) Alexander himself presented to the cathedral a cope "de rubeo sameto, breudata cum nodis interlaqueatis, et regibus et episcopis." (Ib. p. 317.) Two other indulgences are still preserved in the cathedral, in which Hugo Norwold, Bishop of Ely, grants, in the one thirty days', in the other ten days', indulgence to those who shall pray for the soul of this same Alexander and contribute to the work. Both indulgences are dated at London, "die Sanctæ Lucie," 1247.

^c Stepney. The manor of Stebunheath, or Stepney, anciently belonged to the Bishops of London. Bishop Ridley "was fain to alienate to the King," Edward VI. this and other manors, "in exchange for others of the like value."—Strype, Memo-rials, vol. ii. part 1, p. 339, ed. Oxford, 1822.

^d From the original, preserved at S. Paul's. The whole indulgence is very carefully written. Part of the seal remains.

^e Walter Cantilupe, Bishop of Worcester; William of York, Bishop of Salisbury; and Richard Blondy, Bishop of Exeter.

Innocentius Episcopus,^a servus servorum Dei, universis Christi fidelibus ad quos litteræ istæ pervenerint, salutem et apostolicam benedictionem. Quoniam, ut dicit Apostolus, omnes stabimus ante tribunal Christi, recepturi prout in corpore gessimus sive bonum fuerit sive malum, oportet nos diem messisionis extremæ misericordiæ operibus pervenire, ac æternorum intuitu seminare in terris quod reddente Domino cum multiplicato fructu recolligere debeamus in cœlis, firmam spem fiduciamque tenentes, quoniam qui parce seminat parce et metet, et qui seminat in benedictionibus, de benedictionibus et metet vitam æternam. Cum igitur sicut accessimus dilecti filii Capitulum Ecclesiæ Sancti Pauli Londoni Ecclesiam ipsam jamdudum inceptam opere quamplurimum sumptuose consummare intendant, et ad tanti operis consummationem Christi fidelium suffragia sint eis quamplurimum opportuna, universitatem vestram rogamus et hortamus attente, ut per subvencionem vestram adjuti opus inceptum valeant confirmare, et vos per hæc et alia bona quæ Domino inspirante feceritis, ad æternæ possitis felicitatis gaudia pervenire. Nos enim de omnipotentis Dei misericordia et beatorum Petri et Pauli Apostolorum ejus auctoritate confisi, omnibus vere pœnitentibus et confessis, qui eis ad hoc manum porrexerint adjutricem, unum annum et quadraginta dies de injuncta sibi pœnitencia misericorditer relaxamus. Præsentibus usque ad consummationem operis nascituris, quas inciti per quæstuarios districcius inhibemus, eas, si secus actum fuerit, carere viribus decernentes. Data Perusi xvi^o. Kal. Septembris Pontificatus nostri anno decimo.

In cujus rei testimonium præsentibus litteris sigilla nostra duximus apponenda. Datum Londoni, ix. Kalend. Febr. anno Domini M^o.cc^o.l^o. secundo.^c

^a Pope Innocent IV.

^b Innocent IV. was elected Pope in June, 1243. The date of this bull will, therefore, be 16 Kal. Sept. 1252. As the year began in March, 16 Kal. Sept. occurred before 9 Kal. Febr., the date at which the bull was promulgated in England.

No. 5.—Indulgence granted by Albinus, Bishop of Brechin. 1254.

Omnibus Christi fidelibus præsentēs Litteras inspecturi, Albinus, miseracione divina Brechinensis ecclesiæ minister humilis, salutem in Domino sempiternam. De Dei misericordia, gloriosæ Virginis Mariæ genitricis ejus omniumque Sanctorum meritis confidentes, omnibus parochianis nostris et aliis quorum diocesani hanc nostram indulgentiam ratam habuerint, vere contritis et confessis, qui causa devotionis seu orationis ad altare beati Eadmundi Archiepiscopi et Confessoris et Sancti Edwardi Regis^a apud Londoñ in ecclesia Sancti Pauli accesserint, ibique pro anima Ysabelle de Brus^b oraverint, seu ad fabricam dictæ ecclesiæ de bonis suis sibi a Deo collatis aliqua caritatis subsidia duxerint conferenda, seu in festo dedicationis ejusdem ecclesiæ ibidem causa devotionis et orationis convenerint, Decem dies de injuncta sibi pœnitentia misericorditer relaxamus. Datum Londoñ in crastino Sancti Bartholomei, anno gratiæ M^o.CC^o. quinquagesimo quarto.^c

No. 6.—Indulgence granted by William, Archbishop of Raga (or Ragæ) in Media. 1267.

Dilectis in dilecto Dei Filio sanctæ matris Ecclesiæ filiis et fratribus universis, Willielmus, permissione divina Ragensis Archiepiscopus, salutem in Domino sempiternam. Quoniam juxta divinæ vocis eulogium, sancta et salubris est cogitatio pro defunctis exorare, ut a peccatorum suorum nexibus absolvantur, maxime pro talibus de quibus certum est eos sub spe æternæ beatitudinis decessisse, ac dum viverent tenuisse fidei regulas orthodoxe, ut dormientibus in

No. 7.—Indulgence granted by John le Breton, Bishop of Hereford.
1269.^c

Universis præsentis literas inspecturis, J. permissione divina Herfordensis ecclesiæ minister humilis, salutem in Domino. De omnipotentis Dei misericordia, gloriosæque Virginis Mariæ et Apostolorum Petri et Pauli atque Sanctorum omnium meritis confidentes, omnibus parochianis nostris et aliis quorum diocesani hanc nostram indulgentiam ratam habuerint, de peccatis suis vere contritis et confessis, qui tumbam beati Rogeri quondam Londoñ Episcopi^d in Summa		cxx. dies.

Another endorsement is— De Cimiterio S. Pauli. Cant'.

Several other indulgences granted for the same purpose are preserved in the archive room. One, granted by Robert Braybrook, Bishop of London, in 1387, is printed in Appendix C to Dean Milman's Annals, pp. 520-521: on a piece of vellum folded round the seal are written the names of the dioceses of Canterbury, Ely, London, Bath, Chester, Carlisle, Llandaff, and Bangor, and after each, "xl. dies," as above.

In Appendix A (of the present volume) will be found a complete list of the Indulgences which are still preserved in the cathedral archive room.

COMMEMORATION OF THOMAS OF LANCASTER,^a CIRCA 1322.

Thoma Lancastrie flos et gemma milicie qui in Dei nomine propter statum Anglie occidi sustulisti te.

V. Ora pro nobis beate Christi miles.

R. Qui pauperes nunquam habuisti viles.

Oracio. Mittissime deus, aures Tuas benigne votis meis inclina, ut hii qui beathe Thome lankastrie comitis et martyris memoriam recolunt, post viam universe carnis ingressum mereamur consortium aggregari, per dominum nostrum ihesum christum filium tuum, qui tecum vivit et regnat deus per omnia secula seculorum. Amen.

Benedicamus Domino. Deo Gracias.

^a At a meeting of the Archæological Institute, 5 Dec. 1878, a MS. volume of Horæ "of the middle of the fourteenth century" was exhibited by Mr. T. Taylor, through Mr. J. T. Micklethwaite. Amongst the miscellaneous matters at the beginning of the book is this Commemoration of Thomas of Lancaster. This Office is printed verbatim et literatim as it stands in the Archæological Journal, vol. xxxvi. 103, 104.

IV.

OFFICE OF THOMAS OF LANCASTER,^a CIRCA 1322.

Antiphona.

Gaude, Thoma, ducum decus, lucerna Lancastriæ,
Qui per necem imitaris Thomam Cantuariæ;
Cujus capud conculcatur pacem ob ecclesiæ,
Atque tuum detruncatur causa pacis Angliæ;
Esto nobis pius tutor in omni discrimine.

Oratio. Deus, qui, pro pace et tranquillitate regnicolarum Angliæ, beatum Thomam martirem tuum atque Comitem gladio persecutoris occumbere voluisti, concede propicius, ut omnes qui ejus memoriam devote venerantur in terris, præmia condigna cum ipso consequi mereantur in cœlis; per Dominum nostrum.

Prosa. Sospitati dat ægrotos precum Thomæ fusio;
Comes pius mox languentum adest in præsidio;
Relevantur ab infirmis infirmi suffragio.
Sancti Thomæ quod monstratur signorum indicio,
Vas regale trucidatur regni pro remedio.
O quam probat sanctum ducem morborum curatio!
Ergo laudes Thomæ sancto canamus cum gaudio;
Nam devote poscens illum, statim proculdubio
Sospes regreditur.

^a The original text of this Office is found in MS. Reg. 12, C. xii. fo. 1, r^o (a manuscript of the end of the reign of Edward II. or of the beginning of the reign of Edward III.) It is written as if it were prose, without any division into lines. It has been already printed in The Political Songs of England from the reign of John to that of Edward II. p. 268, edited by Thomas Wright, F.S.A. for the Camden Society. This reprint has been collated with the original, and several variations have been corrected (as, for example, Judam Hoylandiæ for sudam); the couplet at the foot of the first page of the manuscript added; and the spelling restored to that of the manuscript, which is preserved in the British Museum.

Sequencia. Summum regem honoremus, dulcis pro memoria
Martiris, quem collaudemus, summa reverencia.
Thomas Comes appellatur, stemma egregio;
Sine causa condempnatur
natus thoro regio;
Qui cum plebem totam cernit
labi sub naufragio,
Non pro jure mori spernit, lætali commercio.
O flos militum regalis, tuam hanc familiam
Semper conserves a malis, perducens ad gloriam!

AMEN.

Pange, lingua, gloriosi Comitum martirium,

SHORT OFFICE FOR S. ERKENWALD'S DAYS^a APPOINTED BY ROBERT BRAYBROOKE, BISHOP OF LONDON, IN 1386.

Oratio.

Omnipotens sempiterne Deus, apud quem semper est continua sanctorum festivitas tuorum, præsta,^b quæsumus, ut qui solemnitatem Beati Erkenwaldi Pontificis agimus, ab hostium nostrorum eruamur nequitia, et ad æternorum nos provehi concedas beneficia præmiorum. Per Dominum.

Secreta.

Hæc sancta, Domine, quæ indignis manibus tractamus, intercessionem Beati Erkenwaldi Præsulis tuæ sint majestati accepta, ut ab omni nos muniant inimicorum molestia, et ad dona perducant cœlestia. Per.

Post-communio.

Sacri Corporis Domini nostri repleti libamine et precioso Sanguine debriati, quæsumus, Domine Deus noster, ut per intercessionem Sancti Præsulis Erkenwaldi tribuas nobis nostrorum absolutionem peccaminum et æternæ beatitudinis præmium sempiternum. Per eundem.

^a Bishop Braybrooke enjoins the use of the following prayers on the two feasts of S. Erkenwald, viz.: The Deposition, "die ultimo mensis Aprilis;" and The Translation, "xviii. Kal. Decembris," i. e. April 30 and Nov. 14. I have printed the whole of Bishop Braybrooke's Monitio in my Registrum, pp. 393, 394, from the bishop's original Register, fo. 330b.-331b.; part of it had already been printed in Wilkins's Concilia, iii. 196.

^b Wilkins, incorrectly, reads et præsentia; the proper reading, præsta, appears in the original in the contracted form, pra'.

PRAYERS TO S. ERKENWALD FROM MS. HORÆ IN THE POSSESSION OF THE REV. J. FULLER RUSSELL.^a

O decus insigne nostrum, pastor atque benigne
Lux Londoniæ, Pater Erkenwalde beate,
Qui super astra Deum gaudes spectare per ævum,
Aspice lætantes tua gaudia nos celebrantes,
Et tecum vitæ fac participes sine fine.
V. Ora pro nobis beate Erkenwalde.

[R.] Ut digni efficiamur promissionibus Christi.

Oratio. Omnipotens sempiterne Deus, apud quem est continua semper sanctorum festivitas tuorum, præsta, quæsumus, ut qui me-moriæ beati Erkenwaldi Pontificis agimus, ab hostium nostrorum eruemur nequitia, et ad æternorum nos provehi concedas beneficia præmiorum. Per dominum nostrum.^b

^b This Office is printed in the Horæ Beatæ Virginis Mariæ ad Legitimum Sarisburiensis Ecclesiæ Ritum, fo. 24, 4to. Paris, 1533, where attempts are made to mend the Antiphon: e. g. in line 1 the reading is nostrum pastorque benigne; and in line 2, O lux, which readings are to be preferred to those in the text. There is a copy of this edition in the Lambeth Library; press mark, 78, I. 10. At the end of this Oratio the Sarum Horæ adds, Pater Noster. Ave Maria.

OFFICE OF S. ERKENWALD.^a

In commemoratione Sancti Erkenwaldi^b Episcopi et Confessoris.

AD VESPERAS.

Antiphona.

Exulta dulci júbilo, Anglorum læta concio,
Quos Erkenwaldi maxima Deo commendat merita.

In tempore Paschali, Alleluja. Psalmi feriales.

Capitulum. Ecce Sacerdos magnus, qui in diebus suis placuit Deo, et inventus est justus; et in tempore iracundiæ factus est reconciliatio.

Hymnus.^c

Iste Confessor Domini sacratus,
Festa plebs cujus celebrat per orbem,
Hodie [lætus] meruit secreta
Scandere coeli.
Qui pius, prudens, humilis, pudicus,
Sobrius, castus fuit, et quietus,
Vita dum præsens vegetavit ejus
Corporis artus.

^a Now first printed from Additional MSS. No. 5810, fo. 198, British Museum. For a detailed account of the MS. see Introduction to this volume. The task of editing this Office and that which immediately succeeds it has been one of very considerable difficulty. It is extant only (so far as can be ascertained) in a transcript made by Cole, the well-known antiquary, so that it has been impossible to gain access to the ancient original. Great care and labour have been bestowed upon both these Offices, but it is possible even now that some errors have escaped notice.

^b S. Erkenwald, April 30. Translation, Nov. 14. See Vita S. Erkenwaldi Lundoniæ Episcopi, Dugdale's S. Paul's, Appendix No. VI. pp. 289-291.

^c Printed in Daniel's Thesaurus Hymnologicus, vol. i. pp. 248-9; and in Sarum Breviary, Fasc. ii. 410, by which I have corrected Cole's errors. Cole transcribes even the Hymns as if they were prose.

Ad sacrum cujus tumulum frequenter
 Membra^a languentum modo sanitati,
 Quolibet morbo fuerint gravata,
 Restituuntur.^b

Unde nunc noster chorus in honore
 Ipsius hymnum canit hunc libenter,
 Ut piis ejus meritis juvemur
 Omne per ævum.

Sit salus illi, decus atque virtus,
 [Qui] supra cœli residens cacumen
 Totius mundi machinam gubernans^c
 Trinus et unus. Amen.

Ÿ. Amavit [eum Dominus, et ornavit eum.]^d

Antiphona. Sancte Erkenwalde, tu dulcedo pauperum, tu pius consolator animarum, ora pro nobis.

In tempore Paschali, Alleluja.

Psalmus, Magnificat.

Oremus. Omnipotens sempiterne Deus, apud quem semper est continua sanctorum festivitas tuorum, præsta quæsumus ut qui commemorationem beati Erkenwaldi pontificis agimus, ab hostium nostrorum eruamur nequitia, et ad æternorum nos provehi concedas beneficia præmiorum, per Dominum.

AD MATUTINAS.

Invitatorium.

In Psalmis vigiles Domino jubilemus ovantes,
 Cui jubilos laudum canit Erkenwaldus in ævum.

^a Daniel, membrum fuerit; Cole, fuerint.

^b Cole, restituunt.

^c Sarum Breviary, gubernat.

^d Sarum Breviary, col. 410. The response is, Stola gloriæ induit eum.

In tempore Paschali, Alleluja.

Psalmus, Venite.

Hymnus, Iste Confessor.

IN PRIMO NOCTURNO.

Antiphona.^a Erkenwaldus Christi miles, orbis jam superni civis, pandit cunctis vitæ callem, adepturus poli palmam.

Psalmus, Beatus vir.

Antiphona. Divine flammatus igne athleta Christi, perhenne propinavit lumen cunctis exemplis et documentis.

Psalmus. Quare fremuerunt.

Antiphona. Fecit duo Cenobia, unum sibi Cerotesei,^b alterum sorori suæ Berkyng nomine.

Psalmus. Domine, quid.

Antiphona. Ubi sacer Erkenwaldus famulus Dei dignus vitæ mores examinat, virtutum flores choruscat.

Psalmus. Cum invocarem.

Antiphona. Soror ejus, devotarum nutrix, ac mater virginum, condignam se in omnibus præbuit fratris actibus.

Psalmus. Verba mea.

Antiphona. Nomen tuum mirabile veneratur, Jesu Christe, qui Erkenwaldum sublimasti in sede pontificali.

Psalmus. Domine, Dominus noster.

Antiphona. O beatum Præsulem, probitate conspicuum, cui Christus est vivere et mori lucrum perhenne.

Psalmus. Domine quis.

^a Antiphons, even when rhythmical in structure, like the present, are printed as prose.

^b S. Erkenwald founded religious houses at Chertsey and at Barking. "Hic fecit duo monasteria, unum sibi, alterum sorori. Suum Certesei [Chertsey] dicitur, quod amminiculo Frithewoldi subreguli opulentia rerum et monachis implevit. Sororis cœnobium appellatur Berkingum [Barking], ubi ipsa prima abbatisa fuit."—Historical Works of R. de Diceto, edited by Professor Stubbs, i. 115.

Antiphona. Desiderium animæ servi tui Erkenwaldi adimplesti, Jesu Christe, gloriæ palma coronans.

Psalmus. Domine in virtute.

Antiphona. Corporis infirmitate sanctus vir gravatus valde, fere-trum jussit componi quo ferretur prædicandi servatum tempore multo indicat populo, namque grabatum ægroti ægros red-didit sanitati.^a

Psalmus. Domini est terra.

Versus. Amavit.

Lectio prima. Confessor Domini, beatus Erkenwaldus, Londoniensis Episcopus, ante transitum suum, multorum miraculorum testimonio placuit Deo. Hic enim appropinquante jam vitæ suæ termino, cum ad prædicandum populo, propter debilitatem corporis in feretro caballario^b duarum rotarum duceretur, contigit ut una rotarum in casu caderet, altera
sola in curru remanente.^c

R̃. Diffunditur Christi fides per omnes terrarum fines et occidentes tandem axem Britanniae penetrata, Gaudet plebs lege divina ad vitæ callem sic revecta.

Ÿ. Sanctus Anglis Erkenwaldus pandit promptus cœli fructus.
Gaudet.

Lectio Secunda. Nescientes igitur qui cum sancto erant hujus rei eventum, sed cursu solito per viam suam ambulantes, tandem, quod est mirabile, currum vehicularium viderunt, contra consuetudinem, super unam tantum rotam gradientem:
mirantur omnes Dei virtutem et viri sanctitatem in sancto miraculo aperte cognoscentes.

^a This Antiphon is very obscure. Some approach to a better sense might be made by printing part of it thus: "prædicandi tempore, servatum multo indicat populo," &c.; but the text accurately represents the MS.

^b Caballarium feretrum: species lecticæ seu rhedæ caballis vectæ. Caballus, equus.
Ducange. The three lections are taken almost verbatim from Capgrave's Acta S. Erkenwaldi, printed in the Acta Sanctorum for April 30, p. 791. A short Life of S. Erkenwald, in English, will be found in Appendix E.

^c MS. remeante, erroneously.

R̃. Puer sanctus Erkenwaldus, sorte Christi præelectus, Sermone quod prædicabat operibus adimplebat.

Ÿ. Erat sermone modestus et corpore castus. Sermone.

Lectio Tertia. Post transitum vero ipsius ad cœlestia, multi febri-citanes aliique morbi ejus feretrum tangentes vel osculantes integre sanabantur, sed et absentibus infirmis, per hastulas inde abscissas et ad eos delatas, repentina salus sæpius advenit.

R̃. Construxit duo præclara sacer sanctus Cenobia,
Qua vitæ mores comprobat, virtutum flore choruscat,

Ÿ. Unum sorori suæ, alterum sibi. Qua. Et finiatur cum Alleluja in tempore Paschali.

Ver. Ora pro [nobis].

IN LAUDIBUS.

Antiphona. Diffunditur Christi fides per omnes terrarum fines.
Sanctus Anglis Erkenwaldus pandit promptus cœli fructus.

Psalmus. Dominus regnavit.

Capitulum. Ecce sacerdos magnus, qui in diebus suis placuit Deo, et inventus est justus: et in tempore iracundiæ factus est reconciliatio.

Hymnus.^a

Jesu redemptor omnium,
Perpes corona præsulum,
In hac die clementius,
Nostris faveto precibus.
Tui Sacri qua nominis,
Confessor almus claruit,
Cujus celebrat annua
Devota plebs solemnia.
Qui rite mundi gaudia
Hujus caduca respuens,

Cum angelis cœlestibus
Lætus^b potitur præmiis.
Hujus benigne^c annue
Nobis sequi vestigia:
Hujus precatu servulis
Dimitte noxam^d criminis.
Sit, Christe, Rex piissime, Tibi Patrique gloria,
Cum spiritu Paraclyto,
In sempiterna sæcula. Amen.

Ÿ. Justus ger[minabit sicut lilium].^a Antiphona. O beate Pater Erkenwalde, pium Dominum Jesum pro impietatibus nostris deposce.

Psalmus. Benedictus.

Oratio. Omnipotens sempiterne Deus: ut supra.

¶ AD PRIMAM.

Antiphona. Diffunditur.

Psalmus. Deus in nomine tuo.

AD TERTIAM.

Antiphona. Sacer sanctus Erkenwaldus pernox hymnis cœlestibus rexit sedem Præsulatus digne verbis et actibus.

Psalmus. Legem pone.

Capitulum. Ecce sacerdos.

R/ et versiculi de communi unius Confessoris et Pontificis; oratio, ut supra

AD SEXTAM.

Antiphona. Cujus verbis Sebba Princeps, mutatus ad vitæ calles, linquit arma atque regna sequens sancti vestigia.

Psalmus. Defecit.

Capitulum. Benedictionem omnium gentium dedit illi Dominus et testamentum suum confirmavit super caput ejus.

AD NONAM.

Antiphona. O quam duo candelabra in Domo Dei statuta, alter pascit, alter capit, uno bibunt fonte simul.

Psalmus. Mirabilia.

Capitulum. Cognovit eum in benedictionibus suis, conservavit illi misericordiam suam, et invenit gratiam coram oculis Domini.

^a Compare similar Versicle in Sarum Breviary; the Response is, Et florebit in æternum ante Dominum.

^b Compare Ecclesiasticus, xlv. 10-12.

^c Mone (Lateinische Hymnen des Mittelalters, iii. 90-91) prints this hymn in an extended form, giving six verses in all: of which the three verses given above are Nos. 2, 5, and 6. In the last line of the verse commencing Janitor cœli, Mone gives senatum where Cole has cenatum. See also Daniel, i. 156, 157.

Sit Trinitati sempiterna gloria,
 Honor, potestas, atque jubilatio,
 [In unitate] cui manet imperium
 [Ex tunc et modo] per æterna sæcula. Amen.

Ver. In omnem terram.

Antiphona. Gloriosi principes terræ, quomodo in vita sua dilexerunt se, et in morte non sunt separati.

Psalmus. Magnificat.

Oratio. Deus, cujus dextera Beatum Petrum Apostolum ambulantem, in fluctibus ne mergeretur, erexit, et co-apostolum ejus Paulum tercio naufragantem de profundo pelagi liberavit, exaudi nos propicius, [et concede]^a ut amborum meritis æternitatis gloriam consequamur, qui vivis et regnas Deus.

AD MATUTINAS.

Invitatorium. Regem apostolorum Dominum venite adoremus.

Psalmus. Venite.

Hymnus. Janitor cœli.

Antiphonæ et Psalmi sunt in Natali unius Apostoli sive plurimorum Apostolorum per totum annum, extra tempus Paschæ.

IN PRIMO NOCTURNO.

Antiphona. In omnem terram, &c.

Vers. In omnem terram, &c.

Lectio prima. Beatissimorum Apostolorum Petri et Pauli triumphum hodierna die fidelissime celebremus, ut per quos initium divinæ cognitionis accessimus, per eos usque in finem sæculi capiamus regni cœlestis augmentum. Qui in conspectu generis humani mirabiles apparuerunt, dum in eorum agnitionem invitantur, qui prævalendo deficiunt persecuti, et deficiendo prævalent interempti.

^a Introduced from the S. Paul's Missal (Harleian MS. No. 2,787), which contains this collect.

R̃. Isti sunt triumphatores, et amici Dei, qui contempnentes iussa principum meruerunt præmia æterna. Modo coronantur et accipiunt palmam.

Ÿ. Isti sunt qui venerunt ex magna tribulatione, et laverunt stolas suas in sanguine Agni. Modo coronantur.

Lectio secunda. Non potest ullatenus explicari verbis, quibus modis hæc interfectio preciosa pensatur, moriuntur Petrus et Paulus abjecti, et orbi terrarum accipiunt principatum, moriuntur mundanæ eruditionis ignari, et existunt cœlestis doctrinæ gnari, moriuntur soliti maria perscrutari mediocris artis officio, et redduntur sæculi examinatores et iudices.

R̃. Isti viventes in carne plantaverunt ecclesiam sanguine suo, non sunt de terris corpora eorum separata: quorum merita sunt in cœlis animæ sanctorum co-æuales.

Ÿ. Sancti per fidem vicerunt regna, operati sunt justiciam, adepti sunt repromissiones. Quorum merita sunt.

Lectio tertia. Moriuntur terrenæ dignitatis extranei, et eorum pontificio cœlum aut reseratur aut clauditur. Moriuntur, aliquando non morituri, et predones mortis efficiuntur æternæ. O admiranda commercia! quæ nulla possunt estimacione taxari, per Petrum et Paulum Unigeniti sacrum corpus Deus exornat, et in eis ecclesiæ suæ fundamentum constituit.

R̃. Isti sunt viri sancti, quos elegit Dominus in charitate non ficta, et dedit illis gloriam sempiternam. Quorum doctrina fulget ecclesia, ut sole luna.

Ÿ. In omnem terram exivit sonus eorum, et in fines orbis terræ verba eorum. Quorum doctrina.

Versi. Dedisti hereditatem [timentibus nomen tuum, Domine].^a

^a Added from Sarum Breviary.

IN LAUDIBUS.

Antiphona. Hoc est præceptum meum, ut diligatis invicem, sicut dilexi vos.

Psalmus. Dominus regnavit.

Capitulum. Hii sunt viri misericordiæ, quorum oblivionem justiciæ non acceperunt, cum semine eorum permanent bona, hereditas sancta nepotes eorum.

Hymnus.^a

Exultet cælum laudibus,
Resultet terra gaudiis,
Apostolorum gloria ^b
Sacra canunt solennia.

Vos sæcli [justi] iudices,
Et vera mundi lumina,
Votis precamur cordium,
Audite preces supplicum.

Qui cælum verbo clauditis,
Serasque ^c ejus solvitis;
Nos a peccatis omnibus
Solvite jussu quæsumus.

Quorum præcepto subditur
Salus et languor omnium;
Sanate ægros moribus,
Nos reddentes virtutibus.

Ut cum judex advenerit
Christus in fine sæculi,
Nos sempiterni gaudii
Faciât esse compotes.

Deo Patri sit gloria,
Ejusque soli Filio,
Cum Spiritu Paraclyto,
Et nunc et in perpetuum. Amen.

Ver. Annunciaverunt [opera Domini].^d

Antiphona. Isti sunt duæ olivæ et duo candelabra lucentia^e ante Dominum, habent potestatem claudere cælum nubibus et aperire portas ejus; quia linguæ eorum claves cœli factæ sunt. Tempore Paschali, Alleluja.

Oratio. Deus cujus dextera, ut supra ad Primam.

Antiphona. Hoc est præceptum meum.

Psalmus. Deus in nomine tuo.

^a Daniel (Thesaurus Hymnologicus, i. 247) prints two forms of this hymn; the one taken from "Libr. Vet." the other from the "Brev. Rom." The version presented in the text agrees with the more ancient form.

NOTE UPON THESE COLLECTS.

Two points naturally present themselves for discussion. First, how are we to account for the selection of these Collects and their place in this manuscript; and, secondly, why are the Collects arranged in the particular order in which they occur. The second question can be answered at once: the Collects are arranged in the order of the recurrence of the Festivals:—

S. Osmund, Dec. 4; translation, July 16	S. Helen, Aug. 18
S. Ethelbert, K.C. Feb. 24 or 25	S. Thomas of Hereford, Oct. 2
S. Oswald, B.C., Feb. 28 or 29	S. Osithe, Oct. 7
S. David, B.C., March 1	S. Ethelburga, V., Oct. 11
S. Chad, March 2	S. Etheldred, Oct. 17, translation; June 23
S. Mellitus, April 24	S. Fredeswyde, Oct. 19
S. John of Beverley, May 7; translation, Oct. 25	S. John of Beverley, Oct. 25 translation
S. Ethelbert, K.M. May 20	S. Wenefred, V.M., Nov. 3
Venerable Bede, May 27; translation, May 10	S. Erkenwald, Nov. 14 translation; deposition, April 30

I have taken the dates of the Festivals from Sir Harris Nicolas's Chronology of History.

The first question is much more difficult. Several of the Saints named in the foregoing list are intimately associated with S. Paul's Cathedral—S. Erkenwald, S. Ethelbert, K.M., S. Mellitus, and S. Chad; and to these we may add S. Ethelburga, to whom Bishop Erkenwald dedicated the religious house which he founded at Barking. (S. Ethelburga was the sister of S. Erkenwald. See Vita S. Erken- waldi, Dugdale 289.) But how can we account for the other names? It is, at any rate, a remarkable circumstance that the great majority of these names are those of the patron saints of cathedrals or of large religious houses: SS. Osmund, Ethelbert, K.C., Oswald, David, Chad, Thomas of Hereford, Etheldred, and Fredeswyde, are patrons of Salisbury, Hereford, Worcester, S. David's, Lichfield, Hereford, Ely, and Oxford respectively; whilst S. John of Beverley, S. Ethelburga, S. Helen, S. Osith, and S. Winifred are associated with Beverley, Barking, S. Helenstow or S. Helen's Bishopsgate, Chich, and Shrewsbury. I am indebted to Mr. Mackenzie Walcott for this suggestion. He also observes that S. Winifred's feast was ordered to be kept with nine lections in 1398, and with ruling of choir in 1415, a circumstance which may afford some clue to the date of this MS.

It also occurred to me that in the ancient cathedral there were preserved relics of many of these saints, and on examining the lists in Dugdale I observed the following:—

Maxilla S. Athelberti, Confessoris et Fundatoris Ecclesiæ S. Pauli, 314, 337.^a Feretrum S. Athelberti ligneum portatile, 314.

Brachium S. Oswaldi, 314.

De Oswaldo, Rege et Martyre, 337 (presented by Ralph de Diceto).

Brachium S. Melliti magnum, 338.

Brachium S. Melliti parvum, 314, 338.

Caput S. Athelberti, Regis et Martyris, 314, 337.

Brachium S. Osithæ continens capud in manu, 314, 338.

The list, however, is not sufficiently complete to allow of the conclusion that the Collects were selected because the cathedral possessed relics of the saints commemorated.

I also compiled lists of the Altars and Chapels in the old cathedral, but these did not throw much light upon the matter. As no such lists are, to the best of my belief, in existence, and as their compilation has cost considerable labour, I have thought it worth while to print them, and they will accordingly form notes B and C in the Appendix to this volume.

^a The figures after each entry refer to the page in Dugdale's S. Paul's, at which mention of each relic will be found.

There was also found a purse, and in this purse a piece of red sendal, in which were wrapped some bones of the Eleven Thousand Virgins, and other relics the names of which were unknown. These relics Master Robert de Clothale [Chancellor of the Cathedral] shewed to the people during his preaching on the Sunday before the Feast of S. CHRONICULI S. PAULI LONDON^a AD ANNUM 1399.

Anno Domini c.xl inventio ymaginis crucifixi ad hostium boriale, cum magno fluvio Thamesiæ, per Lucium primum Regem Angliæ Christianum.

Anno M.lxxxvij, mensis Julii die vij, Ecclesia Sancti Pauli London et omnia quæ in ea erant cum magna parte civitatis igne erant consumpta, tempore Mauricii Episcopi London, regnante primo Rege Normannorum Willielmo Conquestore, qui fundavit monasteria de Bello in Southsaxia ubi ipse pugnaverat, et Bermondesej juxta London.

Anno M.c.xxvj Idus April. combusta erat civitas Londoñ ex maxima parte ex igne Gilberti Beket.

Anno M.c.xxxvij combusta erat Ecclesia Sancti Pauli Londoñ per ignem ad pontem Londoñ accensum, et inde processit ad Ecclesiam extra barras Novi Templi Londoñ.

Anno M.cl. tam valida erat glacies quod Thamesia potuit per equestres pertransiri.

Anno M.cc.ij tantæ pluvix tonitrua et grandines ceciderunt ut lapides quadranguli ad quantitatem ovorum cum pluvio de coelo descenderunt, ex quibus arbores, vineæ, et segetes multæ erant destructæ, homines erant contriti, et aves per aera volantes visi sunt carbonēs igneos in rostris deferre et domos incendere.

Anno M.cc.iiij¹⁰ incepit ordo prædicatorum in Tholosunis partibus sub duce Dominico. Eodem anno hyemps asperrima a circumcissione Domini usque ad annunciationem Domini perduravit.

^a These excerpts are printed from a manuscript in the British Museum (No. 22,142, Plut. CLXXV., A.); a small octavo-sized volume of ten leaves. The title, although it is the compiler's, is a mere misnomer. The chronicle commences, as usual, at the creation of the world:

"In principio creavit Deus coelum et terram et omnia quæ in eis sunt."

No mention is made of S. Paul's till folio 7; the few extracts now printed contain all that relates to the Cathedral, and are found on folios 7 to 10.

Anno M.CC.xiiij Sanctus Franciscus incepit ordo fratrum minorum juxta Assisum.

Et Anno M.CC.xxiiij venerunt primum in Angliam per biennium ante obitum Sancti Francisci.

Anno M.CC.xxj in festo Sancti Lucae Evangelistæ irruit ventus a septentrione quatiens domos et pomeria, nemora et turres ecclesiarum, visi sunt dracones ignei et maligni spiritus in turbine volitantes.

Anno M.CC.lxiij apud Teukesbury quidam Judæus per diem Sabbati cecidit in latrinam, nec permisit eum extrahi propter reverentiam sui Sabbati.

Set Ricardus de Clara comes Gloverniæ non permisit eum extrahi [sic] propter reverentiam sui Sabbati, et sic mortuus est.

Anno M.CCC.xvj magna lues animalium et hominum, maximaque inundacio ymbrum fuit ex qua pervenerit tanta bladi saristia quod quarterium tritici pro quadraginta solidis vendebatur.

Anno M.CCC.xlvij magna pestilentia Londoñ circa festum Sancti Michaelis et duravit usque festum Sancti Petri ad vinculas proximum sequentem.

Anno M.CCclxj xvij Kalend. Feb. in festo Sancti Mauri Abbatis accidit ventus vehemens et terribilis per totam Angliam.

Eodem anno fuit secunda pestilentia in qua obiit vir nobilis et strenuus, Henricus dux Lancastriæ.

Anno M.CCC.lxvii erat secunda pestilentia in qua obiit nobilis domina Blanchia Lancastriæ ducissa, quæ in presente Ecclesia honorifice jacet tumulata.

In the second line, the words C. Cuculum vixi supply a Chronogram. Arranging the letters in the order of their numerical value, we obtain MCCCLXVVVVII=1382.

Stow tells us in his Annals that in this year, "The one and twentieth day of May was a great earthquake in England at nine of the clocke, fearing the hearts of many,

[Here may be conveniently introduced two entries on the fly-leaves of another manuscript in the British Museum (Faustina, A. VIII. Cotton MSS.)]

Memorandum quod in nocte sequenti post Festum sanctorum Viti et Modesti Anno domini M^oCC nonagesimo octavo occisi fuerunt in Cimiterio Sancti Pauli London vij^{xx} et xix homines, (fo. 46.)

Die dominica proxima ante festum Nativitatis Domini, Anno Domini Millesimo CCC.lxxxij^o, Dominus Henricus Spencer, Episcopus Norwycensis suscepit cruciatam in Ecclesia S. Pauli a Domino Roberto Braybroc Londoñ Episcopo per sanctissimum^a patrem patrum Urbanum Sextum predicto Episcopo Norwicensi^b concessam, contra Antippapam^c Robertum Gybbon Episcopum et socios suos ac alios omnes sibi adherentes. (On fly-leaf, last but two, fo. 175. b.)

but in Kent it was most vehement, where it suncke some Churches, and threwe them downe to the earth. There followed also another Earthquake the xxiiij of May in the morning, before the sunne rising, but not so terrible as the first." It will be remembered that in 1387, William Courtney, Archbishop of Canterbury refers (supra, p. 7) to certain terribiles terræ motus, which had seriously injured Paul's Cross. The Scribe therefore gives us, in these two lines, the date of a memorable earthquake. (See, in Appendix L, a note upon this earthquake.)

In 1382 the Dominical letter was E; S. Dunstan's Day, May 19, has F as its letter, and the next A would fall therefore on May 21, the day named by Stow as that of the great earthquake. Stow, however, says that the earthquake occurred at "nine of the clocke"; the sompnium meridianum must have concluded at an early hour, if Stow is correct. Amongst the Benedictines, says Mr. Mackenzie Walcott, "At 11, the cymbal rang for the brethren to wash their hands and faces at the conduit or lavatory before dinner. On leaving the refectory they went into the choir to say Sexts, and specially the Psalms li and lxvii, and thence to the cemetery, where they stood bareheaded and praying among the graves in which lay the dead never sundered from their love or recollection. Then came, in summer, the meridian, the mid-day sleep; a custom borrowed from the East and southern Europe." Church Work and Life in English Minsters, i. 41.

^a Sanctissimum is written over an erasure.

KALENDAR AND LIST OF OBITS OBSERVED IN S. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL, TAKEN FROM THE STATUTA MAJORA, A MANUSCRIPT OF THE TIME OF RICHARD II.

PREFATORY NOTE.—In editing this Calendar I have thought it desirable to prefix a column showing the days of the month according to our ordinary notation, for the convenience of those who do not readily remember the Calends, Nones, and Ides. I have also supplied the first letter of the name of each of the Saints, and the Dominical letter A wherever it ought to occur: it was originally intended that these letters should be inserted in gold, but the intention was never carried out, and the spaces remain blank. I have carefully distinguished between the original entries, made at the time when the manuscript was written, and those inserted at a later period. This calendar, and the two following articles (Nos. xiii. and xiv.), are written in the large, clear, black hand, for which our Scriptorium at S. Paul's was famous. Words printed in italics are rubricated in the original manuscript.

^a "Upon Paul's-Wharf-Hill, within a great Gate, and belonging to that Gate next to Doctors-Commons, are many fair Tenements; which in their Leases made from the Dean and Chapter go by the Name or Title of Camera Dianæ, i.e. Diana's Chamber. So denominated from a spacious Building, that, in the Time of Henry the Second, stood where they are now standing. In this Camera, or arched and vaulted Structure, full of intricate Ways and Windings, this Henry the Second, as some Time he did at Woodstock, kept, or was supposed to have kept, that jewel of his heart, fair Rosamond: She, whom he there called Rosa mundi; and here, by the Name of Diana. And from thence had this House that Title.

"To this Day are Remains, and some evident Testifications of tedious Turnings and Windings, as also of a Passage under Ground, from this House to Castle Baynard. Which was, no doubt, the King's Way from thence to his Camera Dianæ, or the Chamber of his brightest Diana."—Strype's Stow's Survey, i. 706.

The house is mentioned in the Cathedral Statutes as "Domus Dyanæ vel Rosamundæ."—Registrum, 126, 127.

ORDINANCE FOR THE ELECTION OF A NEW PRIORESS AT S. HELEN'S, BISHOPSGATE : ^a 1204-1216.

Ordinacio Ecclesiæ Monialium Sanctæ Helenæ infra Bisshopesgate, et eleccionis novæ Priorissæ.^b

Sciant præsentēs et futuri, quod Ego Alardus,^c ecclesiæ Sancti Pauli Londoñ Decanus, et ejusdem ecclesiæ Capitulum concessimus Willielmo filio Willielmi Aurifabri, patrono ecclesiæ Sanctæ Helenæ Londoñ, ut constituat in eadem ecclesia moniales, Deo imperpetuum ibidem servituras, et collegio ibidem constituto jus patronatus ejusdem ecclesiæ, quod a prædecessoribus nostris ei fuerat concessum, conferat. Ita quidem quod quæcunque ibidem nomine Priorissæ ministrabit, post eleccionem ab eodem collegio factam, Decano et Capitulo Londoñ præsentetur, et juret fidelitatem Decano et Capitulo tam de ipsa ecclesia, quam de pensione dimidiæ marcæ annue infra viij dies Paschæ solvenda, et de jure patronatus non alienando,

^a Transcribed from the Statuta Majora, S. Paul's Cathedral, fo. 145*b*, et seqq.

^b In Dr. Cox's Annals of St. Helen's Bishopsgate (see pages 5, 7, 8, 359), will be found some very interesting documents relating to this Nunnery; and, amongst them, an Ordinance of Alardus the Dean, Of the constituting of Nuns in this Church; the Will of Henry de Gloucester, Citizen and Goldsmith, leaving eleven marks to the Prioress and Convent to provide two monks to pray for his own soul and for that of his parents; Constitutions drawn up by the Dean, Reynolde Kentwode, and Chapter of S. Paul's, for the government of the sisters, in 1439; with many other details, partly drawn from Dugdale's Monasticon, vol. iv. and partly from Mr. Hugo's Last Ten Years of S. Helen's.

^c Alardus de Burnham, Dean of S. Paul's, succeeded to the Deanery circa 1204, died 14 Aug. 1216.

et quod nulli alii collegio se subiciet. Concessimus et quantum in nobis est,^a quod collegium ibi statutum omnes obvenciones supradictæ ecclesiæ, excepta dicta pensione, in usus proprios convertat. Idem quoque collegium omnia onera episcopalia ad prædictam ecclesiam pertinencia sustinebit. Si autem in loco prædicto aliquo casu fortitu^b conversacio monialium desierit, concessimus ut ibidem viri religiosi absque contradictione, secundum formam de monialibus superius expressam, constituentur, et simili modo Decano Londoñ et Capitulo obligentur. Ut autem hujus concessionis nostræ, nec non et convencionis tocius tenor inperpetuum memoria firmiter teneatur et firmiter observetur, ipsum totum sub forma cyrograffi scribi fecimus, cujus pars una nostro, pars vero altera ipsius W. et monialium sigillis, ut omnis in posterum tollatur malignandi occasio, ad mutuam hinc inde cautelam, roborata est. Hiis testibus, D. Londoñ Decano, et aliis.

Mortua Priorissa Sanctæ Helenæ, conventus loci ejusdem statim denunciare debet obitum ejusdem oretenus Decano et Capitulo Sancti Pauli Londoñ, tanquam patronis et prælati suis, per senescallum suum et capellanos suos. Quo facto, Decanus et Capitulum mox debent mittere duos Canonicos vel alios apud Sanctam Helenam, ad capiendum in manum suam monasterium illud per claves ecclesiæ, quas sub-priorissæ dictæ domus protinus tradere debent, de bonis dictarum monialium nichil ministrando. Demum, corpore Priorissæ defunctæ per aliquem dictorum canonicorum, ut moris est, tradito sepulturæ, conventus prædictus confessorem et senescallum ac familiares capellanos suos, cum literis suis patentibus sigillo suo communi signatis, mittere debent ad Decanum et Capitulum pro petenda licencia eligendi, quam sine moræ dispendio liberaliter concedere debent per literas suas patentes majori sigillo consignatas. Quibus receptis, et in capitulo Sanctæ Helenæ reci-tatis, moniales diem statuere debent ad electionem faciendam. Et electione facta et publicata, significare debent dictæ moniales per senescallum suum die sequente Decano et Capitulo se talem elegerisse. Et remandare debent iidem Decanus et Capitulum monialibus, ut certa die electam suam apud Sanctum Paulum personaliter repræsentent, cum literis suis patentibus sigillo suo communi signatis; quæ^a per suppriorissam vel præcentricem præsentari debet. Et lectis literis præsentatoriis in Capitulo, examinataque electione, confirmata et electa cum cantu, Te Deum laudamus, ad majus altare deducta, et super gradus inclinata, post Psalmum percantatum dicuntur preces.^b

Salvam fac ancillam tuam [Domine].

Mitte ei auxilium de Sancto.

Nichil proficiet inimicus in ea.

Esto ei, Domine, turris fortitudinis.

Domine, exau[di orationem meam].

Oratio. Exaudi, quæsumus, Domine, preces nostras, et super hanc famulam tuam Sancti Spiritus dona clementer infunde, ut

^a i.e. the Prioress elect, if debet be right; but probably quæ refers to the letters, and we should read debent: the manuscript, however, reads debet, as in the text.

^b In the Roman Pontifical these versicles and responses occur, though in somewhat different order, in the Office De Benedictione Abbatissæ:

V'. Salvam fac ancillam tuam, Domine.

R'. Deus meus, sperantem in Te.

V'. Mitte ei, Domine, auxilium de Sancto.

R'. Et de Sion tuere eam.

V'. Nichil proficiat inimicus in ea.

R'. Et filius iniquitatis non apponat nocere ei.

V'. Esto ei, Domine, turris fortitudinis.

R'. A facie inimici.

V'. Domine, exaudi orationem meam.

R'. Et clamor meus ad Te veniat.

V'. Dominus vobiscum.

R'. Et cum spiritu tuo.

cælesti munere dicata et vitæ merito tibi placere valeat, et bene vivendo aliis exempla præbere: per Christum.

Deinde Priorissa reducatur ad Capitulum, et ibidem tradatur sibi onus monasterii sui quatenus ad Priorissam pertinet, et juret Decano et Capitulo fidelitatem et obedientiam, et quod domum suam nulli alii submittet, et quod pensionem dimidiæ marcæ de Decano et Capitulo annuatim debitam fideliter solvet. Quibus peractis, Decanus et Capitulum, ex consuetudine approbata, concedere debent licenciam Priorissæ et monialibus ipsam comitantibus visitandi amicos suos in civitate et extra per tres dies sequentes, eo quod nunquam egrediuntur septa monasterii nisi tantum in præsentacione eleccionis Priorissæ suæ. Tribus vero diebus transactis, mittantur duo Canonici apud Sanctam Helenam die quarto ulteriori ad installandam dictam Priorissam; qui, occurrentes Priorissæ et monialibus ad januas chori Sanctæ Helenæ, ducunt eam inter se per medium chori, et ea collocata coram altari, unus Canonicorum dicat versiculos suprascriptos et oracionem,

Protege quæsumus, Domine, famulam tuam &c. vel,

Exaudi quæsumus, ut supra.

Et postmodum osculato altari, ducant eam ad stallum, psallentes Psalmum, Levavi oculos. Et installando eam auctoritate Decani et Capituli, dicant, Installamus te Priorissam hujus ecclesiæ; obsecrantes Dei misericordiam ut custodiat introitum tuum et exitum tuum, ex hoc nunc et usque in seculum. Amen.

Omnipotens sempiterne Deus, miserere famulæ, &c.

Deinde ducant eam in Capitulo, et assignent sibi sedem in superiori scanno, et major Canonicus auctoritate prædicta tradat ei regulam Sancti Benedicti cum regimine spiritualiter dictæ domus; et postmodum tradant ei sigillum commune cum regimine temporaliter prædictæ domus, dicendo,

Tradimus tibi potestatem regendi hanc ecclesiam et congregationem ejus, et omnia quæ interius exteriusque ad eam pertinent, in nomine Domini nostri Jhesu Christi, Salvatoris et Redemptoris nostri; qui cum Patre et Spiritu Sancto vivis et regnas Deus. Per.

Injungendo monialibus, ut Priorissæ obediant tanquam matri suæ spirituale;^a et quælibet earum osculetur eam, et obedienciam faciant, ut est moris.

VERA HISTORIA INCENDII TEMPLI SANCTI PAULI LONDON.^a 1561.

Omnibus et singulis præsentēs literas testimoniales inspecturis Salutem in Domino. Ego Petrus Johnson in Civitate London' oriundus, Notarius et tabellio publicus auctoritate plena, in jure etiam Civili Baccallaureus, ac a Registro et Commentariis Reverendissimi Præsulis Edmundi Grindall London' Episcopi primus, quem vulgò Registrarium vocant, notum facio et attestor, quod Mercurii die qui erat quartus Junii anno salutis nostræ millesimo quingentesimo sexagesimo primo, inter primam et secundam horas pomeridianas, vibrare de cœlo visum est ingens et terribile fulmen, quòd continuò secutus est immensus et inusitatus e nubibus fragor, idque directò (quantum sensus nostri dijudicare poterant) supra urbem Londinum. Et eo temporis momento summitas anguli notolibici turris divi Martini ex saxo quadrato, ad Luddam portam, diffracta et dissipata est: et lapides aliquot graves dejecti, vi ac impetu per tectum austrinum in templi pavementum deciderunt: nonnulli etiam viri, dum procella ea fureret, cymbis in flumine Thamesi vecti, quidam etiam in agris urbi finitimis versati, certò affirmant vidisse se oblongum flammæ tractum jaculi instar, in mucronem desinentem, qui pyramidem Paulinam, ab oriente, occidentem versus penetrare et perrumpere videbatur. Quidam etiam parœcii divi Martini, cum essent eodem tempore in platea, subito senserunt violentum commoti aeris impetum, quasi turbinis, et gravem una odorem, non dissimilem sulphuri, afflatum a divi Pauli templo: et pariter audire fragorem saxorum e turri illa Sancti Martini in templi sinum corruentium. Post, inter quartam et quintam a nonnullis conspiciebatur erumpens quidam vapor, ac fumus, subter spheram pyramidis Paulinæ, præsertim a me Petro Johnsono antedicto, qui statim rem ad Episcopum antefatum Dominum meum retuli; verùm repente post, flamma undique erupit, et coronæ in modum, totam supremam metam ambivit, ad quatuor cubitos (ut videbatur) sub globo ejusdem; et intra unius horæ quadrantem, aut paulo plus, et aquila illa ærea et crux quæ illam sustinuit, et globus ille coruscans, quem tantopere homines antea sæpe suspexerant, incendio labefactata in tectum supremæ testudinis australis corruerunt. Urbis præfectus, quem Majorem vocamus, cum primùm res animadversa est, cum cæteris senatoribus accersitis, cum omni festinatione advolaverunt, et pro re nata, unacum Episcopo et aliis, consilia contulerunt, ad leniendum saltem tam præsens periculum, cum ad restinguendum et penitus compescendum nulla pene ratio iniri possit. Eò accesserunt etiam, Dominus Custos Magni Sigilli Angliæ, ac Dominus Thesaurarius, qui non sine gravi consilio, et authoritate, quantum in tanto tumultu, et tanta rerum omnium perturbatione fieri possit, rerum gerendarum ordinem præstituerunt. Non deerant aliquot, idque rei militaris scientiam præ se ferentes, qui reliquum pyramidis quod superfuerat, tormentis æneis decuti ac deturbari volebant, verùm illud neutiquam commodum judicatum est, sed contra periculosissimum, tum propter ignis dissipationem, tum propter ædium ruinam, et hominum exitium. Alii cum desperatum esse vidissent omne subsidium quod pyramidi adferri posset, animadversis et incendii immensitate et plumbi liquatione, optimum esse rati sunt, scalis undique comparatis templum conscendere, et securibus intercapedines aliquas dedolare, in summis delubri tectis, ad sistendum ignem et ad conservandum aliquas saltem templi partes: atque in hanc quidem sententiam decretum est. Cæterùm priusquam scalæ et situlæ adferri, ac res commode distribui poterant: præsertim verò quòd pinnæ parietum erant tam sublimes, ut scalis superari non possent, nec dolabra satis multa, tam subito conqueri: et quòd opera multitudine intercurrentium otiosorum spectatorum remorati impediabantur: suprema templi tecta, turri lapideæ quæ pyramidem sustinebat proxima, circum circa flammam conceperunt. Primùm ruina crucis cum aquila et globo ignem intulit tecto austrini fornicis, quod primò exustum fuit. Deinde ferramentis, laquearibus, ignitis trabibus, et liquato plumbo, continue in subjecta tecta ruentibus, cætera undique fuerunt inflammata, ad occasum, ad septemtrionem, et postremò ad ortum, adeo ut prope unius horæ spatio, piramis ipsa ad parietum e saxo fastigia usque deflagraverit: et maxima summorum tectorum totius templi pars absumpta fuerit. Desperato jam pyramidis et tecti totius supremi statu, præfectus urbis, Wintero quodam ex præfectura marina submonente, omnem curam et machinamenta convertit ad tuendum Episcopi palacium, templo ad occasum et septemtrionem adhærens, ne ab illis ædibus præamplis flamma diventilaretur, in compita et viciniciis: quamobrem scalæ et coriaceæ situlæ et operæ confestim eò transmissæ sunt, et aliquantum operimenti ultimæ testudinis inferioris ad septemtrionem, quod per devolutos ardenteis tignos incendi jam cœptum erat, ingenti hominum labore et industria disiectum fuit, ignis coercitus, et multa aqua restinctus, et ædes illæ conservatæ. Placuit item propitio Deo, venti vim eodem tempore primùm convertere: deinde etiam, qui paulo ante ab ortu acrior et in pomeriis sub urbe violentior adhuc erat, compescere. Quingenti in aqua convehenda operam ponebant. Aliquot opulenti Cives, non secus ac bajuli seu operarii, pro virili satagebant, et nonnulli etiam nobiles, quorum nomina mihi fuerunt ignota. Verùm Winterus, de quo supra memini, et Stranguicius^a quidam, præ cæteris strenue seipsos gesserunt, tum laborando, tum admonendo, tum cohortando, et non sine ingenti ipsorum discrimine, impigre pericula adeundo. Vesperi Griniwico ab aula venit Dominus Clintonus, præfectus

^a Strangways or Strangwish.

Classis Regiæ, quem Regia Majestas, cum primùm incendii furorem unacum aliis conspexisset, propenso tum in templum tum in urbem animo, propere Londinum dimiserat, ut cum urbis præfecto conjunctus deliberaret de compescenda incendii violentia, cuius suasu, auctoritate, et diligenti procuracione, utilitatis plurimum rebus conficiendis allatum est. Nocte ad decimam ignis ferocia sedata fuit, quòd materies jam lapsa incubuerat testudinibus templi fastigiis vallata. At nondum tamen restincto incendio testudines sive fornices omnes satis (sit Deo gratia) salvi manent: transverberati rare gravi rerum ruina, adeo ut sola ea materies quæ medias testudines servabat sartas tectas prorsus exusta fuerit, et plumbum quod eam intexerat liquatum: maxima tamen pars inferiorum a latere testudinum anticarum, id est a medio templo orientem versus, et ex posticis ad orientem spectantibus pauxillum, ab igne intacta manent. Hoc autem illud est in quo omnes summa lætitia affici decet, quod Deus in medio iræ recordatus misericordiæ, damnum hujus ferocis ac horribilis incendii, intra hujus unius templi parietes inclusit, non transfundens iram suam in ullum urbis partem, quæ (quantum quisque conjectura assequi poterat) extremo discrimine objecta esse videbatur. Certò etenim per universam urbem ne tignem quidem, aut tigillum ullum, ad propagandum latius incendium, ignem concepit: cum tamen circum circa per compita et plateas, non solum adjacentes, verum etiam remotiores, utpote in forum venale novæ portæ, et in Fletæ vicum, venti afflatu et ignis impetu, ardentès primæ unacum favilla, raræ cujusdam grandinis instar, deciderint. Et tenues plumbi lamellæ vel bracteæ villorum nivalium in morem, in hortos suburbanos delatæ sunt, sine ullius vel hominis vel domicilii detrimento. Multi inanes rumusculi passim sparsi sunt, de hujus incendii origine: aliqui ferunt eam evenisse plumbariorum incuria, sed nec plumbarii, nec ullæ aliæ operæ, per integros antea sex menses aliquid operæ ibi posuerunt. Alii suspicantur contigisse feri ignis aut pulveris tormentarii fraudulentò ac nefando malificio. Verùm adhuc et si diligenti exploratione in eam rem disquisimus, nulla tamen satis justa et probabilis suspicio reperiri poterit, quæ ad quemquam pertineat. Quidam culpam conferunt in magos, incantatores et malificos, sed ea conjectura nihil incertius. Verùm esto ea ratione evenisse, non poterat tamen Diabolus hoc sine divino permissu, idque ad aliquod inscrutabile ejus judicium (prout apparet in Jobi historia) confecisse. Vera origo (ut videtur) fuit dira illa et procellosa tempestas: colligi etenim nulla ratione poterit quin, cum tam horrende tonaret et cochlis illa lapidea divi Martini ad portam Luddam desjiceretur,^a fulmen, quod natura sua, summa ferit, primùm de cœlo tetigeret fastigium pyramidis Paulinæ, et intro-missum per foramina, quæ sarcien-dis structuris relinquebantur, ignem intulerit materiei, tam diutina temporis longinquitate siccata, qui semel conceptus, et fotu amplificatus, flammam suscitavit, ac peperit hunc eventum dirum aspectu et cogitatu lugubrem. Proxima post Dominica ad sextum Idus Junii Reverendus in Domino Episcopus Dunelmensis^b ad suggestum Paulinum concionabatur, et docte et utiliter hortatus eos, apud quos agebatur, ad publicam resipiscentiam, et præcipue ad submissionem erga magistratus, atque obedientiam hac nostra tempestate valde jam neglectam atque diminutam: significans intellexisse se Regiam majestatem severioribus legibus in præfractos et pernicipes usuram, tam in Religionis negociis quam in rebus civilibus, magno cum audientium applausu. Hoc etenim fidelis populus percipide expetebat. Admonuit item auditores ut hanc conflagrationem existimarent judicium et portentum imminentis cladis toti huic genti ac præcipue Londinensi, nisi vita emendatior in omni hominum genere subsequeretur. Is eos etiam asperius appellavit, impendioque increpuit, qui causam hujus iræ divinæ transferunt in aliquam certam hominum conditionem, aut qui curiose aliorum vitam contemplantur, ad suam tamen somnolente connivent: præcatus ut quilibet in sese descenderet, et cum Davide diceret Ego sum qui peccavi; cæteraque in eam sententiam docte juxta et pie prosecutus est. Incusavit præterea non solum con-

Et ideo consultissimum esse existimavit ut quisque in seipsum descenderet, seipsum exploraret, et emandaret:^b amplec-teretur etiam, crederet, et non dissimulanter sequeretur, ea que divinitus per scripturas prodita sunt: serioque Deum deprecaretur, ut meritam a cervicibus nostris suam iram et indignationem aver-tere non dedignaretur, cujus hoc ejus tremendum opus est certis-sima nota nisi infucate respiscamus.

IN PERENNEM hujus tantæ cladis memoriam atque novi incendii recordationem ac majorem fidem has literas testimoniales tabellio-nali mea nota solita et assueta subscriptas, mandato dicti amplissimi præsulis et Domini mei, Domini Edmundi Grindalli, Londonensis Episcopi, confeci: hicque in Archivis et monumentis suis fideliter declaratas et descriptas inserui atque scripsi. THE TRVE REPORT OF THE BURNYNG OF THE STEPLE AND CHURCHE OF POULES IN LONDON.

¶ THE TRUE REPORTE OF THE BURNINGE OF THE STEPLE AND CHURCH OF PAULES IN LONDON.

On Wednesday beinge the fourthe daye of Iune, in the yeare of our Lord. 1561. and in the thyrde yeare of the reigne of our soueraigne Ladye Elizabeth by the grace of God, Queene of England, Fraunce and Ireland, defender of the faith, &c. betweene one and two of the clocke at after noone, was seene a marueilous great fyrie lightning, and immediately insued a most terrible hydeous cracke of thunder, suche as seldom hath been heard, and that by estimacion of sense, directlye ouer the Citie of London. At which instante the corner of a turret of y^e steple of saint Martins Church within Ludgate was torne, and diuers great stones casten down, and a hole broken throughe the roofe & timber of the said church, by the fall of the same stones.

For diuers persones in tyme of the saide tempest being on the riuier of Thamys, and others beyng in the fieldes nere adioyning to y^e Citie, affirmed that thei saw a long and a speare pointed flame of fier (as it were) runne through the toppe of the Broche or Shaft of Paules Steple, from the Easte Westwarde. And some of the parish of saint Martins then being in the streete, dyd feele a marueylous strong ayre or whorlewynd, with a smel lyke brimstone, comming from Paules Church, and withal heard the rushe of y^e stones which fell frō their steple into the church. Betwene iiii. and fve of the clocke a smoke was espied by diuers to breake oute vnder the bowle of the said shaf of Paules, & namely by Peter Johnson principall Registrer to the Bishop of Londō, who immediatly brought worde to the Bishops house. But sodeinly after, as it wer in a momente, the flame brake furth in a circle like a garlande rounde about the broche, about two yards to thestimation of sight vnder the bowle of the said shaft, & increased in suche wise, that within a quarter of an howre, or litle more, the crosse & the Egle on the toppe fell downe vpon the south crosse Ile. The Lord Maior being sent for, & his brethren, came with all spede possible, & had a short consultaciō as in such a case might be, with y^e Bishop of London and others, for y^e best way of remedy. And thither came also y^e Lord Keper of y^e great Seale, & the Lord Treasurer, who by their wisdom and authoritie dyirected as good order, as in so great a confusiō could possible be.

Some there wer, pretēding experience in warres, that coūceled the remanente of the steeple to bee shot down with Canons, whiche counsel was not liked, as most perilous both for the dispersing the fire, and destructiō of houses and people, other perceiuing the steeple to be past al recouery, considering the hugenes of the fier, & the dropping of the lead, thought beste to geat ladders & scale the church, & with axes to hew down a space of the rooffe of the Church, to stay the fier, at the leaste to saue some part of the saide church, whiche was concluded. But before y^e ladders & buckets could be brought, & things put in any order, and especially because the church was of such height, that thei could not skale it, & no sufficiente number of axes could be had, y^e laborers also being troubled with y^e multitude of ydle gasers, the moste parte of the higheste rooffe of the Church was on fier.

Fyrst the fall of the Crosse and Egle fired the southe crosse Ile, whiche Ile was firste consumed, the beames & brands of the steeple fell down on euery side, & fired the other thre partes, that is to saye, the Chauncel or Quier, the north Ile, & the body of the church. So that in one howres space y^e broch of the steeple was brent downe to y^e battlementes, and the most part of y^e highest rooffe of the church, likewise consumed. The state of the steeple & church seming both desperate: my Lord Mayor was aduised by one Maister Winter of y^e admiraltie, to conuerte the moste part of his care & prouisiō to preserue the Bishops palace adioynnyng to the Northwest end of the church: least frō that house beinge large, the fier might sprede to the stretes adioynnyng. Wherupon the ladders, buckets, & laborers, were commaunded thither, & by greate labor & diligence, a piece of y^e rooffe of the Northe Ile was cut down, & the fier so stayed, and by muche water, that parte quenched, and y^e said Bishops house preserued. It pleased god also at the same tyme bothe to turne & calme the winde, which afore was vehemēt, & continued stil high & greate in other partes without y^e citie. There wer aboue v. c. persons y^t laboured in carying & fillig water &c. Diuers substantial Citizens toke paynes as if thei had bene laborers, so did also diuers & son-drye gentlemen, whose names wer not knowen to the writer hereof, but amongst other, the said M. Winter, & one M. Stranguish, did both take notable paines in their own persons, & also much directed and encouraged other, and that not without great daüger to thēselues. In y^e euening came the Lord Clinton, Lord admiral, frō y^e court at Grenewiche, whō the Queenes maiesty assone as the rage of the fier was espied by her maiesty and others in the court, of the pitifull inclinacion & loue that her gracious highnesse dyd beare both to y^e said church & the citie, sente to assyst my Lorde Mayor for the suppressyng of the fyre, who with his wysdome, authority & diligēt traual did very much good therein. About x. of the clocke the fyrcenes of the fyre was past, the tymbre being fallen and lyng brenninge vppon the vaultes of stone, the vaultes yet (god be thanked) standyng vnperished: so as onelyc the tymbre of the hole church was consumed, & the lead molten, sauynge the most parte of the two lowe Iles of the Queare, and a piece of the north Ile, and an other smal piece of y^e southe Ile, in the bodye of the churche. Nowithstandyng all which, it pleased the merciful god in his wrath to remēbre his mercie, and to enclose the harme of this most fyerce and terrible fyre, wythin the walles of thys one church, not extending any part of his wrath in this fyre vppon the rest of the Citie, whiche to all reason and sence of man was subiect to vtter distruction. For in the hole city without the churche no stycke was kyndled surelyc. Notwithstanding that in diuerse partes, & stretes, and within the houses bothe adioyninge and of a good distaunce, as in fletestreete, & newgate market, by the violence of fyre, burninge coles of greate bignesse, fell downe almoost as thicke as haylstones, and flawes of lead were blowne abrode into the gardins without y^e Citie, like flawes of snow in bredthe w^oute hurt, god be thanked, to any house or persō. Many fond talkes goe abrode of the original cause of this fier. Some say, it was negligence of plumbers, whereas by due examinacion it is proued that no plumbers or other workemen labored in the churche for sixe monethes before. Other suspect it was done by som wicked practise of wildfyer or gunpouder, but no iust suspicions thereof by any examinacion can be founde hitherto. Some suspect coniurers & sorcerers, wherof there is also no great likelyhode. And if it hadde bene wrought y^t waie, yet could not the deuill haue done it, without Gods permissiō, & to some purpose of his vnsercheable iudgemēts, as appereth in the story of Job. The true cause as it semeth, was the tēpest by gods suffrance: for it cannot be otherwise gathered, but that at y^e said great & terrible thunderclap, when sainte Martins steple was torne, the lightning which by natural order smiteth y^e highest, did first smite y^e top of Paules steple, and entring in at the small holes which haue alwaies remained open for building skaffoldes to the workes, & finding the timber very olde & drie, did kindle y^e same, & so y^e fier increasing grew to a flame & wrought y^e effecte which folowed, most terrible then to behold, & now most lamentable to looke on.

On Sonday folowyng beyng the viii. day of June, the reuerend in god, the Bishop of Duresme, at Paules crosse made a learned & fruitful sermon, exhorting the auditory to a general repentance, & namely to humble obediēce of the lawes & superior powers, whiche vertue is much decayed in these our daies: seming to haue intellygēce from the Queenes highnes, that her maiestie intendeth that more seueritie of lawes shalbe executed against persons disobedyent, aswell in causes of religiō, as ciuil, to the great reioysing of his auditours. He exhorted also hys audiēce to take this as a generall warninge to the whole realme, & namelye to the citie of London, of some greater plage to folow, if amendemente of lyfe in all States did not ensue: He much reprobued those persons whiche woulde assigne the cause of this wrathe of god to any perticular state of mē, or that were diligent to loke into other mens lyues, & coulde see no faultes in themselfes: but wished that euery man wold descend into himselfe and say with Dauid Ego sum qui peccavi, I am he that hath sinned, and so furth to that effect verie godlye. He also not onely reprobued the prophanatyon of the said Church of Paules of longe time hertofore abused by walkīg, iangling, brawling, fighting, bargaining. &c. namely in Sermons & service time: but also aūswered by the way to the obiectiōs of such euil tūnged persōs, which do impute this token of gods deserued ire, to alteraciō, or rather reformaciō of religiō, declaring out of aūcient records & histories, y^e like, yea & greater maters had befallen in y^e time of superstitiō & ignorance. For in y^e first yere of King Stephā not only y^e said church of Paules was brēt, but also a great part of y^e city, y^t is to say, frō Londō bridge vnto S. Clemēts without Tēplebar was by fier cōsumed. And in y^e daies of King Hēry y^e VI. y^e steple of Paules was also fired by lightning, although it was then staide by diligēce of y^e Citizens, y^e fier being thē by likelyhode not so fierce. Many other suche like cōmon calamities he rehersed, whiche had happened in other cōutreis, both nigh to this realm & far of, where y^e church of Rome hath most authority, & therefore cōclūded y^e surest way to be, y^t euery man should iudge, examin, & amēd himselfe, & embrace, beleue, and truely folow y^e word of god, & earnestly to pray to god to turn away frō vs his deserued wrath & indignaciō, whereof this his terrible work is a most certein warning, if we repent not vnfeinedly. The whiche god grāt maye come to passe in all estates & degrees, to y^e glory of his name and to oure endlesse comforte in Christ our sauour. Amen.

God saue the Queene.

BALLAD. "THE BURNING OF PAULES,"^a circa 1561.

THE BURNING OF PAULES.

Lament eche one the blazing fire
That downe from heaven came,
And burnt S. Powles his lofty spyre
With lightnings furious flame.
Lament, I say,
Both night and day,
Sith London's sins did cause the same.

'The fire came downe from heaven soone,
But did not strike the crosse,
At fower in the afternoone,
To our most grevous losse.
Could nothing stay
The sad decay:
The lead was molten into drosse.

^a This ballad has been printed by Mr. J. Payne Collier (from a manuscript in his possession) in his Extracts from the Registers of the Stationers' Company, edited by him for the Shakespeare Society. He prints it, he says, "not on account of any merit it possesses, but because it adds one or two circumstances not related elsewhere;" and I reprint it, because it may advantageously be read side by side with the prose tracts in English and in Latin here presented to the reader. In Appendix J. will be found the tune to which the ballad was sung.

For five long howers the fire did burn
The roof and timbers strong:
The bells fell downe, and we must mourne,
The wind it was so strong,
It made the fier
To blaze the higher,
And doe the church still greater wrong.

O, London! think on thine amisse,
Which brought this great mishap;
Remember how thou livde in blisse,
And layde in vices lap.
O, now begin,
Repent thy sin,
And say it shall no more entrap.

LETTER FROM BISHOP AYLMER TO THE LORD MAYOR.^a 1581.

MY LORD MAIÖ,^b

I heare that yow deale very hardly with the pachers and Clergie the ouersight of whome god and Her Matie hath comitted unto me ; and therefore I must nedes, as chefe Pastor bothe to yo^w and them, see that they in their function suffer no iniurie, and desier yo^w to use them as the ministers of god and the keps and curers of your soule, w^{ch} I hope you esteeme to be the better pte of yo^w, of whome the holy ghost hath saide that they are worthy of doble honor. The like whereof cannot be found spoken of yo^w, and yet (if it be true that I heare) yow thou them, yow taunte them, yea such as by calling are Archedecons, by lawe not enferior to yo^w when yow be out of your Maraltie. Your sonne beknaueth them ; Wherefore if any complaine he is like to answere it. Yow are not content thus to triumphe ouer the meaner sorte, but yow reache at them that be as good as yourselfe euen in your Maraltie, and somewhat your superiors when you are out: namely, That Horne^c (for so yow tearme him) was an hipocrite, and had no latine ; wherein the world and all wise men will condempne yow for so speaking of a dead man, whoe for his wisdome, learning, good government and writing, was famous, and therefore not to be meligned after his deathe, specially by a man of your place. She whose pson yow present (the Lord preserue Her Ma^{tie}) wold not so speake by him nor by any prelate in this Realme. I passe ouer my self, whome it pleaseth yow to tearme familiarly by the name of Aelmer, as unreuerently as if I shold omitt the name of your office and call yo^w Haruey; which, god willing, I will not doe, to teach yow good manners. Yow say that when Aelmer was in Zurich, he thought c^{li} a year was enoughe for any minister: and so thought yow paduerture in your prentisshood that c^{li} a year had been well for a merchaunte. Yow are glaunsing at my house keping, and that the B. of London feasted the L. Maio^r and his bretheren: I thinke that wonte was but once and therefore I minde not to followe it as a president; and as litle as yow inake of Aelmers hospitalitie, yet if yow compare v yerres of yours with v yerres of his, his may chaunce to ouerreache your 4000^{li}. Ah! my L., I haue neuer spoken or thought unreuerently of yow, nor haue not ben so used at any of yo^r predecessors handes; and thinke it therefore a great forgetfullnesse in yow of that dutifull good will that, both by Gods lawe and mans, yow owe to your B. and ordinarie. The lack whereof, thoughe I beare it nowe for your office sake, (w^{ch} I nede not), yet the next yere I may remember it, when by gods grace I ame like to be as I ame, and yo^w somewhat inferior to that, that you are. Well, to ende as I beganne: I pray yow, use the ministers according to their calling; thoughe not for their owne sake, nor his whome they serue, yet for the lawes of the Realme which doth prouide for them; and in respecte of her Ma^{ts} Co^mmission, which is cheifely graunted to us to see that they be not misused. And thinke that the meanest of them is richer then yow in that sorte of riches which in Gods sight shall shine as gould when your shalbe counted as drosse. I could not but, as one that hath cheife charge of your soule, admonishe yow, that by the dispising of his ministers, and so consequently by the dispising of him, yow prouoke not his wrathe, offend not his Ma^{tie}, whoe wold haue them honored and make all wise men thinke ther is some wante in yow of that grautie and sercumspection that shold be in him that hath the royall sworde carryed before him. If yow take this in good pte as com̃ing from him that hath charge ouer yow, I ame glad. If not, I must tell yow your dutie out of my chaire, which is the pulpit at Poules crosse, where yow must sitt not as a iudge to comptrole but as a scholler to learne ; and I not as John Aelmer to be thwarted but as John London to teache yow and all London. And if you use not your self as an humble scholler, then to dissipline yow as a teacher and prelate. Thus I bidd yor L^p hartely farewell. Fullham this j of March, 1581.

REPORT OF ATTORNEY GENERAL NOY AND DR. RIVES AS TO THE PROFANATION OF S. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL.

That this abuse and profanation of that holy place hath growen onlie by the neglect and sufferance of the Deane and Chapter in tymes past.

That the redresse and remedy must likewise proceed from their now successors, and from their care diligence and zeale in pursueing this intended reformation.

That for redresse of walkeing there in tyme of dyuine seruice, one part of this abuse, the power lyeth properly in their hands.

Where vppon Sundayes and all festivall dayes the boyes and maydes and children of the two neighbouring parishes presently after dynner come into the Church, there they playe in such manner as children vse to doe till darke night, and hence cometh principally that inordinate noyse, which many tymes suffereth not the preacher to be heard in the Quyre.

That these two parishes are St. Gregories and St. ffaithes, both subiect to the jurisdiction of the deane and Chapter of Paules and to their Comissarye; and therefore may the more easilie be remedied by them if they please, by gyveing order to the parents and Masters of them, to inhibit them.

That for foryners and straungers, which are for the most part men of greater sorte and qualitie, it will well be seeme Mr. Deane and y^e Canons in their proper persons and habits in tyme of Dyuine Service, to come into the bodie of the church some certayne tymes, and to requyre such as they shall fynd walkinge or talkeinge there, either to come into the Quyre, there to heare divyne service, or to depart the church.

That if any hereuppon shall growe contemptuous, and will not yeeld to such admonition, the same course maye be taken against them by ordinary jurisdiction or before the Comissioners^a in Causes Eccliall in case of Contemptuous prophanation.

That if any such necessitie should be, it will be requysite that the vergers of the church, or other officers, should be appointed by Mr. Deane and the canons pticularly, to warne such men, as they shall fynde there walkinge, either to come into the Quyre or to depart the Church, And vppon such refusall to gyve in their names to his Mat^{ties} Advocate.

That prosecution maye be had against them, wherein the officers shall make the proofes, and for their paynes have costs, and yet sue wthout payeing fee.

ffor such as carry burthens through the church, the waye be convenient that the vergers or some servants of the church turne back such as they shall fynd passing, by gentle admonition. And if they shall conteneue, that they be proceeded agaynst in the Eccliäll Court.

That the ancient wryteing in the church, inhibiting such caryeng of burdens through the church, maye be made more visable.

CHARGE OF BISHOP CORBET DELIVERED AT NORWICH, APRIL 29, 1634.^a

My woorthy Frinds and Brethren of the Cleargy,

I did not send for you beefore though I had a Commission,^b chusing rather to meete you, then send for you ; to meete you at a time when you could not bee absent, then to force you to a Iourney in a business of good will: Had I called on purposse for this Arrand, I know the chardge of comming might have æqualld that of Giving: And soe I had punishd the cause in hand, and you for a Benevolence might have given mee an Excuse. Whereas now if you give but that it would have cost some other time, it would halfe pass for a Benevolence: And I pray bee it one Motive toward the opening of your harts, that I have not clogd your Offerings with the expence of a Iourney.

Seneca I remember, in his præface to God's providence^c is con-

^a From the Public Record Office. (Domestic, Charles I. vol. 266, No. 58.) There is also another transcript of this charge in Harleian MSS. No. 750, fo. 312b, commencing at "One word in y^e behalfe of S^t Paul."

^b Richard Corbet became Dean of Christ Church, Oxford, 20 June, 1620; was consecrated Bishop of Oxford at Lambeth, 19 Oct. 1628; was translated to Norwich in 1632; and died 28 July, 1635.—Le Neve. His Poems have passed through several editions, first in 1647; second in 1648; third in 1672; and fourth, edited by Octavius Gilchrist, in 1807.—Lorndes. Portions of this charge have been already printed (as in Malcolm's Londinium Redivivum, iii. 77-80; in Longman's Three Cathedrals, 58-62; and in Gilchrist's Preface to his edition of the Poems), but I am not aware that it has ever been printed as a whole, or reproduced with fidelity. In the text the spelling and even the punctuation (where it was possible to preserve it without marring the sense) of the original have been retained.

^c Seneca opens his De Providentia with these words: "Quæsisiti a me, Lucili, quid ita, si Providentiâ mundus ageretur, multa bonis viris acciderent mala? Hoc commodius in contextu operis redderetur, quam præesse universis providentiam probaremus, et interesse nobis Deum: sed quoniam a toto particulam revelli placet, et unam contradictionem, manente lite integra, solvere; faciam rem non difficilem, causam deorum agam." Opera, edit. Ruhkopf (8°, Lipsiæ, 1797), i. 297, 298.

fidēt to prevaile, not by his witt, but from his Argument. Faciam rem haud difficilem causam deorum ago: And surely my Text is as good, and might trust to itselfe, it neds not witt nor word to sett it on. But by cause I see those Græcians within Paules, who can say nothing for themselves, gett little by houldindg out their Portindger, I shall say something for the out side, which you may understand: the dumbe walls complaine, wee heare them not; their basons they hould out, their broad-seales, we care not; tis not the Eie Guids Charity now a dayes; that was once the sense of Pitty, the Eare is now. Wherefore one word in S^t: Paules beehalfē, hee hath spoken maney a one in ours; hee hath rayсед our inward Temples, let us help requit him in his outward. Wee admire those things for the most part which are the oldest, and the greatest; old monuments, huge bildings, doe affect us abouve measure: and what's the reason? for what is Ancient, comes nearer God for the Antiquity, and what is great, comes neare his woorks for their spaciousness, and Magnitude: so that in honoring theis wee honour God, whom old and great doo seeme To Imitate: should I comend Paules to you for the Age, it ware worth your thoughts, and Admiration. A Thousand yeares though it should ffall now, where a pretty Clymactericall: see the bigness, and your Eie yet saw never such an object; it ware worth the reparation, if it ware but for a land marke. But beeloved tis a Church to, and consecrated to God: 2 Kings, the Fathers and princes since the Nurses, ffrom Charles to Ethelbert. Shee hath beene the Ioy of Kings: it was once dedicat to Diana, at the least some Part of it: but the Idolatry lasted not long, and see a Mystery in the Chandge S^t. Pauls confuting twice that Idol, there in parson —, where the crye was, Greate is Diana of the Ephesians, and here by Proxey Paul installed while againe Diana is thrust out.

It did magnify the Creation, that it was taken out of Darknesse. Light is not the cleerer for that, but it is the stranger and more wonderfull; and it doth beutify this Church that it was taken from Pollution: the stones are not the smother for that, they are the happier, it is worth the standing for the age then, for the time since it was built. It is worth the standing for the structure for the state of such an Ædifice. It is worth a standing for a Memoriall from what it was redeem'd; but cheifely worth the standing for his honor that doth dwell there, and wee bound to doe to it for the service is done in it.

Think: ar you not beehoulding toot? every man heere too Paules? To the body, or to the Chancell I dare pronounce you Debtors. It hath saved you from a showr, give you somthing to the Middle Ile, it hath helped you to a prayer, give you somthing to the Chancell? You have walked there and hard news, give you something ffor the walkes sacke. You have sate and hard the organs, give you something for stall-wages; some waye or other, ther's a Topick may make a Roome ffor your Benevolence.

It hath twice suffered Martyrdome, and both by fier: in the 22th of H: 6. and in the 3^d of Elizbeth: S^t Paules complaines of stoning twice, his church of ffiring; 'tis but stoning that she wants indeede, and a good stoning would repair her; S^t Fayth Houlds her up.^a I must confesse, O that workers ware Sainted too to keepe her upright! It was the Ioy of Holy David once, and hee Delivered it in a Song That God was stronger yet then the hills of the Robers. And now did hee apeare stronger? And where was this Experiment but in the harts of his people, and in the strength of his affections! whoe went out against those Robers, Rage, and Time, and sett up with redy hands whatt those 2 Theeves had broken downe. The first way of Building Churches was by way of Benevolence, but then there needed noe petition, men came on soe fast that they ware comanded to keepe back; but Repareing needs Petition, and for gods sacke wee beeseeche you, Supplication and Petition els no Benevolence: Benevolence was a Fier once, tis a sparke now and lookes for blowing: I and Gentle blowing or wee mar all; blow it hard and put it out. some petitions have I had since my coming to this Diocese, for the pulling downe of such an Isle, or for changing Lead to Thatch; soe far from Reparations, that our sute is to demolish: Lett mee order it for the best by my selfe or by my Chancellor; yet nothing donne or very slightly. Nay men ar taught! 'tis Persequotion, and wisht to looke to there Religion, knowing not how they comend Popery, if such Altarations bring it in, if to Repaire Churches bee to innovate, I am of that Religion.

I Remember a Tale either in H: Stephens Apologie for Herodotus, or in one of Erasmus Colloquies, which would have us beelieve, that y^e Thimes were so depravd in Popery, that all Œconomically discipline was lost by observing the Œcumenicall; that if an ingenuous youth would ask his Fathers blessing, hee must first gett a dispensation, and have a license from the Bishop. Beeleave mee, when I match this tale with another of our Times; since Christmass I was sued to, and I have it yett under their hands, the hand of the Minister, and the hand of the whole parish, that I would give way to the Adorning of their Church within, and out; to build a stone wall round the Church yard, which now had but a Hedg. I tooke it for a flout at first, but it proved a very sute; they durst not without leave, mend a fault forty yeares ould. And indeed I doe observe that 'twas soe, before I came; and I never knew it otherwise (bee the Deformity what it will) must sarve for a good answer an unanswerable Answer. An ould Injury in a Church Præscribes, 'gainst God himselfe, much more against the Bishop. The Church wardens doe not say soe at my visitation, but they meane (it seemes) that those fowle spiritts in the Gospell, What have wee to doe with thee thou Bishop, or thou Chancellor? Art thou come beefore thy time, beefore all is downe to torment us? The truth went once in this phrase Zelus domus tuæ exedit ossa mea, tis now inverted Zelus meus exedit domu' tuam; tis English plaine enough, & needs noe construeing: I hope I gall none here, I shall know that by their benevolence.

Should Christ say that to us now w^{ch} he s^d once to y^e Jews, destroy^a this Temple & in three dayes I will build it up againe, we should quickly know his meaning that he meant not lime, & stone; three dayes & I will build up all this? three years with us & yet not five foote finisht, Spectaculum Angelis & hominibus! & I am verily pswaded that were it not for y^e Pulpit & the pues, I doe not name y^e Altar now nor y^e ffont for the two Sacram^{ts}, but for y^e Pulpet & y^e stooles, as you call them, many Churches had beene downe that stand, but y^e Lecturer well have that stand fast, & y^e Parish will sit dry: dry? I would that were all, they must easily; easily? stately: Pues are become Tabernacles with rings & curtains to them, there wants nothing but beds to heare y^e word of God on; we have casements, locks, & curtains^b & for these we love y^e Church, I will not guess, what's done within them, who sits or stands at y^e Comunion, but this I dare pronounce, it is to hide some vice, or to proclaime one, to hide disorder, or to proclaime pride; but of this some other time. Beloved brethren you that love me, but that's nothing you'l say, & yet tis too now I thinke on't; it is a preface I us'd not for my selfe at my first co^ming, when ad captandam benevolentiam had beene most prop most proper, a benevolence for a Bysshop in first fruits. Most proper by all custome; most prop too for my necessities, but I us'd noe such Eloquence, you have y^e more to give to Pauls; In all other Contributions Justice preceds Charity; for y^e King, or for y^e poore, as you are rated, you must pay; it is not soe in a Benevolence, here Charity rates her selfe, her gift is Arbitrary & her law is y^e Conscience, he that stayes till I perswade him, gives not all his owne money. I give halfe that have procur'd it; he that comes pswaded gives his owne, but

^b Stow records that Mr. Thomas Chapman was a "free and bountiful Benefactor" to the Church of S. Pancras, Soper Lane, when it was "repaired and beautified" in the year 1621. In the year 1617 he gave to that Church "a fair and very costly Table, bearing the Figure of a Monument of that ever famous Queen Elisabethh." His son followed in his footsteps, for in 1624, "to the further Beautifying of this Church, for the more graceful Entrance into it, he built a very fair Porch, at his his own proper Cost and Charges." (Styve's Stow, i. 548.) Thomas Chapman the elder left an annuity of 3*l*. 10*s*. yearly to be paid for the preaching of three Sermons in his parish Church; to which amount Thomas Chapman the younger added a further sum of 40*s*. and also directed that a godly and learned sermon should be made on S. James' Day, being his Birthday, in every year. It was the younger of these two worthies who, by his Will dated 6 Sept. 1626, gave—

"For Sweeping the Pulpit at Paul's Cross once a week . . . 2 12 0."

He was evidently a man of a social turn of mind, for he also left Two Pounds to be paid annually, "For a Dinner for the Parson and Churchwardens, with such relations of Mr. Chapman as might be in Town on the same Day." Ibid. i. 549. The Church of S. Pancras, Soper Lane, was not rebuilt after the Great Fire.

They humbly beseech y^r wor^p to take notice that all legacies & guifts whatsoever given for the sermons to be made at the Crosse haue beene and are euer since the remoovall wthout scruple duely paid to those that p^rche wthin; and that by the equity of y^e will the Legacy of xij^d a weeke is payable to those whose sole office it is to that service wthin: And that yo^r pet^{rs} are solely and properly bound by their office to accomodate the pulpitt for all sermons wthin; and that no other person is any way quallified to doe the same but they.

Wherefore they humbly pray y^r wor^p that they may receaue the benefitt of the saide Legacy, not onely for all the time since the remooval of the sermons (they hauing done the worke) but for the time to come so Long as it shall continue wthin.

And as in duety bound &c.

^a I have transcribed the papers contained in this section from contemporary manuscripts bound up in a volume lettered Supplement and Continuation of Scobell's Collections, in the Dyce and Forster Reading Room at the South Kensington Museum. I am indebted to Mr. Sketchley, the very courteous Librarian of that Reading Room, for first calling my attention to the existence of these papers, and of those which form Sections XXV. and XXIX. of the present work. I have printed this series of papers, not only because they have considerable interest when taken in connection with Dugdale's History and with other sections of the present volume, but also because they have been discovered in a place where they might well escape the observation of any future historian of the Cathedral.

^c The "Plott" or Plan inclosed with this Report is of considerable interest. It is drawn to a scale of ten feet to the inch: and exhibits the whole plan of the other place of Pawles (fitt for a meeting place for the congregaçon whereof Mr John Sympson is Teacher) to bee forthwth surveyed, and the survey thereof to bee returned to the Councell, I have upon perrussall of severall unoccupied places about Pawles, cawsed that parcell of grownd whereon yet standeth the Ruines of the howse coñonly called The Convocaçon howse, and of The Cloysters thereto adjoyning, to bee measured and ground plotted, as the most privatest & convenientest place (in my judgment) to bee fitted and set apart to the use aforesayd.

W^{ch} peece of Ground (as by the plott thereof herein Inclosed will apeare) is a Square peece of about 100 Foote each syde, bounded wth the Mayne Wall of the Cathedrall on the North and East sydes thereof, and wth an high old wall coñonly called The Convocaçon howse wall on the West and South sydes thereof. Unto both w^{ch} last mençoned sydes, The back parts of certayne howses (built upon the Soyle of the late Deane and Chapter of Pawles & pur-

Cloisters, and of the Chapter House, or, as it is here called, "the Convocation House," standing in their midst. The entrance to the Chapter House was from the cloisters on its eastern side, where a small door from the Cathedral itself gave access to "the Passage out of Pawles w^{ch} goeth up the Greate steps there." At the N.E. angle of the Cloisters was a "Dore out of the South Isle of Pawles. The fowndations of the pillars of the Cloysters so farr as any part of them are yett standing, though they bee all very ruinous," are indicated on the plan, ten bases remaining on the S. side, five (adjacent to these) on the East, and three only on the West. So far as the plan informs us, the Cloisters were entered from the Cathedral only. Against the outside of the South Cloister wall the following words are written, "The build-ings in Paules Church yard over agaynst the Drapers dwellings there." Against the outside of the Western Wall, "The buildings on the East part of the alley that leadeth to the little south dore of Pawles," which "little south dore" is marked upon the plan immediately beyond the west cloister wall. On comparing this plan with that given by Dugdale, the latter will be found to be fairly accurate, but Dugdale shows only eight bases of columns on each side instead of ten, although in his view of the cloisters he exhibits nine, and leaves the tenth to be clearly inferred.

An interesting question arises, How was it that the Chapter House and Cloisters had become so ruinous? I think we must say that the fire of 1561 was probably the fons et origo mali.

The plan now presented with the present volume is a copy, half the size of the original, of the plan preserved in the Record Office.

VERSES ON THE MOVEABLE PULPIT IN S. PAUL'S.

Advertisement.

All the Account that the Publisher can give of the following Verses, is, That on the Day they were found stuck upon the Pulpit, a Gentleman in good Habit, and with a seemingly very honest Countenance, was observed to stand with his Back up against that side of the Pulpit, which faces the Dean's Pew. But whether he chose that Place, upon Design, or for Devotion-sake, is left to the Reader; who is also to know, that the Publisher was so unfortunate as to be there at the same time; and out of a Blind zeal tore it off, before he had Read it over; so that he is forc'd to restore it to the Publick, in justice to the Author.

^a Transcribed from a printed Broadside (measuring 13 $\frac{1}{4}$ inches by 7 $\frac{1}{2}$) preserved in the Dyce and Forster Collection in the South Kensington Museum. It is contained in a volume lettered Dryden, Pope, &c., 1660-1697, and the press-mark is Case 21, shelf 6.

The Pulpit referred to in these verses is probably that which is seen in the View of The Choir of S. Paul's Cathedral, dated 1754, in Strype's edition of Stow's Survey published in that year. This Pulpit appears to have been removed very early in the present century; for in Malcolm's Londinium Redivivum (iii. 126), published in 1803, we are told that "a new pulpit has been recently erected, designed by Mr. Milne, clerk of the works to the Church. Many parts of it are handsome, but the effect is upon the whole rather heavy. The carving is very good; by Mr. Wyatt and an ingenious Frenchman."

*To the Architect, upon his Happy Invention of a Pulpit on Wheels

This Little Structure (Excellent Sir Kit),
Holds forth to us that You bestow'd more Wit
In Building it, than on all PAUL'S beside;
This shows the Principles, That but the Pride
Of its Inhabitants: True Sons of Saul,
For He (Good Man) became All things to All,
That by all sorts of Means he might gain some;
They too for Gain would follow him to Rome.
This Passively Obedient Thing will go as They'd have it, or to Mecca, Rome, or Troas:
All one to it, if forward Hawl'd, or back,
'Twill run a Holy Stage for Will or Jack;
And Truckle to and fro 'twixt Cause and Cause,
Just as the Strongest Pull of Interest draws.

But if the Pulpit be a Vital Part
O' th' Church, or as the Doctors say, Her Heart;
Why don't you fix That also on a Rock,
And let the Steeple Roost the Weather-Cock?
Where, if a Puff of strong Temptations blow,
It might remind the Staggering Saints, and Crow.
Improve the Thought, Dear Sir, and let S^t Paul's Wise Fane be this New Going-Cart for Souls.

Another METRE.

'Tis well for PAUL his Ship's Rebuilt so Sound,
That it don't Wreck, tho' it be run aground;
For then his Tarrs would leave him in the Lurch,
And sail in Pulpit from the Drowning Church.

POEM ON THE FIRE IN S. PAULS, 27. FEBRUARY. 1698.9.^a

A POEM.

On S^t Paul's being Preserved from the late Fire, that happened in it February the 27th, 1698-9.

Yes! now 'twill rise what ere the Fates have done,
Or can t'Obstruct what was so well begun,

(The Press mark is 66 A. 2, art. 9.)

The verses are of small poetic merit, but they serve to aid in the settlement of a disputed date. The continuator of Stow informs us, that on "Feb. 27, 1698-9, a fire broke out at the west end of the North isle of the Choir, in a little room prepared for the organ-builder to work in when the Choir was newly finished; but, the communication between the said work-room and organ-gallery being broke down, and all imaginable means used, the fire was happily got under, doing no other damage but to two pillars and an arch with enrichments, which are very artificially repaired and the Church has no sign left of damage by that fire, except that the lustre of the gilding was thereby a little abated." See Strype's Stow, vol i. p. 649. "Bateman's manuscript dates this accident in 1688-9, and says the repair of it cost 710*l.* 12*s.* 8*d.*" (Dugdale's S. Paul's; note by Sir Henry Ellis, p. 172, n. ‡.) Mr. Longman, however, says, "It seems to me that Bateman's date is preferable, for it is clear that the fire took place before the opening of the Choir for Divine Service; and this agrees with Bateman's date, while the date given in Stow is after that event." (A History of the Three Cathedrals dedicated to S. Paul in London, p. 129.) In Elmes' Life of Wren, 4to. p. 486, it is noted, that "on the first day of February, 1699, the beautiful chapel called the Morning-prayer Chapel, in S. Paul's, was opened for service with appropriate ceremony; and on the 27th of the same month a fire broke out at the west end of the North aisle," &c., but as his references are to Dugdale and Stow he cannot be cited as adding to our store of information.

Elmes, and the Continuator of Stow, are in agreement with the date given at the head of this Broadside. I conclude that this combined testimony must be held to outweigh Bateman's statement.

'Twill rise, and be once more as truly Great,
As e'er before, and as before Compleat;
'Twill Stand, (and Universal Wonder move)
A Heaven below or Like to that above:
I know it will—That swift devouring Foe,
That did before its utmost Malice show
That laid its Ancient Stately Towers wast,
And all its Beauty spoil'd, is now at last Strangely defective grown, and well it may,
When e'er Heaven stops its Course it must obey:
The place (the fatal place) it chose indeed,
To make its Onsett, seem'd as tho' decreed
To seise the Whole, as it had done the Quire,
That Fort must fall whose Magazine's on Fire.
But not so here—the wise all-ruleing Hand
(That kindles Flames, and can those Flames Command,)
Soon interpos'd and its intended Spoil
Prevented soon, this pleasing Sacred Pile;
('Tis now resolv'd, said he) must stand unmov'd,
Be even mine, and be for ever Lov'd.
One Element shall twice the World Destroy
As soon as one shall twice my House Annoy.

On this an Anthem strait within that Sphere
Was Sung to Him, for Angels still are there,
The Organs too (amidst the Fire and Smoke)
Tun'd up a new and in his Praises Spoke;
The very Flame was Pleas'd at this, and strove
To reach his Altar not in Rage, but Love,
And (as its custome was) from thence wou'd go,
When Kindled by some fervent Saint below
Wou'd go a swift Ambassador to Heaven,
For greater Favours, if such can be given:

And then Rest there to show how Men Adore
To expiate its Sacriledge before.

At which the grosser Part in haste withdrew,
It durst not, could not greater Mischief do;
That sacred Place shall stand, and may defie
A Flameing, or a more Malignant Enemie,
Shall stand, and not as now, but all Compleat,
And be as Israel's was Jehovah's Seat;
Just as it Shone in all its Beauteous Dress,
This can't be more, nor yet at last be less,
And may without a Miracle be done
Within some Annual Circuits of the Sun.
Did our great Patriots cast but such a Smile,
As they of late have on our Happy Isle, }
Twou'd soon be made a perfect Glorious Pile. }

FATHER SMITH'S ORIGINAL SPECIFICATION FOR THE CATHEDRAL ORGAN. 1694.^a

St. Pauls Church, Lond:—At a Comittee, Fryday, Octob. 19th, 1694.

Present.

Lord Major of London	Dr. Oxenden.
Ld. Arch Bp. of of Canty.	Sr. Thomas St. George.
Ld. Bp. of London.	Sr. Thomas Pinfold.
Ld. Bp. of Lincolne.	Dr. Godolphin.
Mr. Dean of St. Pauls.	Dr. Newton.
Mr. Sweetaple } Mr. Cole } Sheriffs.	Sr. Chr. Wren.

Ordered that it be referred to the Dean and Chapter of St. Pauls and to Sr. Chr. Wren and Dr. Blowe to receive Proposals from Mr. Smith Organ-Maker, and to treat and agree with him to make the Organ for St. Pauls.

^a The original of this important contract, with Bernard Smith's bold autograph signature appended, is in the possession of Mr. W. H. Cummings, who has courteously allowed me to copy it and to include it in the present volume. Mr. Cummings also possesses many pipes of Bernard Smith's manufacture—portions of two stops, one metal and the other wood—removed probably from the "Chayre Organ" by the late Mr. Bishop, the organ builder, during the progress of some alterations effected by him in the Cathedral organ. See Musical Times, March 1, 1880, pp. 121, 122; and Hopkins and Rimbault's History of the Organ (edition 1870), pp. 109-112, and 450, 451. At the latter reference it is stated that in 1849 Mr. Bishop substituted a Viola da Gamba for the metal Flute in the Choir Organ, and a Clarabella for the Stopped Diapason; the two stops then removed are, I suppose, those now in Mr. Cummings' possession.

QUERIES ABOUT S. PAUL'S ORGAN,^a circa 1700.

QUERIES about S' Paul's Organ.

I. Whether Sir Christopher Wren wou'd not have been well pleas'd to have receiv'd such a Proposal from the Organ-builder of S^t Paul's, as shou'd have erected an Organ, so as to have separated 20 Foot in the middle, as low as the Gallery, and thereby a full and airy Prospect of the whole length of the Church,^b and six Fronts, with Towers as high as requisite?

II. Whether the difficulty this Organ-builder finds in making Pipes to speak, whose Bodies are but 16 Foot long, does not prove how much harder it wou'd have been for him, to have made Pipes of 22 Foot speak, as those at Exeter^c; or 32 Foot, as several organs

^a From the original printed Broadside; a single sheet measuring 10 $\frac{3}{4}$ inches by 6 $\frac{3}{4}$. British Museum (press mark 816, m. 9, art. 93). When I transcribed this paper I was not aware that it had been printed in the edition of Hopkins and Rimbault's History of the Organ, issued in 1870. It is, however, so intimately connected with the papers which immediately precede and follow, that I have thought it desirable to present it here. There can be little doubt that the paper emanated from Renatus Harris, or from some of his friends and partisans.

^b The question may safely be answered in the affirmative, for Sir C. Wren wished the organ to be placed on one side of the choir as in the ancient cathedral, and complained, it is said, that the beauty of the building was spoilt by the "Box of Whistles." beyond Sea? And whether he has reason to complain of want of height, or room in the Case for higher, and larger Pipes, since those of a common size, have put him to a Non-plus? And whether he has not the greater Reason, because he gave the Dimensions of the Case himself?

III. Whether the double Bases of the Diapasons in S^t Paul's organ speak quick, bold and strong, (with a firm, plump, and spreading Tone) or on the contrary, slow, soft, and only buzzing, when touch'd singly? And whether they may not more properly be call'd Mutes than speaking Pipes?

IV. Whether the organ be not too soft for the Quire now 'tis inclos'd? And if so, what will it be when laid open to the Cupulo, and Body of the Church?^a And what further Addition of Strength, and Lowdness will it require to display its Harmony quite through the large Concave of the Building, and answer the Service of the Quire, which is the noblest for Eccho and Sound, and consequently of the greatest advantage to an Instrument, of any in Europe?

V. Whether the Sound-boards, and Foundation of the Instrument, as well as Contrivance, and Disposition of the whole Work, will admit of more Stops to render the Organ in Proportion, five times as Lowd as now it is?

VI. Whether if 12 stops (supposing there were so many in the great Organ) were plaid full in Chorus, 'twou'd not make S^t Paul's Organ vibrate and faint? And if so, how can it be render'd lower

^a These Queries were therefore written before the Choir was thrown open to the Dome. "The Choir of the new Cathedral of S. Paul was opened for divine service on the thanksgiving day for the peace of Ryswick This was the first service in the Church since the fire in 1666, which was continued [sic] on the next and subsequent Sundays, and with uninterrupted regularity to the present hour." The Thanksgiving Day was 2 Dec. 1697. Elmes, Life of Wren, pp. 483-4. See also Evelyn's Diary. Dr. Rimbault possessed an original MS. anthem, inscribed, "This was made by Dr. Blow, Oct. y^e 15, 1697, at Hamton town, for the opening of S. Paul's Cathedral." History of the Organ, p. 110, note.

by the Addition of Stops, since the Wind that does not well supply 12, must of necessity worse supply 13, and so onward?

VII. Whether 'tis possible to make an Organ lowder, that has all the Strength it can contain already?

VIII. Whether there been't Organs in the City lowder, sweeter, and of more variety than St Paul's, (which cost not one 3d. of the Price). And particularly, whether Smith at the Temple,^a has not out-done Smith at St Paul's? And whether St Andrew's Undershaft^b has not out-done them both?

IX. Whether the open Diapason of Metal that speaks on the lower set of Keys at St. Andrew's Undershaft, be not a stop of extraordinary Use and Variety, and such as neither St. Paul's has, or can have?

X. Whether Depth in the Case gives not Liberty for containing the greater Quantity and Variety of Work? And if so, why should not St. Paul's have as great Variety as other Organs, and the order of the Work be as well contriv'd, and dispos'd for Tuning and other Conveniencies, since its Case is near double the Depth to any in England?

XI. Whether the great Organ-builder will condescend to submit his Organ to the same Scrutiny,^c which all Artists of the same Profession do in all Countries? And if it be deny'd, whether it will not give the World, and particularly the Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's, reason to fear, that this Noli-me-tangere proceeds from some secret Cause? And to Question——

^a The Temple Organ was built by Father Smith. See the curious story told by Hopkins and Rimbault, pp. 101-106, of the contest between the rival organ builders, Smith and Harris. Each built an organ; the two organs were erected simultaneously in the Temple Church; were played by some of the best players of the day; finally, the Templars met in council, the choice was to be made by vote—there was an equality of votes—and some say that Jefferies, afterwards Lord Chief Justice, gave the casting vote in favour of Smith's instrument.

^b The organ of S. Andrew's Undershaft was built by Renatus Harris. It cost £1,400, and was opened on 31 May, 1696.

^c Evidently the critic had not seen the original contract. See supra, p. 164.

XII. Whether the Cupulo, or the Organ at St. Paul's, will be first finish'd?^a

^a The fire in 1699 broke out in a room "which was prepared for the operations of the organ builder." Elmes, Life of Wren, 4^o, p. 486. Elmes' Life of Wren, published in octavo, 1852, speaks of the room as one "which was used as a working place for the organ builders:" seeming to imply that they were then at work. See supra, p. 158. The highest stone of the lantern on the cupola was placed in 1710 by Mr. Christopher Wren, attended by the venerable architect, &c. Elmes' Life, 4^{to}, pp. 493-4.

PROPOSALS BY RENATUS HARRIS TO ERECT AN ORGAN OVER THE WEST DOOR.^a circa 1712.

A PROPOSAL (by RENATUS HARRIS, ORGAN-Builder) For the Erecting of an ORGAN in St. Paul's Cathedral, over the West Door, at the Entrance into the Body of that Church.

As VOCAL MUSICK is the most perfect, so that sort of Instrumental which most resembles it, in its highest Perfection, must claim the Precedence of all others: In which Respect, the ORGAN is justly stil'd the King of Instruments; which has of late Years receiv'd many Improvements, particularly by representing all Wind and String'd Musick; to which Improvements the Proposer presumes he has in some measure contributed: And upon this Occasion, thinks it necessary to give an Account how he came to the Knowledge of swelling the Notes upon an ORGAN, because to this is owing the following Proposal.

It has been look'd upon as impracticable, by the ablest Judges in Musick, to divide a Note into twelve distinct Parts. The Proposer having asserted, that he would undertake to divide a Note into an hundred Parts, clearly distinguishable by a Musical Ear, did accordingly, in a full Assembly of Musical-Gentlemen, Masters of the Faculty, and other Artists, on Tuesday in Whitsun-Week, 1700, perform this Operation on an Organ then standing in his Work-house, now in St Andrew's Church in Holborn, to their full and entire Satisfaction; and for the Conviction of the Curious in that Art, is ready to repeat the Experiment. This Performance gave the Proposer a Notion of the swelling of the Notes upon the ORGAN, which he finds to answer upon Tryal, tho' look'd upon equally impracticable with the other; and therefore most humbly submits the following Proposal to the Consideration of her Majesty, and both Houses of Parliament.

This ORGAN shall contain a double double Diapason, the Profundity of which will comprehend the utmost Notes of Sound. In this Stop shall be Pipes forty Foot long, and above two Foot Diameter; which will render this Organ vastly superior in Worth and Value to the other Diapason Organs; and that the rest of the Work may bear a due Proportion, it shall consist of six entire Sets of Keys for the Hands, besides Pedals for the Feet.

The first Set to be wholly appropriated for a grand Chorus, intended to be the most strong and firm that ever yet has been made.

The second and third Sets to answer all Sorts and Varieties of Stops, and to represent all Musical Instruments.

The fourth to express the Eccho's.

The fifth to be a Chair or small Organ, yet to contain more Pipes, and a greater Number of Stops, than the biggest Organ in England has at present.

The sixth to be adapted for the emitting of Sounds to express Passion by swelling any Note, as if inspir'd by Human Breath; which is the greatest Improvement an Organ is capable of, except it had Articulation. On this Set of Keys, the Notes will be loud or soft, by swelling on a long Note or Shake, at the Organist's Pleasure. Sounds will come surprizing and harmoniously, as from the Clouds, or distant Parts; pass, and return again, as quick or slow as Fancy can suggest; and be in Tune in all Degrees of Loudness and Softness.

By means of the Pedals, the Organist may carry on three Fugues at once, and be able to do as much as if he had four Hands; for the Feet would act upon the Pedal-Keys, when the Hands were employ'd above, and the Sound would be proportionably strong; which, in the grand Chorus in so vast a Church, ought to be as strong and bold as possible; and therefore Pedals are us'd in all the great Organs beyond the Seas.

If at the Charge of the Publick, such an Organ were built in the Place propos'd, which is the most proper to give this Design its full and desir'd Advantage, such an Instrument, containing more Beauties and Variety than all the most celebrated Organs, as it would be by far the compleatest in its Kind, so it would be suitable to the Grandeur of so stately a Fabrick.

SIR,

The inclos'd Proposal takes its Rise from the Organ I set up in Salisbury Cathedral in 1710, which was begun some Years since for a Church in London, as a Masterpiece of great Value, to have been paid for by Subscription, and was made capable of emitting Sounds to express Passion, by swelling any Note, as if inspir'd by Human Breath: But the Place where it is now fix'd, not being proper for that Performance, which requires the Situation to be against a Wall, for the Sound to strike but one way, it loses that Advantage; and yet being prepar'd for that Intent, there may be more Varieties express'd thereon, than by all the Organs in England, were their several Excellencies united. You are desir'd to observe, that the propos'd Organ for St. Paul's, is intended to be plac'd at a great Distance from the Choir, and not to interfere with the present Organ in the Performance of the Service, being chiefly consider'd in its Situation for the Benefit of swelling the Notes, and study'd to be in all Respects made the most artful, costly, and magnificent Piece of Organ-work that ever has hitherto been invented. The Use of it will be for the Reception of the Queen on all publick Occasions of Thanksgiving for the good Effects of Peace or War, upon all State-Days, St. Cecilia's-Day, the Entertainment of Foreigners of Quality and Artists, and on all Times of greatest Concourse, &c. And by the Advice and Assistance of Sir Christopher Wren, the external Figure and Ornaments may be contriv'd so proportionable to the Order of the Building, as to be a Decoration to that part of the Edifice, and no Obstruction to any of the rest. This Instrument will be of such Reputation to the Kingdom, as will far surmount the Expence of it, which will be easy whenever her Majesty and the Parliament shall farther think fit to enlarge their Bounty to St. Paul's Church, by appointing a Sum out of the same Revenue which built it, or any other way, as they in their great Wisdom shall judge proper for the Ornament and Grandeur of the State-Church of that City which is the chief of her Majesty's extensive Dominions.

Several Cities, Corporations, and Gentlemen, have wrote to their Representatives, to vote and use their Interest for promoting this Design. Sir Christopher Wren approves it, and I have promis'd him, Dr. Battle, Sub-Dean of her Majesty's Chappel-Royal, Mr. Crofts, and Mr. Weldon, the Queen's Organists, and others, a Specimen, as Mr. Philip Hart had five Years since, of swelling of the Note, before I reap any Benefit, or that the Work begins, which shall be as soon as the Parliament determines to put this Proposal in Practice. The Patrons, and Masters of Musick, are very zealous in carrying on and recommending this to both Houses, as being a National Reputation and Honour to Musick in general, and no Charge to any Particular; and therefore humbly presume also [in your?] Interest to render this Design effectual, and entirely compleat, whereby I may . . .^a PAPER RELATING TO THE DOME OF S. PAUL'S,^a circa 1708.

AN ANSWER TO THE OBJECTIONS against Covering the Dome of St. Paul's with English Copper.

'T WAS Propos'd to cover the Dome of St. Paul's with English Copper of Twenty Ounces to a Foot Square, at Two Shillings and Four Pence per Foot; all Charge of Mettle and Workmanship, which though dearer than Lead, was [allowed]^b to be no discouragement: But 'twas objected, Objection I.

That the Copper would soon be Black and look ugly, and that the People would by no means be pleased with it.

Answer,

That Copper will Tarnish in the Air is allow'd, But if the Colour be so much Coveted, it may easily be Varnished at an inconsiderable Charge: But 'tis strange that the Looks of a Covering of Lead, at such a Heighth, should be put in Competition with the Duration of Copper, which is known by Experience in Churches abroad, to have lasted above Five Hundred Years without Repairing; whereas Lead will hardly lie so High, and in such a large Extent, above Fifteen or Twenty Years without needing Repairs, which cannot be done without a great Charge of Scaffolds, &c.

^a Transcribed from the original, a single printed leaf (11½ in. by 7), preserved in the British Museum. (Press-mark 516, m. 17, No. 22.) The title, if it may so be called, is printed on the back of the paper.

^b This word is inserted in manuscript.

Objection II.

That there would be several Embossments to be made in Lead which could not be done in Copper.

Answer,

'Tis surprizing that any Artist should urge, that any Thing of that Kind can be done in Lead, that cannot be done in as great Perfection in Copper; as the Pine-apple (which is made of English Copper) already set up on the West-End of St. Paul's does sufficiently demonstrate, in which there are much more Embossments than can easily be contriv'd in covering the Dome.

Note.—The Copper would be lighter than the Lead, by above Six Hundred Tuns.^a

^a This paper may probably be dated about 1708, for we read in Elmes' Life of Wren, 419, 4to edition, "In 1708 S. Paul's had proceeded so far towards completion, that on February 23 Sir Humphry Mackworth (Journals of the House of Commons, xv. 556, 557) brought up from the Committee a report concerning the mode of covering the Cupola, and presented two estimates, one from John Roberts, a plumber, offering to cover it with the best Derbyshire lead for the sum of 2,500*l.*; and the other from Davis and Co., coppersmiths, proposing to cover it with the best copper for 3,050*l.* The Committee recommended copper, but lead was finally adopted."

D.—LETTER FROM EDWARD II. TO STEPHEN GRAVESEND, BISHOP OF LONDON, COMMANDING HIM TO PROHIBIT THE REVERENCE PAID TO THOMAS OF LANCASTER IN
S. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL, 28 JUNE, 1323.^a

De non accedendo ad quandam Tabulam in Ecclesia Sancti Pauli, London, &c.

Rex, Venerabili in Christo Patri, Stephano, eadem gratia Episcopo Londoni Salutem.

Auribus nostris intonuit (quod moleste gerimus) quod plerique de populo Dei vestro commisso regimini, diabolica fraude decepti, ad quandam tabulam in Ecclesia vestra Sancti Pauli Londoni existentem, in qua Statuæ, Sculpturæ, seu ymagines diversorum et, inter cætera, effigies Thomæ quondam comitis Lancastriæ, inimici et rebellis nostri, sunt depictæ, fatue accedentes, eam absque auctoritate Ecclesiæ Romanæ tanquam rem sanctificatam colunt et adorant, asserentes ibi fieri miracula, in opprobrium totius Ecclesiæ, nostri et vestri dedecus, et animarum populi prædicti periculum manifestum, ac perniciosum exemplum aliorum: quodque vos, scientes abusiones hujusmodi in populo vobis credito^b vigere, eas connivendo fieri permisistis, quin potius, causa quæstus seu turpis lucri fieri dissimulastis, de quo non mediocriter conturbamur. Vobis igitur mandamus, firmiter injungentes, quatinus, premissis deliberatione provida pensatis, advertentesque quod dicta Ecclesia de nostro patronatu existit, quodque vos, ratione fidelitatis nobis præstitæ, tenemini honorem nostrum velle salvare et nostrum dedecus declinare,

^a Close Roll, 16 Edward II. m. 2, dorse. The document is printed by Rymer, Fœdera (fo. London, 1706), iii. pp. 1,033-4, A.D. 1323; but the text here printed has been transcribed from the Close Roll itself.

dictum populum, ne ad tabulam prædictam accedere, orationes, oblationes, seu alia ad cultum Divinum tendentia absque auctoritate Ecclesiæ Romanæ ibidem facere præsumant, modis omnibus cohibeatis, prout ex officii vestri debito ad vos juxta canonicas sanctiones noveritis pertinere; taliter vos habentes in hac parte quod Dei et nostram^a indignationem evitare possitis, et populus prædictus per vestræ doctrinæ prudentiam salubriter instructus a prædictis abusibus penitus desistat, et vestræ laudis præconium in eodem populo dilatetur, ac conceptam erga vos et Ecclesiam vestram prædictam benevolentiam merito continuare debeamus. Et quid super hiis facere decreveritis nobis per vestras literas, absque moræ dispendio, rescribatis. Teste Rege apud Eboracum vicesimo octavo die Junii.

E.—LIFE OF S. ERKENWALD.^a

¶ Here foloweth the lyfe of saynt Erkenwolde bysshop of London.

Saynt Erkēwolde was borne of noble lynage/his fader was named Offa /and was kinge of eest englonde / & he had also a syster named Alburgh / whiche Erkenwolde & Alburgh were of very perfite lyfe / and how be it y^t theyr fader was a paynim / yet were these two chyl dren chrysten. And whā Erkenwold was in perfyte age he went in to religyō and was made fyrst abbot of Chirchesey where he lyued an holy lyfe / and after he was made bisshop of Londō / & his syster Aldburgh was his true folower in good werkes / & was a woman of relygyon / & for her holy lyfe she was made abbesse of Berkyng. This holy man by y^e informacyon of saynt Austyn & Mellyte was enformed in y^e fayth / in suche wyse y^t he vtterly forsoke y^e worlde / & ordeyned & buylded two, monasteryes / one for hymselfe at Chirchesey / and an other for his syster at Berkyng / whiche after her baptym was named Ethelburga. And saynt Erkenwolde couseyled his syster to flee worldly vanytees / & so he dyd hyself / & gaue hym to dyuyn contemplacyon / & gaue gladly suche goodes as he had besyde them y^t he spent in his fōudacyon & buyldynge of y^e sayd monasteryes to poore people / and he chaūged his erthly herytage / his worldly dignite / & his grete patrymony in to y^e herytage & lyuelode of holy chirche for to haue his herytage in heuen / & he dyd all these expenses or he was called to be bysshop of London. And y^e holy Theodore archebysshop of Caunterbury dyd do consecrate hym bysshop of London / & his sister was set in Berkyng with other virgyns for to be alwaye occupied in y^e seruyce of our lorde Jesu chryst. And it happed on a tyme as y^e artyfycers y^t buylded the monastery at Berkyng were ouerseen in takynge the mesure of a pryncypall beme / for it was to shorte & wolde not accorde to the place y^t it was ordeyned for / wherfore they made moche sorowe. Than this holy man saynt Erkenwolde and his syster seyng this misfortune toke y^e same beme bytwene theyr handes & drewe it out / in such wyse y^t it had suffycient lengthe & accorded vnto y^e propre place y^t it was ordeyned to / whiche myracle was anone knowen openly to the people / & at y^t tyme were no nonnes in Englonde / wherfore saynt Erkenwolde sent ouer see for a deuoute relygyous woman named Hyldelyth / to whome he betoke his syster for to be enformed in y^e religyon / as well in connyng as in good maners and vertuous doctryne / in whiche she profyted in suche wyse y^t she passed all her felawes in connȳge / & soone after she was made abbesse & chefe of all y^e monastery. And it happed soone after y^t the bysshop of London dyed whose name was Cedda. And by cōsent of y^e kyng & all y^e people this holy man of god saynt Erkenwolde was bysshop of London / and what someuer he taught in worde he fulfyll in dede / for he was perfyte in wysdom / soft & discrete in wordes besy in prayer / chaste of body / & hooly gyuen to goddes lore / & was planted in the rote of charyte. And afterwarde whā he had suffred moche tribulacyon with many ghoostly batayles / he began to waxe ryght seke. And than he cōmaunded to make redy his chare y^t he myght go in to the cyte & preche the worde of god / wherfore it was kepte in custome longe tyme after of his dyscyples and many other to touche hym & kysse hȳ / & what someuer sekenesse that they had they were anone delyuered therof / & were made perfytyl hole.

^a This Life of S. Erkenwald is taken literatim from the Golden Legend (fo. 347b—348b), “Imprynted at London in Flete Strete at the sygne of the sonne by Wynkyn de Worde,” and “finysshed the xxvii. daye of August, the yere of our lord M.CCCC.xxvii. the xix. yere of the regne of our souerayne lorde Kynge Henry the cyght.” A fine copy of this edition, in which the story of Thomas à Becket has escaped without erasure, is in the Library of Sion College.

¶ On a daye of somer as the blyssed saynt / saynt Erkenwold rode in his chare for to preche the worde of god / it fortunēd y^t the one whele of y^e chare fell of fro y^e axyltree / & that notw^tstandyng the chare went right forth w^tout fallynge / whiche was agaynst nature & reason / & a fayre myracle / for god guyded y^e chare / & it was a meruayle to all them y^t sawe it. O mercyable god & meruaylous aboue alth^yge to whom all brute beestes bē made meke & wylde thynges ben obedient / y^u vouchesafe to call to thy mercy thy blyssed seruāūt to make hym partable of thyn excellēt ioie / y^u gyue us grace by his prayer / whiche knewe by reuelacion y^t his soule shold be losed fro y^e body by tēporal deth to be preserued fro all maner of euyls & euerlastyng deth. Whan this blyssed saynt Erkenwolde as god wold came to berkyng he fell in to a grete sekenes / in whiche he ended his tēporal lyf / & for so moche as he knewe it before / he sent for his seruāūtes & such as were drawyng to h^y / & gaue to them holsome & swete lessons / & blissed them w^t grete deuocyon / & amonge them he yelded vp his spiryte to almighty god in whose passyng was felt a meruaylous swete odour / as the hous had ben full of swete bawme. And whā y^e high chanons of saynt Poules at London herde this / & the mōkes of chirchesey also / anone they came to this holy body for to haue it. And the nonnes sayd they ought to haue y^e body / bycause he dyed there / & also bycause he was theyr fōūder. And y^e monkes sayd they ought rather to haue hym / bycause he was bothe theyr abbot & fōūder. Thā the chapytre of Poules & the people sayd that they stroue in vayne / for he sholde be brought to London in to his own chirche. Thus there was grete stryfe / and at y^e last they of London toke up the body and bare it towarde London / and as they went there fell a grete tēpest & so moche water that they might not passe / but were constrayned to set downe y^e corps / & in all y^e storme the tapers y^t were about y^e body were alwaye bryght brēnyng. And than y^e nonnes sayd y^t God shewed well y^t they of London ought not to haue hym / because of y^e tēpest. And at y^e last after many wordes there was a clerke whiche had ben longyng to saynt Erkenwolde

& sawe this stryfe / & stode vp & cōmaūded scylence / & tolde y^e people a grete cōmendacyon of the vertuouſ lyfe of this holy saynt / & sayd y^t it was not honest ne accordyng to mysentreate y^e holy body by vyolent handes / but let us beseche Almyghty God w^t good deuocyon & mekenes of herte for to shewe to us some token by reuelacyon in what place this holy body shall rest. And all the people cōsented therto / & kneled downe & prayed deuoutly / & as they were ī prayer they sawe y^t the water diuyled lyke as it did to moyses in y^e reed see & to y^e children of israel goynge through in to deserte / in lyke wyse god gave a drye path to y^e people of London for to cōuey this holy body through y^e water to y^e cyte / & anone they toke vp y^e body with grete honour and reuerence / & by one assent they bare it through the path / the water standynge vp on euery syde / and the people not wetyng theyr feet / & so they came to Stratforde / & set downe y^e bere in a fayre mede full of floures / & anone after y^e weder began to wexe fayre & clere after y^e tempest / & the tapers were made to brenne w^tout puttyng to fyre of ony mannes hande. And thus it pleased our lorde for to multiplye myracles to the honour & worshyp of this holy saynt / wherfore y^e people were ful of ioie & gladnes / & gaue laude to almighty god. And than they toke vp y^e body & brought it to London to saynt Poules / & as many seke folkes as touched his bere were made hole anone of all theyr sekenesses / by y^e merytes of y^e holy bysshop saynt Erkenwolde. And after they layde & buried the body honourably in saȝt Poules chirche where as our lorde hath shewed many a fayre myracle / as in delyuerynge of prysoners out of theyr yrens / seke and lame men to theyr bodyly strength / & amonge all other he hath ben a specyal protectour to y^e sayd chirche agaȝst fyre / where on a tyme the chirche was brent / & his shryne whiche was than but of tree was sauēd through his holy merytes / in so moche y^t the clothe that laye vpon it was not perysshed. ¶ An other tyme whan a grete fyre had brent a grete part of the cyte / & shold haue entred vpon y^e chirche / saynt

Erkenwold was seen on the chirche w^t a baner fyghtyng agaynst y^e fyre / & so saued and kepte his chirche fro brennyng. Than let vs praye to this holy saint y^t he be a specyall aduocate for vs to almighty god that we may be preserued frō all perylles of fyre & water / and that he so gouerne vs bytwene welth and aduersyte in this present lyfe / y^t we beyng assoyled from synne and vyces / may be brought vnto heuently ioye / where laude / honour and glory be gyuen to the blyssed trynyte worlde withouten ende. Amen.

F.—THE DIMENSIONS OF OLD S. PAUL'S.

It is by no means easy to ascertain precisely what the exact dimensions of the old Cathedral were: not, however, because sources of information are wanting; there are several sources, but unfortunately they are not in accordance with each other.

Dugdale, pages 11 and 61, gives the measurements as they were taken in 1312, (ex contin. Matth. Westm. penes Jac: Waræum, Eq. Aur.), and these are in agreement with the dimensions as stated on a tablet which hung in the Cathedral, on a column near the tomb of John of Gaunt. They are as follow:

Length	690 feet
Breadth	130
Height of roof of West part from floor . . .	102
Height of roof of New Fabric (viz. east from steeple)	88
Body of the Church	150
Height of tower steeple from the level ground .	260
Height of the spire of wood, covered with lead .	274
"And yet the whole, viz. tower and spire, ex- ceeded not"	520
Cross, "length" above the ball	15
Cross, traverse	6
Ball, contains 10 bushels of corn.
Space on which the Cathedral stands, $3\frac{1}{2}$ acres, $1\frac{1}{2}$ rood, 6 perches.

The tablet above mentioned states that the height of the roof of the new fabric is taken "ab ara;" that the measurement of the height of the body of the church is taken "cum cruce;" and adds, besides, the dimensions of the ball, viz.: diameter 3 ft., circumference $9\frac{1}{2}$, superficies $28\frac{1}{4}$ square feet.

The chronicle printed in the preceding pages (supra, pp. 45, 46) gives the same measurements.

In Strype's Stow we encounter some formidable variations: here the length is stated to be "240 Taylor's yards which make 720 feet," and the height of the spire of wood to be 260 feet.

The same volume says "Concerning these Dimensions of the steeple and church, let me note what a very accurate observer [in the margin, Sir Will. Cecil, in a MS. of his own, J.S.] had noted of the same." These notes give the area as 626 poles, or " $3\frac{1}{2}$ acres & a foot and a half:" but, whilst they give the tower and spire as 260 and 274 feet respectively, they add the perplexing statement, "and yet, in the whole, it doth not exceed 500 feet."

In addition to these figures we may give the following particulars from William of Worcester:

Length of nave	180 paces
Breadth of transept	160 —
Breadth of nave and aisles	48 —
Length of Choir and Lady Chapel	130 —
Breadth thereof	48 steps

The Rev. Mackenzie Walcott has printed these details in a very interesting article in The Building News for 10 Oct. 1879, together with some important remarks on the length of the "pace, gradus, gressus, steppus."

But we are indebted to Mr. Edward B. Ferrey, who has lately presented to S. Paul's Cathedral Library his very beautiful plan, elevations, and sections of the old Cathedral, for the most careful and minute study of the whole question. He arrives at the following results:

Total length from east to west, inclusive of end walls, about	596 feet
Breadth, including aisle walls	104 —
Height. Roof, west part, up to ridge of vaulting	93 —

Height. Roof, choir proper, up to ridge of vaulting	101½ feet
Height. Roof, Lady Chapel	98½ —
Height. External, ground to ridge of outer roof. Choir	142 —
Height. External, ground to ridge of outer roof. Nave	130 —
Height of tower steeple from level ground	285 —
Height of spire covered with lead	208 —
but if calculated from top of tower parapet	204 —

The length will thus be greater by sixty-six feet than that of Winchester Cathedral. See Longman's Three Cathedrals, chap. iii. and see, especially, a valuable note by Mr. Ferrey on the errors and discrepancies in Hollar's plates of the Cathedral, ibid. pp. 39, 40.

Up to the year 1878 the Parishioners of S. Faith's Parish held possession of a certain portion of the Crypt of S. Paul's Cathedral, at the Eastern end of the North Aisle, which portion was shut off by high railings. These railings have, with the consent of the Parish, been removed; and the old limits are now marked by inscribed tiles. At the Western entrance is the inscription, "Limen Ecclesiæ antiquæ Parochialis S. Fidis, Virginis et Martyris;" and on the South side, "Limitem meridionalem antiquæ Ecclesiæ Parochialis S. Fidis, Virginis et Martyris, olim Cancellis inclusæ, definiunt hæ tesserae, A.D. MDCCCLXXVIII positæ."

It seems to have been not unusual to place in Cathedrals tablets on which the measurements of the building were indicated. Weever prints some verses engraven in the Cathedral of Notre Dame at Paris "to show the greatness thereof." Funeral Monuments, p. 172 (edition 1767).

G.—NOTE AS TO THE PERSONS WHOSE OBITS WERE OBSERVED IN S. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL.^a

Abingeworth, Johannes de. (Other authorities give the christian name as Jacobus.) Dugdale, 29, 390.

Acre, Godefridus de (or, de Castle Acre). Dugdale, 19. Priest. He gave land in Old Dean's Lane to the Dean and Chapter circa 1257. His obit was kept in the chapel of S. James. (Box 9, Nos. 342, 343, 344, 421, 496.)

Alanus, Capellanus, Alan, Chaplain to Pope Innocent III. P. Chiswick, between 1198 and 1216; P. Mora.

Alardus. Alardus de Burnham, D. circa 1204, died 1216.

Alicia Aurifrigeria.

Andegavensis, Willielmus. Can this be Angerus? (Andegavensis, i. e. of Angers), P. Kentish Town in 1104, Father of Thurstan, Archbishop of York.

Ayswy, Thomas. Otherwise Ashwy, Askewy, de Assheweye, and Eswy, P. Consumpta per mare in 1257. Le Neve.

Baldock, Radulphus, B. 1305-6—1313.

* Barton, The Lady. Dugdale, 29, 390.

Basset, Fulco, B. 1244—1259. Dugdale, 19.

Basset, Alanus et Avelina, progenitores Fulconis Basset.

^a The names marked with an asterisk do not occur in the list now printed from the Statuta Majora, but are introduced from other sources; some from the fine manuscript of the Cathedral Statutes in the Cambridge University Library, others from the Statuta Minora.

The letters following the several names are inserted in order to avoid the repetition of constantly recurring titles. B. stands for Bishop of London, D. for Dean of S. Paul's, P. for Prebendary. The word which follows P. is the name of the Prebendal Stall.

Where references to Dugdale or to my Registrum are given, the information found at those references will often be little more than a record of some matters connected with the foundation, amalgamation, or suppression of chantries.

The authorities used in the compilation of this list have been original deeds preserved in the Cathedral archive-room (and here I most gladly acknowledge my indebtedness to Mr. H. Maxwell Lyte, who has recently catalogued our records for the Historical Manuscripts Commission, and has supplied many particulars gathered during his examinations of these deeds); Le Neve's Fasti (edit. Hardy), Dugdale's S. Paul's, Dean Milman's Annals, Newcourt's Reperitorium, my own Registrum, &c. I have endeavoured to identify every name in the list, but in some few instances I have been unsuccessful. It is difficult in such identifications absolutely to avoid error; I have, however, taken considerable care in the preparation of the catalogue. The Index to Dugdale's S. Paul's will frequently supply many other references to the names of persons here enumerated. The notices of the more eminent persons, Bishops and Deans, have been condensed as much as possible; full particulars of their lives are to be found in Dugdale, Le Neve, Wharton, Newcourt, and other books of reference: the notices of the less known persons have been somewhat extended.

It is well worthy of notice that by far the greater number of these Obits were founded either by the Clergy for themselves, or by their relatives acting in their behalf.

H.—NOTE UPON THE TRACTS, ENGLISH, FRENCH, AND LATIN, ON THE BURNING OF THE SPIRE OF S. PAUL'S IN 1561.

1. The English Tract is printed in extenso in the present volume, pages 120—125: from a copy in the British Museum.

2. The Latin version is preserved in the Public Record Office. It is a small quarto pamphlet ($7\frac{3}{4}$ in. \times $5\frac{5}{8}$), consisting of four leaves, printed in italics with the exception of the title page.

Title. Exemplum literarum amici cuiusdam ad amicum quendam suum, de vera origine conflagationis pyramidis, & Templi Paulini Londinensis. [Then the text from Hiere. 18.] Excusum Londini, in Officina Johannis Day, 1561.

Introduction. Doctissimo & ornatissimo viro N. N. H. L. S. D. Non dubito quin varij rumores in omnes Christiani orbis partes de pyramidis & Templi nostri Paulini conflagratione brevi sint peruasuri. Putaui igitur mei esse officij pro antiqua inter nos amicitia veram rei gestæ historiam ad te mittere: vt potius ab oculato teste, quàm ab incertis & mendacibus rumoribus, totum hoc quicquid est, cognosceres.

Then follows the Tract itself, commencing “Mercurij die, qui erat quartus Junii,” which is little else than a copy of the record in the Bishop’s Registry, printed supra, pages 113—119. It ends with the words:—

“En calamitatis huius hystoriā eamq⁹ veram, & quæ sequenti die dominico pro concione illius occasione dicta sunt, habes, Tu hanc nostram qualemcunq⁹ opellam boni consule.

Vale London pridie Idus Junii.”

Notwithstanding the manner in which the capital letters are printed, I suppose we may take it that N. N. stands for the person receiving the letter, H. L. for the sender, and S. D. for the usual salutation. If so, who was H. L.? I cannot answer the question: the Bishop was Edmund Grindal, the Dean was Alexander Nowell, and no dignitary or prebendary connected with the Cathedral at that time possessed these initials; of course, the pamphlet may have been written by a layman. But certainly it is little more than a transcript of Peter Johnson's record, and the initials H. L. may have been assumed to cloak the piracy. I have only met with one copy of the tract. (The Press mark at the Record Office is Domestic, Elizabeth, 1561, May, June, 17, Art. 28.)

3. The French version is as rare as its companions. I only know one copy of it, which I succeeded in purchasing for the Cathedral Library a year or two ago. It is also a small quarto (the printed part of the page measuring 5 in. \times 2 $\frac{7}{8}$, the cover 6 $\frac{1}{4}$ \times 4), the body of the book in Roman type. I transcribe those portions which are peculiar to this version.

I.—NOTE ON THE BALLAD "PAUL'S STEEPLE."

What is the exact date of the Ballad in its present form? The original editor of it, Mr. Payne Collier, printed it from a manuscript collection of ballads in his own possession. He speaks of the volume as "in a handwriting of the time of James I."; but he states that "two, if not three, handwritings are to be found in it, the earliest beginning before the year 1600, and the latest continuing until after the Restoration."^a In this manuscript volume the ballad, the "Burning of Powles," is No. 34. Mr. Payne Collier does not state in which of the two or three handwritings it occurs.

Having some little doubt as to the precise age of the present form of the ballad, I applied to Mr. Chappell, who had published it in his Popular Music of the Olden Time, for his opinion upon the matter. He kindly allows me to print his reply. Every one who has paid attention to our ballad literature knows how competent a judge he is in such matters. He says: "The manuscript from which I printed the ballad of the Burning of Paul's Steeple was primarily taken from Mr. J. Payne Collier's Extracts from the Registers of the Stationers' Company (i. 40), and, secondly, from the manuscript itself. Mr. Collier dates the MS. as of the reign of James I. but as containing some older pieces. At p. 96 of my History of Popular Music I gave an instance of this: 'although the MS. is of the reign of James I. the ballett, Yf ever I marry, I will marry a mayde was entered at Stationers' Hall as early as 1557-8.' It is impossible to certify that a manuscript written some fifty or more years after date contains the ipsissima verba, yet the subject of the burning of Paul's Steeple must have been ephemeral, and it is reasonable to conclude that no professed ballad writer would reintroduce it within a few years after the event; while, on the other hand, it may have possessed interest to a collector when the facts had passed out of memory. I know of no second copy."

Hence we may conclude that the present copy represents the ballad in its original form, though possibly with slight variations made by the transcriber.

J.—EARLY DANCE TUNES, CALLED “PAUL’S STEEPLE” AND “PAUL’S WHARF,” WITH THE FIGURES OF THE COUNTRY DANCES ADAPTED TO THEM.

In the British Museum ^a will be found a copy of the second edition of a curious little volume:

The Dancing Master: Or, plain and easie Rules for the Dancing of Country Dances, with the Tune to each Dance, to be playd on the Treble Violin. The second edition, Enlarged and Corrected from many grosse Errors which were in the former Edition. London, Printed for John Playford at his shop in the Inner Temple, near the Church Door, 1652.

At page 81 is a tune entitled Paul’s Steeple, and at page 84 another tune called Paul’s Wharfe,^b and under each tune the figures of the dance adapted to it are set forth in detail. As the book is decidedly scarce, at least in its earlier editions, I have transcribed both the tunes and the instructions for the dances: and as the symbols which Playford employs have a very mysterious appearance, looking rather as if they represented some astrological mysteries than the intricacies of a country dance, I deem it necessary to add an explanatory note^c condensed from Playford’s own prefatory

^b This tune is also found in Queen Elizabeth’s Virginal Book. Chappell’s Popular Music, 130.

^c ♪ This stands for the Men, ☉ this for the Women, Wo. = Woman, We. = Women. _ stands for a strain playd once, ¨ stands for a strain playd twice. S is for a Single, that is two steps, closing both feet. D is for a Double, that is, four steps forward or back, closing both feet.

remarks. I will frankly say that I do not understand my own note: I have no definite idea as to what is meant by "single, that is two (!) steps, closing both feet."

Mr. Chappell, in his Popular Music of the Olden Time, observes that the ballad^a "Lament eche one the blazing fire" seems to have been intended to be sung to the tune called Paul's Steeple. The tune is also known by the name of The Duke of Norfolk, under which title it appears in Playford's Division Violin in 1685, where it is called, at page 2, The Duke of Norfolk or Paul's Steeple; and, at page 18, Paul's Steeple or the Duke of Norfolk.^b

"The Steeple of the old Cathedral of S. Paul's," Mr. Chappell observes, "was proverbial for its height." In the Vulgaria printed by Wynkin de Worde in 1530, we read, "' Poules Steple is a mighty great thing, and so hye that unneth [hardly] a man may discern the wether cocke, the top is unneth perceived.' So in Lodge's Wounds of Civil War, a clown talks of the Paul's Steeple of honour, as the highest point that can be attained."^c

"There cannot, I think, be a doubt," Mr. Chappell adds, that the Irish Cruiskeen Lawn, and the Scotch John Anderson, my Jo, are mere modifications of this very old English tune."^d

"A curious custom still remains in parts of Suffolk, at the harvest suppers, to sing the song, "I am the Duke of Norfolk,"^e one of the company being crowned with an inverted pillow or cushion, and another presenting to him a jug of ale, kneeling, as represented in the vignette of the Horkey." (See Suffolk Garland, 1818, p. 402.)

I proceed to give the two dance tunes, with the figures of the Country Dances adapted to them, exactly as I find them in Playford's Dancing Master in 1652.

Rather slow.

PAUL'S STEEPLE.

Musical score for 'Paul's Steeple' in G minor, 2/4 time. The score consists of four systems of two staves each (treble and bass clef). The melody is primarily in the treble clef, featuring eighth and sixteenth notes, while the bass clef provides harmonic support with chords and occasional moving lines. The piece concludes with a double bar line.

Gracefully.

PAUL'S WHARF.

Musical score for 'Paul's Wharf' in G major, 6/8 time. The score consists of two systems of two staves each (treble and bass clef). The melody is in the treble clef, characterized by a flowing eighth-note pattern. The bass clef accompaniment uses a simple harmonic pattern of dotted half notes. The piece ends with a double bar line.

K.—NOTE ON LOLLARD'S TOWER.

Dr. Maitland, in his Essays on subjects connected with the Reformation in England, was careful to correct a popular error as to the precise locality of Lollard's Tower. In a note on the Examination of Thomas Green, p. 24, he says that it was "the Bishop of London's prison at S. Paul's," and he adds, "I mention this because the name has been (only, I believe, in recent times, and quite improperly) applied to one of the towers of Lambeth Palace." It is very difficult, however, to root out a popular error, and the mistake is constantly repeated even at the present time.

There is no doubt whatever as to the precise spot on which this memorable tower once stood. In Stow's account of the Cathedral (Survey, edited by Thoms, p. 138), we read, "at either corner of this west end is, also of ancient building, a strong tower of stone, made for bell towers: the one of them, to wit, next to the palace, is at this present to the use of the same palace; the other, towards the south, is called the Lowlardes' tower, and hath been used as the bishop's prison, for such as were detected for opinions in religion, contrary to the faith of the church Adjoining to this Lowlardes' tower is the parish church of S. Gregory."^a And he goes on say that the last prisoner committed to this Tower was one Peter Burcher, gentleman, of the Middle Temple, who in the year 1573 had desperately wounded and minded to have murdered "a serviceable gentleman named John Hawkins, esquire, in the high street near unto the Strand." Peter Burcher was taken, and examined, and "was found to hold certain opinions erroneous, and therefore committed thither and convicted; but in the end, by persuation, he promised to abjure his heresies, and was by the commandment of the Council, removed from thence to the Tower of London."

^a Compare also Stow's Survey by Strype, i. 708.

I have met with no account of this part of Cathedral so graphic as that given in the Examinations and Writings of John Philpot (Parker Society, p. 86, 87; compare also Fox, vii, 647-8); he shall tell his own story:

"And he [Bishop Bonner] followed me, calling the keeper aside, commanding to keep all men from me, and narrowly to search me (as the sequel did declare), and brought me to his privy door that goeth into the church, and commanded two of his men to accompany the keeper, and to see me placed. And afterwards I passed through Paul's up to the Lollards' Tower, and after that turned along all the West side of Paul's through the wall, and passing through six or seven doors, came to my lodging through many straits: where I called to remembrance, that 'strait is the way to heaven.' And it is in a tower, right on the other side of Lollards' Tower, as high almost as the battlements of Paul's, eight feet of breadth and thirteen of length, and almost over the prison where I was before, having a window opening toward the east, by the which I may look over the tops of a great many houses, but see no man passing into them: and whoso walketh in the bishop's outer gallery going to his chapel may see my window, and me standing in the same."

In Fox's Acts and Monuments, in the edition of 1641, two woodcuts are given which purport to represent the interior of Lollards' Tower. The first of these, ii. 15, represents Richard Hun^a hanging from a beam in his prison. (He was found hanging in the dungeon, 4 Dec. 1514, and an inquest was held upon his body, Dec. 5 and 6. The full proceedings will be found in Fox.) If the gaoler's height may be taken as six feet, the cell would be about nine feet wide and eight feet high: the furniture of the prison seems to have consisted of a bed, with a bolster, a stool, and the stocks, "about 7 or 8 foot from the place where Hun was hanged," together with an earthen pot. The stocks would hold four persons.

The second woodcut, iii. 413, probably represents another cell; the inevitable stocks^a still form a prominent feature, but this time they are large enough to hold six persons. It is quite possible that both these woodcuts are purely works of imagination; as in the Nuremberg Chronicle, so in Fox, the same woodcut often represents individuals widely separated in date and in station.

Fox, trusting to the short memory or uncritical temper of his readers, is bold enough to employ the same woodcut at least a dozen times to represent different persons: but I do not observe that these two woodcuts are repeated, a circumstance which may be taken, perhaps, as a note of truth.

Those who once tasted the rigours of this prison seem to have looked back upon it with no very kindly feelings. Honest old Latimer says, "I had rather be in purgatory, than in the Bishop of London's prison; for in this I might die bodily for lack of meat, in that I could not." And again, writing to Morice, he says "I had rather be in it [i. e. purgatory] than in Lollards' Tower, the bishop's prison, for divers skills and causes."^b Tyndale was amongst the most noticeable of its prisoners.^c Some curious notices of the prison may be found in Select Poetry of the Reign of Elizabeth.^d I will extract two short references, the first from Thomas Bryce's Poem The Regester (September and December 1555), the second from some verses by one John Phillip.

When Richard Smith in Lowlar's tower,
Androwes and Kyng, by sickenes died,
In faier fieldes they had their bower,
Where earth and clay doth still abide;

^a See a very interesting allusion to these stocks in the Lyfe and Death of John Story, communicated to Notes and Queries, 5 S. x. 474, by Mr. Solly.

When they in this wise did die the death,
 We wishte for our Elizabeth.
 When godly Gore in pryson died,
 And Wiseman in the Lowlar's towre; &c.

And here they [i. e. Papistes] pric, and there they spic,
 Their equals forth to finde;
 And oft in Paules they parley forth
 Their spiteful cankered minde.

To the references here given may be added yet another, from Bishop Pilkington's little book, printed by Seres in 1562-3. "In the top of one of the pinacles is Loller's towre, where manye an innocent soule hais bene by theym cruellye tormented and murdered." (The burnynge of Paules Church, G. iiij.)

The Bishop's "Coal House" appears also to have been a place of imprisonment.^a Thomas Whittle dates a letter addressed to his "Prison fellows in Lollard's Tower" from "the Coal House, this 4th of December" 1556.^b

"In reference to this 'Coal house' it may be remarked, that this abode of so much misery, and the scene of so many prayers, formed part of the palace of the bishop of London, which stood at the north-west corner of the church yard, the present site of London-House-Yard, and extended itself to the walls of the old cathedral. Along the north side of the churchyard were a cloister, a burying ground, a library, a charnel house, and several chapels which had been partly destroyed in King Edward's days. Between Cannon-alley and Cheapside stood Paul's Cross; the Convocation House stood on the south side, and Lollards' Tower was over S. Gregory's church, which was attached to the Cathedral on the south-west corner, about the place where the clock-tower now stands. The 'Coal-house' was at the back of the palace in Paternoster Row, near the alley which passes from thence to S. Paul's Churchyard."^a

But why do we not see this Tower in Hollar's noble illustrations to Dugdale? Are the two low western towers of Hollar's views, which, as Mr. Edmund B. Ferrey has observed,^b are "little more than turrets, of a bastard-Italian style"—are these the original towers? Perhaps Lollards' Tower may be seen in Aggas' Map, but I am not quite certain whether that which I see is the tower of S. Gregory's Church. Perhaps it may be seen in Van den Wyngaerde's view in 1540, but in a bird's-eye view it is difficult to be certain. Thomas Stileman appears to have said, in 1518-21, "that he, being in Lollard's Tower, did climb up the steeple were the bells were, and there, cutting the bell ropes, did tie two of them together, and so by them slipped down into Paul's churchyard, and escaped."^c Was Lollard's Tower a bell-tower also? A clock face is shown on the western face of the Tower in Hollar's view of Inigo Jones' Portico.^d

L.—NOTE ON THE EARTHQUAKE OF 1382.

When Section XI. (Chroniculi S. Pauli London, supra, pp. 58-60) was printed, I had not seen any other version of the curious distich which occurs at the foot of p. 59. Mr. W. de Gray Birch has been so good as to direct my attention to another version of it, to be found in the Annales Monastici, iii. Annales de Bermundeseia, p. 480. The chronicler says :—

“Anno Domini M.CCC.lxxxii. et anno regni regis Ricardi secundi sexto. Hoc anno, litera Dominicalis E. xxi. die mensis Maii, scilicet feria quarta ante Pentecosten, statim post nonam fuit terræmotus magnus per totam Angliam. Unde versus:—

‘A. post Dunstanum, post tempus meridianum

C. cuculum vixi, terræmotum tibi dixi.’”

It will be remembered that the two lines stand in our Chroniculi in the following form:—

A. Post Dunstanum post sompnum meridianum.

C. Cuculum vixi terræ motum sic tibi dixi.

Through the courtesy of Mr. Frank Scott Haydon I am able to present yet a third reading:—

A. post Dunstanum post tempore meridianum

C. Circulum vixi terræ motum tibi dixi.

In this version the letter A is rubricated, but the letter C is in black ink.

We have, then, the important variations, post tempus meridianum, post sompnum meridianum, and post tempore, in the first line: circulum and cuculum, and, in the one case, the introduction of sic in the second line. Let us discuss these points separately.

Thomas of Walsingham's account of the earthquake should first be read:—

“Hac æstate, in Anglia terræ-motus est magnus, ubi raro cernitur vel auditur, duodecimo Kalendas Junii, hora nona, multorum mortalium corda deterrens. In Cancia tamen vehementius terra tremuit, in tantum, ut ecclesias quasdam concuteret et dirueret solo tenus. Secutus est et alius terræ-motus nono Kalendas ejusdem mensis, summo mane ante solis exortum; sed non ita terribilis sicut prior.—MS. Bibl. Reg. 13 E. ix.”^a

He says that the earthquake occurred “hora nona,” from which Stow no doubt derived his “nine of the clock.” The Annals of Bermondsey say, “statim post nonam.”

What is meant by hora nona? In the Benedictine houses in England Prime was said at six a.m. If this hour be taken as the commencement of the monastic day, then hora nona would be three o'clock p.m., and this was the hour of Nones, which followed the meridian sleep. (Mackenzie Walcott's Church Work and Life in English Minsters, i. 41.) If, then, we may take it that hora nona means three o'clock in the afternoon, there is no discrepancy between post sompnum meridianum and hora nona, or statim post nonam. (It had occurred to me to suggest that post nonam might be equivalent to post Nonas, but we are not driven to this suggestion.)

In the second line two versions read Cuculum and one reads Circulum. Circulum vixi has, of course, this great advantage over the reading, Cuculum vixi, that it is capable of being construed; whereas it is very difficult to extract any satisfactory meaning from Cuculum vixi. But if we are to accept Circulum, then the Chronogram is destroyed. A high authority in the British Museum tells me that he has never met with a Chronogram of so early a date. But certainly it is a most remarkable coincidence that the letters CVCVLVM VIXI should give the date 1382 accurately. If this be a mere coincidence, I can only say that it is a very striking one. On the whole, I am disposed to adhere to the explanation attempted on page 60, and I venture to urge as an argument in its favour, that of the three versions of the distich now before me, the only versions of it with which I am acquainted, two read cuculum against one which reads circulum; and that, whereas it is hardly to be imagined that any scribe would change circulum into cuculum, it is easily to be credited that he might change cuculum into circulum. It is, I believe, a canon of criticism, "Proclivi lectioni præstat ardua." If two readings of the same passage were encountered, and if the authority of each was equal, the harder of the two was most likely to be the original, as it was more probable that a transcriber would change a hard word into an easy one, than that he should substitute a difficult word for one generally understood. This consideration, and the fact that the numerical value of the words supplies a Chronogram, lead me to conclude that the more difficult reading, Cuculum vixi, is the best.

Mr. Hubert Hall, of the Public Record Office, suggests an ingenious conjectural emendation of "Cuculum vixi," viz. "Cucullum vixi" = I was a monk.

The suggestion is very ingenious; but it destroys the Chronogram. It has also been suggested that "C" stands for the third hour of the afternoon.

M.—CHRONICULI S. PAULI LONDON^a AD ANNUM 1399.

In principio creavit Deus cœlum et terram, et omnia quæ in eis sunt.

Sexto autem die a creacione mundi factus fuit prothoplastus Adam.

Prima ætas mundi ab Adam usque Noe, secundum Ebræos, continet mille sexcentum quinquaginta sex annos; secundum Septuaginta interpretes, duo milia ducentos quadraginta quatuor annos; secundum vero Jeronimum, non plene duo milia; secundum [Meth]-odium, duo milia: cujus diversitatis hæc est causa, quia isti non computant secundum morem Sacræ Scripturæ temporum vel annorum, quæ semper millenis atque centenis annis.

A principio mundi usque ad diluvium Noe duo milia ducentos quinquaginta sex annos. Secunda ætas a Noe usque ab^b Abraham continet, secundum septuaginta interpretes, mille septuaginta duos annos: secundum Ebræos, mille ducentos viginti duos annos.

Tercia ætas ab Abraham usque ad David continet, secundum Ebræos, octo centenos quadraginta duos annos; secundum autem Septuaginta interpretes, multo minus, quoniam deficiunt in dubiis annis.

Quarta ætas a David usque ad transmigracionem Babilonis continet, secundum Ebræos, quatuor centenos septuaginta tres annos; secundum Septuaginta interpretes, parum minus, quia deficiunt in uno.

^a In pages 58 to 60 of the present volume the concluding portion of this Chronicle has been printed. It has been suggested to me that it would have been better to have printed the Chronicle in its entirety. If the portion here exhibited be prefixed to that already printed, loco citato, the reader will have before him the whole of this curious little manuscript. As this early part of the Chronicle does not refer in any way to S. Paul's Cathedral, I have refrained from adding annotations.

Quinta ætas a transmigracione Babilonis usque ad Christum continet quinque centenos octoginta quinque annos; secundum alios, quinque centenos nonaginta novem annos.

Sexta ætas a Christo usque ad finem mundi.

REPORT OF THE COUNCIL
READ AT THE GENERAL MEETING
ON THE 3RD MAY, 1880.

THE Council of the Camden Society elected on the 2nd May, 1879, regret the loss of the following Members by death during the past year :—

Ven. GEO. BLAND.
Right Hon. LORD CHELMSFORD.
Rev. ARCHER CLIVE.
CHARLES DOWNES, Esq.
Right Hon. RUSSELL GURNEY.
Right Hon. SIR R. T. KINDERSLEY.

The following have been elected during the same period :—

FRANKLIN BARTLETT, Esq.
WYNNE C. BAXTER, Esq.
WILLIAM BETHELL, Esq.
Rev. W. E. BUCKLEY.
JAMES E. DOYLE, Esq.
Rev. J. WOODFALL EBSWORTH, M.A.
Rev. THOMAS FRANCIS KNOX.
Right Hon. THE EARL OF ROSEBURY.

The books for the past year have been :—

I The Economy of the Fleet, containing an Account of the state of the Fleet Prison in the time of James I. Edited by the Rev. A. JESSOPP, D.D.

II. The Hamilton Papers, 1638-52, being a Selection from Original Letters preserved in the Library of His Grace the Duke of Hamilton. Edited by SAMUEL R. GARDINER, Esq. (Now ready.)

III. A Collection of Documents, relating to St. Paul's Cathedral. Edited by the Rev. W. SPARROW SIMPSON, D.D. (Nearly ready.)

The volumes to be issued in 1880-81 will probably be—

I. The Puritan Visitation of the University of Oxford. Edited by PROFESSOR MONTAGU BURROWS.

II. Two Chronicles of the Reign of Henry VI. with other Documents relating to the same period. Edited by JAMES GAIRDNER, Esq.

As the first of these two works equals in bulk two ordinary volumes, it is not proposed to issue a third volume in the forthcoming year.

It will be remembered that in their last year's report the Council proposed to the General Meeting of the Society to proceed with the printing of the General Index, and that their proposal received the support of the Meeting.

In accordance with this resolution 155 pages were printed off, bringing the Index down to the word "Beaumont." At this stage, however, a letter was received from Mr. Gough dated Oct. 4, 1879, in which he stated that in consequence of the state of his health he was obliged to abandon all hope of carrying out the work to completion. In consequence of this communication it was finally arranged that Mr. Gough should hand over to the Society the whole of his MS. Index and should release the Society from all claim to further payment, which claim was estimated in the Report of last year at £475.

As soon as the MS. was in their hands, the Council requested Messrs. Moore and Kirk to examine its condition. The result of this examination was to show that it would be possible to abridge the index very considerably without any detriment to its value, and that in all probability it could be reduced to 1,400 pages instead of the 2,000 at which the original MS. was estimated. This would, however, involve considerable labour, much of which, however, would be in any case unavoidable, as the MS. is not in a condition to be printed off even as it stands.

Messrs. Moore and Kirk have offered to undertake this work for a payment not exceeding £500. The Council has thought it best to propose to the General Meeting that a sum not exceeding £500 shall be applied to the completion of the index by a person competent to the undertaking, if the Council shall deem it hereafter to be for the best interests of the Society that this work be completed.

It will be observed that the maximum sum here indicated exceeds that which was estimated as payable to Mr. Gough under the original contract only by £25, whilst the saving in the expense of printing by the abbreviation proposed may probably be estimated at from £350 to £400, upon the estimate of £1,425 given in last year's Report.

By order of the Council,

SAMUEL RAWSON GARDINER, Director.

ALFRED KINGSTON, Hon. Secretary.

REPORT OF THE AUDITORS.

WE, the Auditors appointed to audit the Accounts of the Camden Society, report to the Society, that the Treasurer has exhibited to us an Account of the Receipts and Expenditure from the 1st of April 1879 to the 31st of March 1880, and that we have examined the said accounts, with vouchers relating thereto, and find the same to be correct and satisfactory.

And we further report that the following is an Abstract of the Receipts and Expenditure during the period we have mentioned :—

[illegible]

And we, the Auditors, further state, that the Treasurer has reported to us, that over and above the present balance of £596 4s. 1d. there are outstanding various subscriptions of Foreign Members, and of Members resident at a distance from London, which the Treasurer sees no reason to doubt will shortly be received.
